TAFT URGES AID TO LAW

Federal Courts Asked to Join

Chief Justice Calls Jurists to Back Up Hoover's Hopes on Crime

Public Warned to Be Patient, in Statement Issued on Conference

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (AP)—Chief Justice Taft, in behalf of the annual conference of Circuit judges over which he presided, issued a statement today calling on Federal courts throughout the country to aid in accomplishing the reforms which President Hoover hopes will result from his Law-Enforcement conference headed by former Atty.-Gen. Wickersham.

The Chief Justice warned the public that it must not look for too much improvement in law enforcement. He said, "The conference only rejoices at the urgent demand by the public generally for more efficiency, more speed and more certainty in the prosecution of criminal law which has led to the appointment by the President of a great commission for investigation and adoption of new methods, and a greater efficiency of search in the consideration and prosecution of crime.

"The Federal system for the punishment of violations of the Federal criminal statutes offers an opportunity to the Federal courts to lead in the matter of this reform," he said.

CHANGES SLOW

"Congress has been engaged in the last few years in stiffening the punishment of violations of Federal law and in rendering more efficient the procedure in such cases, but the working out of these changes is necessarily slow, and we must not look for too rapid improvement. Much remains to be done in this regard."

The conference will ask Congress to provide that all criminal cases may be expedited as soon as they reach a Circuit Court of Appeals, and to be heard not later than the month following that in which they originate.

Commenting on the work of the lower courts to prevent congestion, the conference found that during the year there had been no increase in the number of cases on the docket, the number of pending cases, however, On June 30, 1929, there were pending in the federal courts 149,933 cases, compared with 147,142 a year previous, of which 21,900 were criminal, compared with 20,375 a year previous. The largest single class of cases are those under the prohibition law, of which 11,237 civil and 9,036 criminal were brought during the year ending June 30, 1929, compared with 9023 civil and 8,000 criminal during the previous year.

A large part of the increase in criminal cases was attributed to conditions along the Canadian border

Five Wounded Captured and Fifty-five Dead Picked Up on Manchuli Front

[Copyright, 1929, by Chicago Tribune.]

HARBIN, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—An official report from the Manchuli front states that Chinese troops captured five wounded and picked up fifty-five dead soviet soldiers today as a result of the renewed battling of late last week when a soviet detachment was caught by a concealed machine gun in the Chinese lines. One wounded Red officer was captured.

The appearance of soviet planes over the Hailar and other railway stations 300 miles this side of the border is causing refugees to flock here on every train, and also leading to the apprehension that soviet planes shortly will fly over this city, which is about 500 miles from the border, although the Chinese military authorities do not believe the soviet planes will be able to transport bombs here.

Mukden is sending planes here for the purpose of opposing soviet planes, but it is believed that the Chinese lack sufficient trained aviators to oppose the soviet planes effectively.

Japanese reports state that the soviets shelled the town of Hunchun, in the southeastern corner of Kirin Province, adjacent to the Korean border, causing many casualties among Chinese military and civilians.

NEW SQUAD TO MOP UP

Washington Wet Spots Doomed

Undercover Flying Force Organized for Latest Dry-Law Drive

Police, Justice Department and Prohibition Groups United in Move

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—District police, Federal prohibition agents and investigators of the Department of Justice have combined forces in an attempt to mop up the wet spots in the national capital.

A new undercover flying prohibition enforcement squad, recruited from district and Federal personnel, was organized at a conference in the offices of U. S. Atty. Rover.

The squad is composed of two detectives, two Federal prohibition agents and a Department of Justice agent, and it will work under the general direction of Harold W. Orcutt, assistant United States Attorney in charge of prohibition in the Federal attorney's office.

IDENTITY HIDDEN

Identity of members of the squad will be kept a secret as long as possible and as soon as the personnel of the group becomes known new members will replace the present members. According to present plans, members of the special squad will not take part in raids based on evidence that they obtain.

Reports of dry-law infractions will be turned over to Orcutt and, as soon as the assistant District Attorney decides that adequate evidence is in hand, a warrant will be asked and sent in a sealed envelope to the police precinct in which the suspected premises are located.

WHITE HOUSE SILENT

White House officials declined to comment on whether the formation of the new squad and the renewed interest shown by Washington enforcement officials in the capital liquor situation is the outgrowth of President Hoover's recent statement that he intends to make prohibition enforcement in Washington a model for the rest of the country.

There is no doubt, however, that the recent Congressional criticism of wet conditions in the capital is responsible for the formation of the dry squad.

Although Washington generally is regarded as a city of "home drinkers," members of Congress have asserted that much liquor is sold in speakeasies. Senator Howell, Republican of Nebraska, recently charged that Washington drinking could be greatly reduced if district officials would make a real effort to drive out bootleggers.

HAVANA, Oct. 6. (AP)—Formation of a new tropical cyclone in the vicinity of Santa Lucia Island was reported in a bulletin issued tonight by Father Gutierrez Lanza, meteorologist of Belen Jesuit College.

The report said, "Observations taken last night and throughout today, together with reports from the Barbados and Santa Lucia Island, indicate formation of a cyclonic perturbation west of Santa Lucia apparently moving in a westerly direction with unknown intensity."

Dr. Carlos Millas, head of the National Observatory, said he had no supplementary report to make, but that it was almost certain that storms of unknown intensity were brewing.

STRATEGY OF UNIONISM AS EXEMPLIFIED HERE

Set Program of Organizers and Strike Leaders in Long War Against Los Angeles Open Shop

This is the seventh of a series of articles on the Los Angeles war for the open shop. Others will follow daily.

In yesterday's article of this series The Times told why the American Federation of Labor, operating from the strongly unionized city of San Francisco, found it necessary, as a measure of self-protection as well as of settled policy, to begin a campaign against the rapidly growing open-shop industries of Los Angeles.

In all of these activities the Federation's agents followed an almost identical program. It is the same which has characterized its efforts in every city in which it has ever operated, with one important modification to be discussed later. In order to make understandable much of what follows, it is necessary at this point briefly to describe this set strategy, with which Los Angeles had its first serious experience at this period.

The first step in the unionization of an industry is to assign an organizer or organizers to the task of persuading its artisans to become members of the union to be formed. In most cases these organizers are outsiders, often sent from some other city for the purpose. They are professionals, men selected for their plausible approach, mixing ability and capacity for smooth persuasion. Their pay ordinarily is proportionate to their success in "signing 'em up." Often they manage to secure employment in the establishment to be unionized, partly to mask their purpose from employers, partly to get quicker and more intimate contact with the workingmen.

ORGANIZING METHODS

Commonly the establishment is one where the men have little or no experience with unions, where the wages and hours are the going ones for similar work elsewhere in the community and where, except for an occasional malcontent, the men are reasonably satisfied with their jobs. The organizer's first task is to locate the few who are openly dissatisfied and ally them in his cause. Thereafter, singly and in groups, the other employees are told of the supposed benefits of unionism. Definite promises of higher wages, shorter hours, better working conditions, are made to them as inducements to sign. They are told, which appears plausible, that their employer will be in no position to refuse their joint demand, as they will have the power to force a shutdown of his plant by walking out.

Of what will happen if he should resist and fill their places with others, little or nothing is said. Nor is there anything in the program by which the union proposes to benefit its members save at the direct expense of the employer. On the contrary, the lazy and inefficient are told that, if they join, they will be enabled to earn as much as anyone else on the job, that there will be no further necessity for special effort or for self-improvement in order to hold their jobs, that young men will be kept out of apprenticeships so that union members will have a minimum of competition.

STRIKE ORDERED

In such an establishment as that described and provided the organizer knows his stuff, as he usually does—his own salary depends on it—it is usually a fairly simple matter to sign up a majority of the workers. Those who refuse, by reason of past experience with similar promises or perception of their economic fallacy, are commonly in the minority.

Given, say, 75 per cent of the industry's pay roll pledged to follow the union's orders—the same program having been carried out in other like establishments of the community—the next step is an effort to make good on the promises made. A demand is made upon the several employers simultaneously for higher wages, shorter hours, better working conditions or perhaps recognition of the union. The latter means, in effect, recognition of the union's authority—in other words, acquiescence on the part of the employer to the rules of the closed shop. Such a demand for recogni-

LINDBERGH PEEPS AT PAST

Pilot Takes Two Archaeologists Over Ancient Mayan Ruins in Central American Jungle

MIAMI (Fla.) Oct. 6. (AP)—Flying his amphibian plane, symbol of modern civilization, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today piloted two archaeologists over hitherto unexplored ruins of the ancient civilization of the Mayas in the Central American wilderness between Belize, British Honduras, and Merida, Yucatan.

The flight, according to reports received here by M. J. Rice, local traffic manager for the Pan-American Airways, started at 10:15 a.m. and landing was made in Merida at 3:45 p.m. Col. Lindbergh was accompanied by Dr. Alfred Kidder and Dr. Oliver Ricketson, Carnegie Institute scientists, Mrs. Lindbergh, and a co-pilot. The aerial explorations are sponsored by the Pan-American Airways.

Further trips are planned over Yucatan, Quintana Roo and Chiapas, Mex., Guatemala, and British Honduras. Cozumel Island, off the east coast of Yucatan, and known site of many remains of the Mayan culture, may be made the base for the expedition.

The civilization of the Mayas generally is credited by modern scholars as having been the most advanced on the American continents prior to the coming of the white man, even surpassing that of the Aztecs and Incas. Some experts have said the Mayan culture was ahead of the contemporary European civilization of the "dark ages." The Mayan calendar recently has been declared more accurate than the present western calendar and the fine arts of the Mayas, such as painting, sculpture and architecture, have aroused intense interest and admiration among archaeologists.

Exploration hitherto has been handicapped by the dangerous maze of jungles that isolate the Mayan ruins and Col. Lindbergh's flights are an effort to overcome this ruthless grip of the wilderness and discover more secrets of ancient America.

No details of today's flight were received here, but one radiogram from the expedition to Mr. Rice said "detailed report tomorrow."

COSTE AND BELLONTE SET RECORD

French Plane Reported Safe in Manchuria After Flight of 5500 Miles

PARIS, Oct. 6. (AP)—The Air Ministry tonight claimed a new world record for airplane distance flight in a straight line for Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte. Advices received by the Ministry and the Foreign Office said the aviators who left Le Bourget Air Field early on the morning of September 27 had landed on September 29 in good condition in the vicinity of Taitsi-Har, northwest of Harbin, Manchuria.

Unofficial estimates of the distance covered by the red Breguet sesquiplane, without having details of the complete route followed, ranged from 5500 miles to nearly 6000.

The French aviators thus appeared to have set a record at least 1000 miles greater than that which the Italians, Arturo Ferrarin and Carlo Del Prete, established in July, 1928, by a flight of 4475 miles from a point near Rome to a beach ten miles north of Natal, Brazil.

The official dispatches received here this evening set at rest the fears for the safety of the flyers which had steadily been increasing during the past week.

MEXICO'S NEW CODE EFFECTIVE

Bans Juries and Death Penalties for Ordinary Classes of Crimes

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 6. (AP)—A new Penal Code suppressing the jury system and death penalties for ordinary crimes was effective in Mexico today. The official Gazette published it yesterday. The code was promulgated by President Emilio Portes Gil under the extraordinary powers granted him by Congress.

Under the code the jury system is replaced by trial by bodies of alienists and other experts, and special committees are created to take charge of convicts on completion of their imprisonment so as to fit them to resume places in society. The imposition of fines hereafter will be in accordance with the income of the convicted person. If he has no money on hand, a third of his salary will be applied to the fine until payment is completed.

Under the code there is no penalty for the slayer of a wife or husband caught in adultery.

HOOVER AND MACDONALD AGREE ON NAVAL SLASH

Decision to Call Conference at London in January to Reduce Sea Forces Announced

MADISON (Va.) Oct. 6. (AP)—Sitting on a fallen tree, puffing at their favorite pipes, President Hoover and Prime Minister MacDonald today discussed the weather and the peace of the world.

Out of this simple setting came a decision that invitations will be dispatched tomorrow to the United States, Japan, France and Italy—to a conference on limitations of sea armament to be held in London the third week in January.

The invitations to the parley will be handed to the Ambassadors of the four nations at London by the British Foreign Office and the text will be made public Wednesday.

The final draft of the momentous invitation document was closely studied by the two statesmen as they sat in the primitive surroundings of the Virginia mountains disturbed only by the gentle cascade of the Rapidan River as it slips past the lodge of President Hoover. After this perusal came the announcement of the January conference.

Thus was concluded the naval limitation negotiations initiated several months ago and resulting in an agreement between the two nations for parity in all classes of fighting ships. The only points of difference remaining are on comparatively minor details and these have been left to the forthcoming parley.

The conference in January will seek an agreement limiting all categories of fighting ships not affected by the Washington treaty of 1922. This pact imposed a gross tonnage limitation on capital ships and aircraft carriers, provided a ten-year holiday in the construction of battleships, and fixed a tonnage ratio for capital ships of five for the United States, five for Great Britain, three for Japan and one and seven-tenths each for France and Italy.

The United States intends to propose that the capital-ship holiday be extended from 1931 to the expiration of the Washington treaty in 1936, presupposing another general conference at that time, which may see the elimination of the battleship as a fighting unit.

The recent negotiations between this nation and Great Britain, carried on in personal conversations between Prime Minister MacDonald and Ambassador Dawes in London, dealt almost entirely with cruiser strength. The virtual agreement reached would apply the Hoover "yardstick" to measure fighting strength.

YARDSTICK APPLIED

Under it, the British would have a gross cruiser tonnage of 339,000, and the United States 265,000 to 300,000. The only remaining point of difference deals with how 30,000 tons of cruisers shall be distributed by the United States, whether in three 10,000-ton cruisers with eight-inch guns or in four 7500-ton cruisers with six-inch guns.

Under the "yardstick" plans the fighting strength of the two fleets would be theoretically equivalent. This takes into consideration the age, speed, arms and armaments of individual ships.

To meet the widely differing needs of the two nations, Great Britain would have a preponderance of small cruisers while America would have an advantage in larger ships of this class.

Details of the agreement which have not yet been worked out are to be left to the general conference, which must approve the Anglo-American understanding before it can become effective.

France, Italy and Japan have been kept advised of the trend of the negotiations.

VIEW NATURE'S BEAUTIES

From after breakfast until after 11 o'clock, the President and Mr. MacDonald continued their conversations. Warm sunshine dispelled the sharpness of the mountain air, and they decided to prolong their being together for a long stroll down the Rapidan River.

They walked for nearly a mile to a point where the stream breaks into a series of cascades and there admired as well the brilliant yellows and oranges of the turning

HILO AGAIN SHAKEN UP

Quake Severest of Series

Patrons of Film House Grow Panicky and Dishes in Homes Broken

Water Tanks in Village of Holualoa Burst as People Rush Into Streets

HILO (T. H.) Oct. 6. (AP)—The severest shock of the present series of seismic disturbances shook the Island of Hawaii late last night, stampeding patrons of a motion-picture show into a panic and breaking dishes on pantry shelves of housewives. No one was injured and no serious damage was reported. Prof. Thomas Jaggar said he believes the shock probably was the last and most serious of the temblors.

Residents of the village of Holualoa said the quake which occurred at 10:20 p.m., was 500 per cent worse than any preceding. Furniture was toppled over, water tanks were burst, a stone wall was flung over and several persons reported the foundations of their houses were displaced. Many residents took to the streets to ride aimlessly about in motor cars.

Hilo shopkeepers, keeping late hours, fled from their stores along with their patrons, many spending the night in Mooheau Park. Rumors of a lava flow in the Kona district were unverified.

Soldiers at a camp near the Kilauea crater said there was a tremendous shock but reported no damage. They said there was no activity in the Halemaumau pit of the crater.

SOUTH DAKOTANS AWAKENED BY TEMBLOR

YANKTON (S. D.) Oct. 6. (AP)—What is believed to have been a slight earth tremor disturbed the sleep of Yankton residents at 6:30 a.m. today.

A deep rumbling, resembling distant thunder, accompanied by window rattling, was reported. Dishes were knocked from shelves in some homes.

Dry Agent and Sheriff's Aide Kill Each Other

NACODOCHES (Tex.) Oct. 6. (AP) Believing his honor as an officer had been questioned by Federal Prohibition Agent L. Chance, Deputy Sheriff Claude King avenged the supposed insult with a ready pistol today and Chance replied in kind.

Using the office of Sheriff Turner as the duelling ground, they shot it out, Chance falling dead instantly under the fire of King, who died a few hours later after an operation.

BANAL FILMS TO BE FOUGHT

New Czarina of Pictures Not Worried by Morals; Heroines Now Have Personality, She Says

CHICAGO, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—Banality, not immorality, is what threatens motion pictures, according to Mrs. Thomas G. Winters, former president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, who was named by representatives of eleven women's organizations at a conference in New York last week to act as a link between the film industry and the feminine public.

"I am not going out to Hollywood to reform the pictures. I'm not to be a censor, or even a critic," Mrs. Winters explained here tonight on her way from New York to Hollywood.

MRS. THOMAS G. WINTER

"I was appointed by women attending a conference of clubwomen, educators, psychologists, church people and picture producers, who met in New York at the instance of the producers, and I was hired by the producers. But I'm much more concerned in trying to reform the pictures of stupidity than immorality."

Mrs. Winters made it clear that she isn't going to Hollywood as an evangelist of "the woman's viewpoint."

"There is no 'woman's viewpoint,'" she said. "It is all bosh that women's minds are any different from men's. What men want in pictures women also want.

"Their interests are pretty much the same, except that women are more practical than men and less dependent. Women are no more concerned with love than men. It's just as vital to the happiness of men as to women. Men can be successful without it, but not happy."

After having made allowances for men and their emotional nature, Mrs. Winters went on to say that the films are getting away from the sentimental, vapid type of heroine, at any rate. The talkies have ushered in heroines with personality, not mere prettiness, she said.

For the last year Mrs. Winters has made her home in Pasadena, going there from her former home in Minneapolis because of her husband's ill health. She will have an office in Hollywood, but will continue to live in Pasadena.

PARIS THEATER SEASON OPENS

New Rothschild House Has Mechanized Stages

Fifteen-Act Play Presented Without Delays

Historical Drama Runs Until 1 o'Clock

PARIS, Oct. 7. (Monday) (AP)—The opening of the new Rothschild Theater Pigalle launched the winters' social and theatrical season last night. It also introduced to Paris mechanized drama which eliminates twenty-minute waits between acts.

Four electrically controlled stages moving on vertical and horizontal steel tracks presented a play of fifteen acts. The production, written by Sacha Guitry especially for the inauguration of the Rothschild Theater, was selected to demonstrate the lighting possibilities and technical perfection of the new theater.

Two operators can run the show, it is said, one controlling the switchboard and the other manipulating the stage shifting-gear.

The play, entitled "Histories of France," so fully covered its subject and there was such an array of talent in the cast that the performances lasted until after 1 a.m., notwithstanding the wonderful machinery.

A Test Every Man Past 40 Should Make

Medical authorities agree that 65 per cent of all men past middle age (many much younger) are afflicted with a disorder of the prostate gland. Aches in feet, legs and back, frequent nightly risings, sciatic pains are some of the signs—and now a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science has written a remarkably interesting free book that tells of other symptoms and just what they mean. No longer should a man approaching or past the prime of life be content to regard these pains and conditions as inevitable signs of approaching age. Already more than 50,000 men have used the amazing method described in this book to restore their health and vigor—and to restore the prostate gland to its proper functioning. Arrange immediately for this book. Call in person if possible, otherwise mail your request to the Electro Thermal Company, Dept. ISHBEL WINS MRS. HOOVER

Premier's Daughter and First Lady Hike, Ride and Chat Freely at President's Mountain Camp

MADISON (Va.) Oct. 6. (AP)—Ishbel MacDonald and Mrs. Herbert Hoover today made friends in the way any two women will when they are free to talk about common interests alone together in an atmosphere they both enjoy.

Khaki-clad, they rode horseback and walked secluded on the mountain heights of the President's Camp Rapidan, turning in conversation from bettering the education of the world's youth to the magic beauty of early fall outdoors.

IN SEPARATE CABINS

They rested tonight in separate cabins high on the edge of the Shenandoah National Park, the daughter of the Prime Minister of Great Britain occupying a two-room cabin alone, within a stone's throw on one side the First Lady of the United States retired in the President's lodge. On the other side of Miss MacDonald's cabin her father slept in another two-room cabin.

Rising early, Miss MacDonald went to the main dining hall of the camp to breakfast with Mrs. Hoover. They lingered over the meal after the men of the party had started for a walk and then went on an inspection tour of the camp at the suggestion of the hostess.

Later they took a horseback ride of more than two hours' duration over the rugged trails back of the camp, returning just in time for a brief rest before luncheon. Bereft of formality and with the responsibilities of the most important households of their respective countries barred from intrusion, the two women talked almost continuously as they rode among the vast stretches of forest land made more beautiful by the changing season.

AFTERNOON HIKE

In the afternoon, disclaiming any fatigue after their ride, the two women set off on a hike in the opposite direction from their morning trip.

Conversation turned to things impersonal but very close to the hearts of both. Some one had mentioned President Hoover's suggested school for the mountain children of the vicinity and this was the beginning of a discussion of the needs of youth throughout the world. The talk broadened to include the many things both women would do on behalf of others.

leaves. The stream was running high and the President had the opportunity to point out some of his favorite fishing holes.

Mrs. Hoover and Ishbel MacDonald meanwhile went horseback riding over a ridge of the mountains which commanded an excellent view of the Blue Ridge. They were gone for more than two hours.

Dinner was served at 2 o'clock and a general conference followed. Those who participated, in addition to Mr. Hoover and Mr. MacDonald, were Secretary Stimson, Undersecretary Cotton of the State Department, who reached the camp today; Sir Robert Van Sittart, MacDonald's private secretary, and R. L. Craigie, chief of the American section of the British Foreign Office.

The conference lasted for a considerable time and after it the party, with Mr. Hoover acting as guide, went up a hill in the opposite direction from the morning trip for a view of the surrounding country from the mountain top. The walk both from the lodge and return was made slowly in order that none of the party, most of whom are not accustomed to the ruggedness of the mountainside, would tire during the trip.

RIVER CAMP ADMIRED

Upon inspecting the camp today, the Prime Minister manifested particular interest in the luxury of its appointments and the facilities so unexpected in the fastness of the mountain wilderness. The Prime Minister stayed in one guest lodge, his daughter Ishbel in another, the Secretary of State staying in still a third.

The stay at the camp will be virtually the only recreation in the American countryside which the Prime Minister will enjoy during his trip to the United States, his other time being spent either in traveling or in keeping engagements which already have been made.

The start for return to Washington will be made from the camp at 7:30 a.m. after an early breakfast, the party arriving in the capital in midmorning.

Most important in the Prime Minister's program for Monday is the state dinner to be given in his honor at the White House by the President and Mrs. Hoover. The dinner, to which the highest officials of the government and the most important persons in the Congressional circles have been invited, will be in the nature of the social climax for the Premier's visit to this country.

The Prime Minister's other engagements include a trip to Congress, where he will visit both the House and the Senate.

Woman Victim of Auto Robbed

INTER-AMERICAN ROAD MEN MEET

Conference on Huge Project Will Convene Today

Leaders of Many Nations Will Be in Panama City

Several Links in Continental Highway Now Built

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—Highway problems confronting countries of Central America, including the question of United States co-operation in surveying the route of the inter-American Highway are to be discussed at the Central-American Road Conference which opens tomorrow in Panama City, according to a program announced today by the Pan-American Confederation for Highway Education. Invitations to the conference which was called at the suggestion of the Pan-American Confederation for Highway Education have been sent to all Central-American republics and Mexico, and material progress is expected to be made in the solution of many mutual road problems.

The conference has been called by the government of Pan-America to coincide with the arrival of the United States delegation which attended the second Pan-American Congress of Highways at Rio De Janeiro during August. Since leaving Rio the delegation has made a series of visits to South American countries where they have conferred with government officials and other prominent leaders in connection with highway matters.

GREAT QUESTION UP

This delegation, which will arrive in the United States, November 1, next, is composed of J. Walter Drake, former assistant Secretary of Commerce, chairman; Representative Cyrenus Cole of Iowa, Thomas MacDonald, chief of the United States Bureau of Public Roads; Frank T. Sheets, chief highway engineer for Illinois, treasurer of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, and Frederic A. Reimer, president of the American Road Builders' Association. Senator Tasker L. Oddie of Nevada, also a delegate to the Rio congress, returned to this country early in September.

One of the big questions around which much discussion will center is the construction of the Central American link of the Inter-American Highway. While a number of countries, such as Panama, El Salvador and Mexico, already have begun construction of their sections, having finished several long stretches, others are meeting with financial and technical difficulties, and it is to solve these that strenuous efforts will be made by all delegates to the conference.

LINKS BEING BUILT

That stretches of the Pan-American Highway rapidly are being built and extended and that within a comparatively few years the major portion of this undertaking will have been completed, has been ascertained by a survey made by the American delegation on its trip from Rio through Argentina and up the west coast of South America. In the countries of Peru and Chile alone, the delegation found there now exists a highway paralleling the coast which starts at San Diego, Chile, and continues northward with but minor breaks to within a short distance of the northern border of Peru, a distance of more than 3000 miles.

With interest in automotive transportation widespread virtually every country to the south of the United States has mapped out comprehensive highway programs which upon being carried out will mean the virtual completion of the inter-American highway. Only a few stretches then will need to be connected to link all the countries of the western hemisphere with a modern motor highway.

OTHER LINKS PLANNED

Highways recently built and being built in Central and South America are of modern construction and compare favorably with many to be found in the United States, the delegation found. This is true of the Mexican and Salvadorean sections of the proposed highway, the location of which already has been decided upon and on which construction already has started. Other countries of Central America have sections of paved highway that need only to be linked together to form a part of the project.

Mexico already has begun construction of a highway from Texas to its southern border, where it will link up with one now being planned by Guatemala. Honduras, Salvador, Nicaragua and Costa Rica are also either building or planning their highways, while Panama has completed many miles of road construction.

It is presumed that the Pan-American Highway in South America would follow the line of least resistance which naturally would be along those highways now built or building and adding connecting links. From Colombia through Ecuador into Peru and from Santiago, Chile, through Argentina and Uruguay to Rio De Janeiro, Brazil, there are many miles of first-class motor roads now in existence, the delegation found. As money and materials become available the construction of connecting links will be undertaken.

PLEA MADE FOR DEAF

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6. It is contended segregation builds a feeling of self-consciousness which materially hinders scholarship development.

Craft Plunges to Earth From 1500 Feet and Digs Deep Into Ground

LEONA (Tex.) Oct. 6. (AP)—Lieut. Jack Brooks, Dallas contractor, and three passengers were killed this afternoon. Brooks's airplane crashed near here, after a wing buckled.

The other dead are:

Leon Lynch and Allen Powell, Centerville youths, and Maryin Botter of Teague.

The wing gave way at an altitude of 1500 feet, and the ship shot to earth with the disabled wing folded back over the cockpit. The nose of the ship was buried deep in the earth.

All are believed to have died almost instantly.

in condemnation proceedings of land for government use and to suits arising out of the war.

The conference found that all of the circuit courts throughout the country, with the exception of the sixth, clean up each year all cases brought before them, and the conference stated that the sixth with its judges restored to health and with the assistance given them will soon catch up.

The appointment of additional district judges at Los Angeles, New York City and for Minnesota was recommended. The conference pointed out that Congress should authorize the appointment of a judge to take the place of Judge Winslow, who recently resigned, and that Minnesota should have another district judge at once.

The conference urged Congress to expedite action to provide another judge for the middle district of Pennsylvania. The Senate now has before it the name of Albert L. Watson of Scranton, selected by the President for the judgeship.

Changes in the rules in padlock cases, asked by the district judges at New York City, were referred to the Supreme Court for its consideration in view of Constitutional questions involved.

D.A.R. Rebuked in Pulpit for Aid to Shearer

BOSTON, Oct. 6. (AP)—The Daughters of the American Revolution were condemned here today at the Copley Methodist Episcopal Church in a sermon delivered by Rev. William L. Stidger, in which he suggested a Senate investigation of the D.A.R. and kindred organizations "which have allowed themselves to be made tools and accessories" of William B. Shearer.

Mr. Stidger said, "The next institution to be the D.A.R. A lot of old ladies who sit at home basking in the unearned increment of dead ancestors, satisfying their sense of self-importance by sending forth the stupid propaganda of war and allowing William B. Shearer to use their organization as a cat's paw to rake the hot coals out of the fire."

SALINA, Oct. 6. (AP)—An hour after her disappearance today from a southbound Southern Pacific Passenger train, Miss Rose Page, 48 years of age, Palo Alto, was found seriously injured beside the railroad tracks seven miles north of here. She had either fallen or jumped from the speeding train, which had been searched after she was reported missing by a traveling companion, Miss Albertina Dutra, also of Palo Alto.

GIRL CAR RACER BANDIT SUSPECT

Chicago Prisoner Admits Being Joan La Costa

Auto Speed Pilot Accused in Hotel Hold-up

She Poses as Bootlegger's Wife to Hide Identity

CHICAGO, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—The trim young woman who tried robbing a guest of the Chicago Beach Hotel last Thursday with chloroform and a toy pistol told the Hyde Park police tonight that she is Joan La Costa of Memphis, Tenn., a professional automobile racing driver who gained wide publicity in 1926 when her car burst into flames in a speed trial at Daytona Beach, Fla. In 1925 she held the unofficial title of world's champion woman auto race driver.

For two days the girl insisted she was Mrs. Josephine Rust, a native of Birmingham, Ala., and the wife of a Canadian bootlegger. Her story was that her husband had driven her to the hotel, thrust into her hands the imitation pistol and a wad of cotton drenched with chloroform and commanded her to get the jewels of the woman in room 802.

The intended victim, Mrs. Elsie Bobbe, grappled with the girl until other guests and hotel attendants came to her aid.

Rust, the young woman admitted with sobs tonight, is a fictional character invented to conceal her true identity, save her parents disgrace and divide the burden of guilt. She gained knowledge of Mrs. Bobbe's residence, habits and jewels through an acquaintance with her intended victim's brother-in-law, Hyman Bobbe, she said.

Hyman Bobbe, a man of 50, was informed by the police of the girl's statement and went to the station with his wife. He said he is acquainted with Miss La Costa and recalled what he thought was an innocent discussion of his brother's affairs with her. He was not detained.

Miss La Costa said she spent her time at aviation fields and race tracks, where she lost most of her money. She will be arraigned in felony court tomorrow morning on charges of assault and attempted burglary.

UNION STRATEGY IN LOCAL WAR

How "Organizers" Go About Creating Closed Shop

Strikes Called to Fulfill Pledges to Joiners

Picketing and Violence As Usual Sequels

ion, of course, is only the precursor of their demands.

Knowing, as often happens, that the employees are no justice in the grievances or are economically unable to meet them, the union's next move ordinarily is to call a strike. This may or may not be preceded by a vote of the union membership, as the case set and without regard to any possible moral obligation to complete the work in hand or to its own fellow members is required to lay down his tools and walk out.

It is important to repeat here that no reasonable person objects to the voluntary organization by the workers or themselves in defense of their legitimate rights, to make joint demands on their employers for such raises or to quit in a body if the demands are refused.

It may be said further that especially in the early days of the country's industrial development, such strikes were often justifiable and necessary in the interests of justice to the workingman. Combinations of capital oppressive to labor were much more common then than, formerly, they are now; though they are by no means unknown today. Efforts by all legal means to oppose these is not only justifiable but a duty.

It is the methods employed to gain its ends, however, that unionism, misadministered, becomes an evil. Conditions created by misdirection and supported by a system of blackmail can only be obtained by illegal means.

In the supposititious case mentioned, typical of the methods employed against Los Angeles industries, the employers fill the places of them as best they may and as their wheels turning, at first at reduced production but gradually approaching as the new men are trained to it. As this means defeat for the primary purpose of the strike, the strike leaders consider it must be prevented at any cost. The plants are picketed by strikers and their sympathizers in an effort to force their operation by any means which—a step often declared by the courts to constitute illegal intimidation, even where the picketing is not accompanied by violence.

When Picketing and Violence Ensue

Typical Strike Activities in Los Angeles and San Francisco

At the top is a group of Los Angeles pickets outside an open-shop foundry during the ironworkers' strike here in 1910. Below is a photograph of a group of strikers, strike sympathizers and rioters at Twenty-fourth and Potrero streets, San Francisco, just after a street-railway strike began (1916) in which one man was shot and killed and three others, employees of the railway company, were wounded.

VIOLENCE FOLLOWS

In the nature of things, picketing cannot long remain peaceful. Employees are argued with in order to persuade them to join the union. This failing, they are called "scabs," threatened and sometimes attacked, beaten, maimed, and outright. Union "entertainment committees," composed of professional sluggers, have reduced this phase of strike violence to a science whose efficiency is attested by an appalling record of dead and injured. The efforts of employers to protect their workers by appeals to the authorities result in rioting and terrorism. The plants themselves are frequently attacked, burned and dynamited; their product boycotted, damaged or destroyed as opportunity offers; their officials assailed, injured, slain. Any in the community daring to raise his voice against this reign of lawlessness is apt similarly to be visited with concrete evidence of union disfavor. Sympathetic strikes of allied industries are called and other large groups of union members forced to give up their employment, notwithstanding that they have themselves no grievance. Each new strike adds its quota of violence.

Occasionally a "general strike" of all unionized industries is ordered, spelling complete paralysis to a thoroughly "organized" community. The authority of the police, of the courts, of the city, State and even the Federal government to keep order and protect life and property is defied. In its last extreme, such misdirected unionism and anarchy are synonymous. Apart from wilful destruction of property, its economic losses—to the strikers in wages, to industry in interrupted production, to the community in interference with business and to the authorities in their effort to enforce the law—are prodigious.

Of course, not all nor even a majority of strikes reach the extremes described. But that, on the whole, this is no exaggerated picture will become evident as this narrative proceeds. That, grim as they have been, the experiences of Los Angeles with such industrial nightmares have been comparatively alight, is due solely to the city's steadfast adherence to the policy of the open shop. What degree of similar immunity we shall enjoy in the future will be directly as that policy is supported and maintained.

Tomorrow's article will deal with some of the early attempts of San Francisco agents of the American Federation of Labor to bring about the unionization of Los Angeles.

WINNIPEG (Man.) Oct. 6. (AP)—The bleak sub-Arctic stretches of Canada's northwestern prairies today held fast the secret of the fate of seven airplanes, two of them lost for a month and the five others, searching for the first two, unreported for several days.

Only reports of falling temperatures came over the radio from the three bases from which aviators have flown in search of Col. C. D. H. McAlpine and seven companions who left on a prospecting trip in two airplanes a month ago.

One of the searching planes, piloted by "Punch" Dickens, widely known airman of the Northwest, has been unheard from for five days.

Search directors expressed the belief that the four other planes, unreported for three days, are waiting for more favorable weather.

BORGER (Tex.) Oct. 6. (AP)—Borger's transition from a "free" oil town of 10,000, with a murder on an average of every six weeks, into a peaceful community virtually has been accomplished by National Guardsmen without mishap.

Only two shots, both accidental, have been fired since martial law was declared here last Monday. Khaki-clad patrolmen direct traffic without the ordinary back-talk from motorists. Drinkers stay at home and lock the doors before imbibing. The lady barbers have discarded their pajamas.

The town seems to be in for a cold peaceful, "dry" winter. Since Dist.-Atty. Holmes was assassinated, September 13, last, the invasion of Texas rangers and the subsequent arrival of the military, many changes have taken place. City and county officers have been deposed with soldiers taking their places. Numerous bootleggers and questionable women have obeyed orders to "leave town by sundown." Saturday night, ordinarily the night on which oil-field workers came to town for their fun, has become the "nicest" night of the week.

The Police Court docket yesterday showed only two arrests for intoxication, and both of these before 7 p.m.

TOMB RECEIVES GERMANY'S IDOL

Body of Dr. Stresemann Laid to Final Rest

Throngs Crowd Reichstag to Pay Respects

Communists Only Group to Withhold Tribute

BERLIN, Oct. 6. (AP)—Gustav Stresemann, Foreign Minister of the German republic and an outstanding leader in efforts to bring peace and stability to war-torn Europe, today was buried with ceremonies shared in by Germans of all political complexions except extreme Nationalists and Communists.

The ruffle of muffled drums and the roar of black streamered airplanes circling above sounded throughout the great Reichstag Square, where 20,000 persons packed every inch of space and waited hours to pay the last honor of the nation to the man who had worn himself out in its service. Dr. Stresemann when he died suddenly last Thursday was only 51 years of age and his physicians said he repeatedly had disregarded warnings that his health could not stand the strain of his intensive work.

PACKED HUMANITY

Today the treetops and even the top of the great Victory Monument in the square were crowded and the silent mass of humanity on the ground was held close-packed by rows of police in gleaming helmets.

Within the Reichstag the air was heavy with the scent of flowers banked about the bier, which was flanked by tall candles on the raised dais of the President's chair. Uniformed students formed the guard of honor. All members of the legislative body were present except those of the extreme Right and Left.

Diplomats in their brilliant uniforms were in the balcony beside the former imperial box. The house rose as Frau Stresemann and her two sons entered the box with President Von Hindenburg. The latter appeared to have aged as he slowly descended the steps. The Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra played the overture "Coriolanus."

HIS EULOGY

The work of Dr. Stresemann raised Germany "from helplessness back to an equal place among nations," said Chancellor Herman Mueller as he began his eulogy.

"Dr. Stresemann will go down in history as the builder of Germany's resurrection. It is our task to continue his work in his spirit. We have lost a great statesman and leader who, in the words of Goethe, was a man and that means fighter."

The funeral cortege was headed by a corps of mounted police and following the body on foot were the Stresemann sons, President Von Hindenburg, Sir Eric Drummond, Secretary-General of the League of Nations; Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, President of the Reichsbank; Vice-President Von Kardorff of the Reichstag and the entire diplomatic corps. Automobiles carried nearly 1000 mourners, including the mother of Dr. Stresemann and other women relatives.

On the way to the cemetery the procession paused for two minutes in solemn silence below the black-draped window of the former office of Dr. Stresemann above the entrance to the Foreign Office in Wilhelmstrasse.

Confident of Outcome on Flexible Phase

Senators Counted on to Reverse Decision

Opposition Equally Certain of Bill's Defeat

BY LAURENCE M. BENEDICT
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—Observers are speculating as to just how much real basis there is for the optimism that has been in evidence on the Republican side of the Senate chamber during the last three days of tariff debate.

Leaders whose faces denoted nothing but despair last Wednesday while the Democratic-insurgent coalition was rolling up a majority of five against President Hoover and the flexible tariff are now blissfully assuring constituents not to worry, and repeatedly asserting everything will come out all right in the end and that there will be a tariff bill.

The assumption seems to be that a month or two hence, after the sixteen rate-levying schedules have been thoroughly dissected and put together again with extra favors for gentlemen now off the reservation, enough Senators will change their minds to restore the flexible provision and send a finished product to the White House for approval.

FARM BILL PRECEDENT

The foundation for such an assumption perhaps lies in the fact the Senate has no real pride of opinion, and frequently reverses itself in the interest of political expediency. The Senate did just that, it is recalled, in the farm debenture fight last spring. Twice it insisted that the debenture amendment remain in the farm bill. But when it finally became apparent that further insistence would mean defeat of the legislation, the stubbornness disappeared and the bill went sailing along.

Administration leaders now apparently believe the tariff will follow the same procedure. That is, that it will go to conference without the flexible provision, the House will refuse to concur in that feature, the Senate conferees will recede and bring back a report with the provision put back in the bill. Then the Senators who are interested in increased rates for interests in their respective States and who by that time will have gotten them, will either change their votes or conveniently absent themselves from the chamber, permitting the measure to go through. It will be just as easy as that, say the Republican optimists.

COUNT ON THESE

They are even beginning to single out the individual Senators who will desert the coalition when the final showdown comes. Of course, Trammell of Florida is a certainty.

Dill of Washington is another Democrat for whom the administration forces are angling with fair prospects of success.

Among the Republican insurgents, Nye of North Dakota and Schall of Minnesota are regarded as possible converts.

Another prospect is Pine of Oklahoma, who also comes up for renomination next year.

With Trammel's vote assured the Republicans need only two more switches or four absentees. Therefore, it appears to be a comparatively simple matter. Four votes needed and four weeks or more to get them. Easy. So the Republican reasoning goes.

THE OTHER SIDE

But looking at it from the other viewpoint it may not be so delightfully simple after all. In believing they can repeat the debenture victory the Republican leaders may be overlooking several factors. In the first place, the farm bill was a comparatively simple proposition, for everybody favored it in principle. The tariff, on the contrary, is the major dividing line between the parties and is the most complicated of all legislative measures, and practically the entire Democratic side is compelled to vote against it to the end, even though most of the Democrats do want the bill enacted.

Time is now operating to the advantage of those who would like to kill the tariff. October is well along and to date there has been no discussion and no vote on the rates, which constitute 90 per cent of the measure. And an agreement apparently has been reached by leaders on both sides, whereby the special session will not run beyond November 16, for a reason which is extremely practical.

Under the law Senators or Representatives cannot collect mileage between sessions unless the session is long enough to permit all of them to make a trip home and return before the date set for reconvening. The Constitution provides that the seventy-first Congress shall meet in regular sessions on December 2. Therefore, if men from the Far West are to make that imaginary trip home the recess must be for at least two weeks.

MILEAGE ITEM

It may be hard for some people to believe that United States Senators—statesmen all—are interested in such tidbits as mileage but the fact is they are. At 40 cents a mile for one way the member from the Pacific Coast gets a Thanksgiving present of $1200, and to some of them that is a very important item. Even those living close at hand do not like to miss out on this mileage bonus.

The time is rapidly approaching, therefore, when the filibuster will be a potent weapon for those who would use it to wreck the bill, and there has been at least one distinct threat that it will be resorted to—from Blaine of Wisconsin. If opponents can stall off a vote until November 16, they are morally certain that the Senate will take a recess. Then in December, when the tariff meets head-on with appropriation bills and countless other subjects which have been delayed since last March, it will be much easier to delay a final vote or even to shelve the whole bill indefinitely.

There you have the two main sides in current tariff speculation. Most seasoned observers believe that somehow in the final analysis a bill will be passed and approved by the President. But there are a lot of keen onlookers who believe otherwise.

RICHEST ASH MAN IN DUMPS

Veteran Maine Cinder Collector Afraid Rivals Will Hear of $1,500,000 Legacy and Grab Trade

PORTLAND (Me.) Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—Having been definitely assured he has inherited $1,500,000, Herbert L. Pye, veteran ash collector is a worried man today. He pleaded earnestly with reporters not to let word of his legacy get out.

"If that story spreads, boys," he said, "I'm ruined. There are a lot of other ash men in Portland, don't forget. Competition in this business is terrible. Once my customers get the notion I'm rich, they'll give all their trade to my rivals."

Halted by the dire prospect, Pye was grimly silent while he toted three brimming barrels of clinkers from a Pine-street cellar.

"Shucks," he said, "who knows what kind of a millionaire I'll make? I don't know if I'll like it. I've never had any practice at being rich."

Back again on the seat of his rickety one-horse wagon, he reluctantly confirmed recent newspaper stories from New York telling of the fortune left him by George E. Rice, millionaire soap manufacturer, whom he saved from drowning forty-five years ago.

"Yep, it's all true enough," said Pye. "But I haven't got my fingers on the cash yet. I don't see any reason to be hurrahing about it anyhow. It isn't going to help me in my work any."

WIFE BUSY, TOO

Visions of wealth certainly had not made much change in Pye's routine today.

When interviewers sought the ashman-millionaire at his shabby waterfront flat at 6 a.m., Mrs. Pye greeted them with surprise.

"Oh, you'll never find Pa here as late as this," she said. "He went to work a couple of hours ago."

Like her husband, Mrs. Pye was not inclined to be talkative on the subject of money of important quantities.

She said she was busy and proved her point by itemizing a few of her household tasks. She keeps house for a sizable family; besides herself and husband there are three grown daughters two sons-in-law and three grandchildren. All occupy the none-too-spacious Pye tenement.

"I don't know what good $1,000,000 would do me," said Pye. "I dont' have time to go gallivanting."

BOY HERO REMEMBERED

Pye, now 61 years of age, was a mere boy on the day he saw Rice, then a struggling manufacturer, floundering in the water off Orr's Island where he had been thrown when his boat capsized. He dived in and rescued the New Yorker and thereafter every year Rice visited Portland on vacation.

When Rice stopped coming to Maine he wrote Pye that he never would forget his act, and, it is understood here, although Pye declines all comment, that his appreciation was expressed in his will which leaves his entire estate to the Portland ash man. Rice died several months ago.

TWO DIE ON TRACKS

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 6. (AP)—Two lives were lost in railroad accidents in and near Sacramento today. George Borgia, 12 years of age, was killed when he was struck by a Southern Pacific gravel train. Harry Morris, 36, a member of the Sacramento Fire Department, was killed near Colfax in a similar accident.

SUPREME COURT TO BEGIN TERM

Justices Return With Vigor After Summer Rest

Three Hundred Cases Will be Decided Quickly

Changes Possible on Bench; Three Can Retire

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (AP)—The Supreme Court will begin a new term tomorrow with all nine justices present, but faced with the prospect of a change in personnel in the near future.

The justices have returned with vigor renewed during the recess, including Chief Justice Taft, who was ill when the last term ended in June, and Justice Holmes, who last March celebrated his eighty-eighth birthday. During the vacation it was not all rest and recreation with the justices, who have been examining during their absence from Washington papers in the 300 cases on which they will act during the next two weeks.

THREE CAN RETIRE

Three members of the court are eligible for retirement, Justices Holmes, Van Devanter and Brandeis. Justice Holmes on several occasions has announced that he will remain on the bench as long as his physical and mental faculties, which show no dimming, will permit. Justice Van Devanter became eligible last spring, but has yielded to urging of his colleagues to remain on the bench. How long he will continue is uncertain.

Justice Brandeis has for three years been eligible but he has shown no inclination to leave the work in which he takes such deep interest. He is likely to remain on the bench as long as his excellent health remains unimpaired.

While no controversies of great outstanding national importance are pending, the court is confronted with more than 400 cases in all. Of these it will attempt to take preliminary action in 300 during the first two weeks, when it will devote its attention exclusively to weeding out those on which it has no authority to pass.

COURT CATCHES UP

Although cases will continue to be filed at the rate of three a day, the court early next year will have practically caught up with the docket, and have few cases awaiting to be considered on their merits.

When it meets on Monday the court has planned to receive such motions as may be offered to adjourn to pay its respects to President Hoover. It will hold no sessions during the remainder of the week, but will hand down on Monday, the 14th inst., its orders in approximately 150 cases. On that day it also may hand down opinions in some of the fourteen cases which were argued last term and are now ready for decision, the most important being one from Nebraska to determine whether States may require railroads to remove grade crossings on farms which are crossed by their right of way. The lower courts have sustained such laws.

Oral arguments for the term will not begin until the 21st inst., when several cases advanced last term will be heard, the first being an attempt by 400 railroads to set aside an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission reducing rates on deciduous fruits shipped out of California.

Outstanding among the few cases of national interest now pending is that brought by the Federal Radio Commission to determine whether it has authority to restrict radio broadcasting stations in the time they may be on the air, the General Electric Company having succeeded in the lower courts in having such an order restricting the time of its broadcasting station WGY at Schenectady set aside.

GIRL STRUCK BY TRAIN UNHURT

Child Has Almost Miraculous Escape from Injury by Engine

APPLETON (Wis.) Oct. 6. (Exclusive — An almost miraculous escape from injury was experienced here by Mary Brouillard, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Brouillard, when she was struck by the engine of a fast-moving passenger train and thrown into the air. The girl turned over eight or ten times before striking the ground, and witnesses rushed her to a doctor's office, believing she was fatally injured. An examination revealed that her body wasn't even bruised.

Girl Convicted of Grand Theft

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. (Exclusive) Pretty Miss Martha Bosworth, former bookkeeper of the New Dots Sash and Door Company, Brooklyn, did not really steal $1800 from the company. The treasurer of the company, Samuel Levine, gave her that sum to buy herself an automobile as a reward for "long and faithful service."

That was her story to a jury before Kings County Judge McLaughlin. The jurors, however, convicted the girl of grand larceny a few hours later but recommended clemency because the girl related that Levine demanded the return of the automobile after she refused to make a week-end trip with him in 1928.

Insanity-Murder Law Faces Test

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6. (AP)—Constitutionality of the 1927 California law which permits a defendant charged with murder to plead not guilty by reason of insanity is to be determined by the United States Supreme Court.

The State Supreme Court granted the petition of William "Red" O'Brien to carry up his appeal from conviction of the murder of William C. McFarline, cashier of a branch of the Bank of Oakland, on a petition for a writ of review.

CHILDREN GET OWN INSURANCE

Pupils Organize School Casualty Company

Ten-Cent Policies Sold to Cover Damages

SHEBOYGAN (Wis.) Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—With a 12-year-old boy as president, other 12-year-olds as adjusters and almost $50 in the treasury, the Lincoln School Glass Casualty Company, organized at the Lincoln school here last spring, is functioning as effectively and earnestly as insurance companies with million-dollar assets.

The company fills a dire need at the Lincoln school, where a limited playground makes it hardly possible for the 500 children not to break windows in playing ball. The space in front and at the side of the school grounds is used to park automobiles, so the chances of breaking windshields and windows of cars are great.

Insurance policies sell for 10 cents and protect policy-holders against window breakage from ball playing on school days between the hours of 7:45 a.m. and 4:45 p.m. A clause protecting against breakage by football is yet to be written into the policy. The policy covers windows in near-by buildings and passing cars as well as the school.

"Stones don't count," Gordon Hildebrandt, the president, tells children at the school in explaining the benefits of the insurance. Neither will the insurance company protect a child by issuing a policy after he has broken a window. Protection is only for those who hold policies at the time of window breakage. Once the insurance company has paid for a window broken by a policy-holder, the policy-holder must renew protection by paying another 10-cent premium.

CASES INVESTIGATED

Before the insurance company replaces broken windows Hildebrandt and three other officers, acting as a board of adjusters, interview the child who broke the window and all witnesses. They then decide if the window was broken accidentally and should be replaced by the company. A crack in a window is not considered a break and the pane will not be replaced. When proof is found that breakage was due to carelessness on the part of the child the company stands only half of the bill.

"We pay half to keep faith," said Arnold Keppler, 12, secretary of the organization, adding naively: "If we didn't we couldn't sell any more insurance. Some of the kids are tough to sell to anyway, until they smash a window. Then they come with their dimes."

The company was organized by eighth-grade pupils who had been studying insurance, its history, varieties and purposes as part of their course in economic arithmetic, taught by Elva W. Seideman, vice-principal. The course also includes the study of credit and finance.

"One Twelfth Dozen . . . Assorted"

THIS is the RETAIL age. The time was when a bank the size of this would deal almost wholly in large transactions, with a comparatively small circle of heavy users of money and credits. That day has passed. In this new day, our strength lies in direct contacts, in a mutiplicity of accounts, doing a great many "small" transactions for many people.

"One twelfth dozen, assorted" used to be a joke in merchandising. It isn't a joke now. Modern distribution methods go down through the channels of trade... jobber, wholesaler, retailer... reach the consumer with the exact article which suits that person's tastes, ideas, necessities and means.

We have superior facilities for doing "big things" for the larger concerns, but we also seek the business of the great multitude of individuals. With our complete and very varied "line" of banking services, we can deliver to each his or her "twelfth of a dozen" in bank protection and guidance.

WATER-SHARING STIFF PROBLEM

International Commission's Difficulties Set Forth

Rivers Crossing Boundaries Raise Questions

"Times" Forecast of Meeting Confirmed Officially

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—The Interior Department issued a statement today confirming the dispatch to the Los Angeles Times of several weeks ago which stated that the International Water Commission seeking to work out a division between this country and Mexico of the waters of the Rio Grande, Tia Juana and Colorado rivers will be resumed here the 21st inst. The conferees last met in Mexico City, August 20, and were in session three weeks.

In its statement the department outlined the tremendous importance of getting an agreement on water rights in these international streams—an importance only realized by officials of the two governments in the last ten or fifteen years. The statement also touches on some of the difficulties involved in coming to an amicable understanding with Mexico.

CASE AT TIA JUANA

"The Tia Juana River, for example," says the department, "has tributaries on both sides of the boundary. It begins south of the line and empties into the Pacific Ocean about two miles north of it. During the Spanish occupation of Mexico it was valuable only as a watering place for the longhorn herds of cattle that ranged on both sides of the line. Today it is doubtful if there is anywhere . . water supply where an acre-foot has greater value.

"This value has developed because the location of the stream in the vicinity of San Diego, Cal., where the climate is attractive but water scarce, presents great possibilities. The river is now looked to by San Diego as a means of reinforcing its water supply and on the other side of the boundary a development not unlike that of California is going on with golf courses, tennis courts and splendid hotels at Agua Caliente.

"To hold and make available the waters of one tributary of the Tia Juana River the Mexican government is spending $14,000,000 on a dam and reservoir. The United States is prepared to spend whatever money is required to conserve the entire surplus water in a reservoir located on the international boundary.

IMPORTANT WATER

"The waters of the Rio Grande are of much greater importance. On the American side the skill of irrigators in Southwestern Texas since 1890 converted 560,095 acres into continuous market gardens, interspersed with orange and grapefruit orchards. The crops are about one-half cotton, one-fourth truck, one-eighth citrus and the balance miscellaneous. There are about 145 separate irrigation enterprises now operating, and almost all take their water by pumping. The total diversion is estimated at 856,000 acre feet in 1928. The total value of existing irrigation works is about $20,000,000.

"This has stimulated development on the south side of the boundary in Mexico, which, though smaller, is making great strides because it has the active support of the Mexican government, which is building a costly dam and irrigation works at Don Martin on the Salado River and projecting other equally important works on the Conchos and San Juan Rivers—tributaries of the Rio Grande.

"There are 291,000 acres of land now being irrigated in Mexico. Private development has reached a point where the entire low-water flow of the unregulated river is required. The extension of the area without injury to what is being already cultivated requires the building of two or more large storage dams in the channel of the main stream. One of the problems which confronted this commission was to work out the plans and program for the building of these works as international enterprises.

"On the Colorado River the commission confronts these conditions: Two hundred and forty-two thousand square miles of the watershed of the Colorado is in the United States. Two thousand square miles is in Mexico. Mexico contributes nothing to the water of the stream. It all comes from the United States. Approximately 100 miles of the river channel is in Mexico. This traverses the delta which has been built up in ages past by the silt deposited by the Colorado. Before irrigation began the river in flood wandered all over the delta without any defined channel or with a channel likely to be changed by each successive flood.

Since irrigation began in Imperial Valley the irrigators there have sought by means of levees to keep the river within bounds or at least to keep it from breaking over and flooding the irrigated farms. The difficulty of doing this grows out of the fact that where formerly the silt carried down by the river was spread over a large territory each year the levees keep it confined to a narrow strip which is being built up at an accelerated rate and the rise in the level of the channel of the river makes it necessary to keep raising the levees.

CAN'T GO ON THIS WAY

"It is evident that this cannot continue much longer and the conviction that levees are not a solution of the permanent protection of these lands has led to the movement of control of floods by building reservoirs in the main streams large enough to hold at least one year's flow of the river. That was the origin of Boulder Dam. Without it the inundation of the lands between the United States and Mexico within a brief period is almost inevitable. Building Boulder Dam, therefore, is of as great benefit to Mexico as it is to the Imperial Valley.

"The commission therefore is confronted with the questions of the proper division of the water and some arrangement for the control of floods between now and the time when Boulder Dam is far enough advanced to regulate them. An outlet channel to the Gulf for whatever surplus waters flow down beyond the United States after Boulder Dam is completed must be provided."

NATIONAL AIR TOUR AVIATRIX INJURED

TOURISTS OF SKIES REACH MONTREAL

Girl Contestant's Hand Broken in Strange Mishap; All Will Hop Off Today

MONTREAL, Oct. 6. (AP)—A fleet of forty-one airplanes, the contestants and guest ships in the 5000-mile national air tour through Canada and the United States, landed at St. Hubert airport here this afternoon after a hop from Ottawa.

Earlier in the day the aviators had hopped off from Toronto for Ottawa. They reported the day's flying was marred by only one mishap. In landing at Ottawa Miss May Haizlip of Kansas City, one of the contestants, was struck on the left hand by a small unidentified object and the second carpal bone was fractured.

At the time of the impact Miss Haizlip was reaching to press back her goggles and her hand probably prevented serious injury to her eyes.

The flyers will leave Canada tomorrow in a hop to Portland, Me.

John Livingstone of Aurora, Ill., retained his leadership in the contest; Art Davis of Lansing, Mich., hung on to second place; M. E. Zeller of Dearborn, Mich., was third, and D. M. Hackman of Farmingdale, N. Y., fourth.

A huge, two-motored transport ship shouldered into the money, rating firth place, under the guidance of J. W. Croswell.

GIRL FOUND DEAD IN CAR ON DESERT

Hose Carried Exhaust Fumes Into Closed Goupe; Identity Uncertain

FLORENCE (Ariz.) Oct. 6. (AP)—The body of a young woman believed to be Miss Evelyn Johnson of Eugene, Or., or Spokane, Wash., was found today in a coupe near a lonely Arizona desert road, west of Florence.

Attached to the exhaust pipe of the machine was a twenty-five-foot garden hose leading into the car, the windows of which were tightly closed.

Beside the body was a certificate of title to the car, which bore a Washington license, an insurance policy and an unsigned note reading: "If anyone should find me, I ask them to do the kindness to not report it, but to take my car and contents and leave me here. I have signed my certificate of title in blank. No one I know, knows where I am or will try to find me."

A card bearing two addresses—Mrs. Thomas Barrows, 361 Leslie street, Salem, Or., and Eugene S. Barnes, 920 Roxbury Road, Beverly Hills, Cal., also was found.

CAFE HELD UP BY ROBIN HOOD

Nervy Crew of Bandits Keep Patrons in Gay Mood

Chicago Resort Guests Kept Prisoners Two Hours

Then Jolly Fellows Take $8200 Away With Them

CHICAGO, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—A modern Robin Hood, heading a merry crew of robbers, invaded the Palm Gardens, a resort on the Ridge Road in Oak Glen, southwest suburb, at 5 a.m. today and for two hours held the place and its guests in a complete though hilarious subjection.

Then they departed, taking along some $1200 of the cafe's money and in addition jewelry belonging to patrons at an estimated value of $7000. County police from Homewood soon took up the chase, but an all-day search resulted in no trace of the bandits.

A visitation of robbers is no uncommon occurrence in the life of Sam Fiddle, owner of the Palm Gardens. Today's experience was no less than the fifth of such for Sam during the past six months.

MUSIC STOPS

And so when the leader of the band announced his presence by arising from a wine table in the bar and firing a volley from his revolver into the floor, Sam merely sighed, punched open the cash register and stood aside. "Red" Norman immediately cut short the syncopations of his orchestra and the guests got ready to line up.

It took but a few moments for the robbers, who seemed to know their business, to get the $1200 from the cafe till and go through the pockets of the male patrons and strip the jewelry from the women.

From one of the patrons, who has not as yet revealed his identity, the gang leader took a gold star engraved "Chief's Staff, Gary police," and a .32-caliber revolver. The star was tossed contemptuously upon the floor, and the robber band, one by one, stamped upon it. The gun was pocketed.

LET'S HAVE SOME FUN

Their work done, the bandits instead of backing through the door with guns drawn in the conventional way, decided to have some fun.

Norman, the orchestra leader, was made to play his direiest tune, and the guests, many shaking in their shoes, were ordered upon the dance floor.

"Who smokes? It's all on the house," shouted one of the bandits bringing forth Fiddle's stock of cigarettes and distributing them with a free hand. Another groan escaped Fiddle when the bartender, Sam Kanobach, at the bandits' command loaded tray after tray of foaming beer and dispensed them to the crowd.

BEAUTY CONTEST HELD

For two hours, the merriment superseded the threatening muzzles of six revolvers. A beauty contest, in which Fiddle was himself an unwilling judge, was one of the diversions promoted by the robbers. And the winner, a timorous little girl, was awarded a prize of $25—paid with Fiddle's money.

Finally the bandits, tiring of the sport, raced away in their two taxicabs. But the guests suffered a disappointment when they sought to race after them in their own cars. For it was discovered that the robbers had destroyed the ignitions of all the thirteen machines parked in front of the cafe.

TWO MORE GUNS FOUND IN PRISON

Situation Still Tense at Canon City

Guards' Complicity in Plot Considered

CANON CITY (Colo.) Oct. 6. (AP) Discovery of two more revolvers and the belief that five convicts still are armed, served to make a tense situation at the Colorado State penitentiary here tonight, following the bloody mutiny in which twelve lives were lost last week.

Shortly after a second convict had been placed in solitary confinement during investigation of the riot, two pistols were found in a coal pile. Officers believe a shotgun, a 30-30 rifle and two more pistols are hidden somewhere in the prison.

A. H. Davis and Leo W. McGentry are held in solitary confinement as instigators of the riot.

Prison, local and State officials have promised that any man found guilty of conspiracy to aid in the riot will hang.

Three men are suspected. Davis and McGentry are two of the men who have come under official scrutiny as possible ring leaders in the conspiracy. The officials also are investigating the possibility that certain of the prison guards may have been involved in the plot.

Warden F. E. Crawford, given credit for ending the riot without a prisoner escaping, today refused to accuse any guard of having been implicated in the conspiracy.

The warden, however, did not deny that the revolvers used by the barricaded convicts might have been smuggled in by guards who were friendly to the prisoners.

BURIAL OF LIVING MAN CONFIRMED

Ex-Convict Faces Charge in Death of Faker When Interment Stunt Fails

VERSAILLES (France) Oct. 6. (AP) Henri Boulogne, tattooed former convict who confessed last night to accommodating Clement Passal, the false Marquis De Champaubert, by burying him alive, will be prosecuted for homicide by imprudence and for what the French code calls illegal possession of the corpse. If convicted of these crimes he risks sentence of two years in prison with a fine of 600 francs or less.

According to the statements of Boulogne, Passal died in his voluntary tomb within two days. It is supposed that the rubber tube leading to above ground through which he expected to breathe proved insufficient. The police were led to the discovery of the body by anonymous letters which said that "Knights of Themis" had buried a man alive.

WATER-SHARING STIFF PROBLEM

International Commission's Difficulties Set Forth

Rivers Crossing Boundaries Raise Questions

"Times" Forecast of Meeting Confirmed Officially

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—The Interior Department issued a statement today confirming the dispatch to the Los Angeles Times of several weeks ago which stated that the International Water Commission seeking to work out a division between this country and Mexico of the waters of the Rio Grande, Tia Juana and Colorado rivers will be resumed here the 21st inst. The conferees last met in Mexico City, August 20, and were in session three weeks.

In its statement the department outlined the tremendous importance of getting an agreement on water rights in these international streams—an importance only realized by officials of the two governments in the last ten or fifteen years. The statement also touches on some of the difficulties involved in coming to an amicable understanding with Mexico.

CASE AT TIA JUANA

"The Tia Juana River, for example," says the department, "has tributaries on both sides of the boundary. It begins south of the line and empties into the Pacific Ocean about two miles north of it. During the Spanish occupation of Mexico it was valuable only as a watering place for the longhorn herds of cattle that ranged on both sides of the line. Today it is doubtful if there is anywhere ... water supply where an acre-foot has greater value.

"This value has developed because the location of the stream in the vicinity of San Diego, Cal., where the climate is attractive but water scarce, presents great possibilities. The river is now looked to by San Diego as a means of reinforcing its water supply and on the other side of the boundary a development not unlike that of California is going on with golf courses, tennis courts and splendid hotels at Agua Caliente.

"To hold and make available the waters of one tributary of the Tia Juana River the Mexican government is spending $14,000,000 on a dam and reservoir. The United States is prepared to spend whatever money is required to conserve the entire surplus water in a reservoir located on the international boundary.

IMPORTANT WATER

"The waters of the Rio Grande are of much greater importance. On the American side the skill of irrigators in Southwestern Texas since 1890 converted 560,095 acres into continuous market gardens, interspersed with orange and grapefruit orchards. The crops are about one-half cotton, one-fourth truck, one-eighth citrus and the balance miscellaneous. There are about 145 separate irrigation enterprises now operating, and almost all take their water by pumping. The total diversion is estimated at 856,000 acre feet in 1928. The total value of existing irrigation works is about $30,000,000.

"This has stimulated development on the south side of the boundary in Mexico, which, though smaller, is making great strides because it has the active support of the Mexican government, which is building a costly dam and irrigation works at Don Martin on the Salado River and projecting other equally important works on the Conchos and San Juan Rivers—tributaries of the Rio Grande.

"There are 291,000 acres of land now being irrigated in Mexico. Private development has reached a point where the entire low-water flow of the unregulated river is required. The extension of the area without injury to what is being already cultivated requires the building of two or more large storage dams in the channel of the main stream. One of the problems which confronted this commission was to work out the plans and program for the building of these works as international enterprises.

"On the Colorado River the commission confronts these conditions: Two hundred and forty-two thousand square miles of the watershed of the Colorado is in the United States. Two thousand square miles is in Mexico. Mexico contributes nothing to the water of the stream. It all comes from the United States. Approximately 100 miles of the river channel is in Mexico. This traverses the delta which has been built up in ages past by the silt deposited by the Colorado. Before irrigation began the river in flood wandered all over the delta without any defined channel or with a channel likely to be changed by each successive flood.

Since irrigation began in Imperial Valley the irrigators there have sought by means of levees to keep the river within bounds or at least to keep it from breaking over and flooding the irrigated farms. The difficulty of doing this grows out of the fact that where formerly the silt carried down by the river was spread over a large territory each year the levees keep it confined to a narrow strip which is being built up at an accelerated rate and the rise in the level of the channel of the river makes it necessary to keep raising the levees.

CAN'T GO ON THIS WAY

"It is evident that this cannot continue much longer and the conviction that levees are not a solution of the permanent protection of these lands has led to the movement of control of floods by building reservoirs in the main streams large enough to hold at least one year's flow of the river. That was the origin of Boulder Dam. Without it the inundation of the lands between the United States and Mexico within a brief period is almost inevitable. Building Boulder Dam, therefore, is of as great benefit to Mexico as it is to the Imperial Valley.

"The commission therefore is confronted with the questions of the proper division of the water and some arrangement for the control of floods between now and the time when Boulder Dam is far enough advanced to regulate them. An outlet channel to the Gulf for whatever surplus waters flow down beyond the United States after Boulder Dam is completed must be provided."

TOURISTS OF SKIES REACH MONTREAL

Girl Contestant's Hand Broken in Strange Mishap; All Will Hop Off Today

MONTREAL, Oct. 6. (AP)—A fleet of forty-one airplanes, the contestants and guest ships in the 5000-mile national air tour through Canada and the United States, landed at St. Hubert airport here this afternoon after a hop from Ottawa.

Earlier in the day the aviators had hopped off from Toronto for Ottawa. They reported the day's flying was marred by only one mishap. In landing at Ottawa, Miss May Haizlip of Kansas City, one of the contestants, was struck on the left hand by a small unidentified object and the second carpal bone was fractured.

At the time of the impact Miss Haizlip was reaching to press back her goggles and her hand probably prevented serious injury to her eyes.

The flyers will leave Canada tomorrow in a hop to Portland, Me.

John Livingstone of Aurora, Ill., retained his leadership in the contest; Art Davis of Lansing, Mich., hung on to second place; M. E. Zeller of Dearborn, Mich., was third, and D. M. Hackman of Farmingdale, N. Y., fourth.

A huge, two-motored transport ship shouldered into the money, rating firth place, under the guidance of J. W. Croswell.

GIRL FOUND DEAD IN CAR ON DESERT

Hose Carried Exhaust Fumes Into Closed Goupe; Identity Uncertain

FLORENCE (Ariz.) Oct. 6. (AP)—The body of a young woman believed to be Miss Evelyn Johnson of Eugene, Or., or Spokane, Wash., was found today in a coupe near a lonely Arizona desert road, west of Florence.

Attached to the exhaust pipe of the machine was a twenty-five-foot garden hose leading into the car, the windows of which were tightly closed.

Beside the body was a certificate of title to the car, which bore a Washington license, an insurance policy and an unsigned note reading: "If anyone should find me, I ask them to do the kindness to not report it, but to take my car and contents and leave me here. I have signed my certificate of title in blank. No one I know, knows where I am or will try to find me."

A card bearing two addresses—Mrs. Thomas Barrows, 961 Leslie street, Salem, Or., and Eugene S. Barnes, 920 Roxbury Road, Beverly Hills, Cal., also was found.

CAFE HELD UP BY ROBIN HOOD

Nervy Crew of Bandits Keep Patrons in Gay Mood

Then Jolly Fellows Take $8200 Away With Them

CHICAGO, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—A modern Robin Hood, heading a merry crew of robbers, invaded the Palm Gardens, a resort on the Ridge Road in Oak Glen, southwest suburb, at 5 a.m. today and for two hours held the place and its guests in a complete though hilarious subjection.

Then they departed, taking along some $1200 of the cafe's money and in addition jewelry belonging to patrons at an estimated value of $7000. County police from Homewood soon took up the chase, but an all-day search resulted in no trace of the bandits.

A visitation of robbers is no uncommon occurrence in the life of Sam Fiddle, owner of the Palm Gardens. Today's experience was no less than the fifth of such for Sam during the past six months.

MUSIC STOPS

And so when the leader of the band announced his presence by arising from a wine table in the bar and firing a volley from his revolver into the floor, Sam merely sighed, punched open the cash register and stood aside. "Red" Norman immediately cut short the syncopations of his orchestra and the guests got ready to line up.

It took but a few moments for the robbers, who seemed to know their business, to get the $1200 from the cafe till and go through the pockets of the male patrons and strip the jewelry from the women.

From one of the patrons, who has not as yet revealed his identity, the gang leader took a gold star engraved "Chief's Staff, Gary police," and a .32-caliber revolver. The star was tossed contemptuously upon the floor, and the robber band, one by one, stamped upon it. The gun was pocketed.

LET'S HAVE SOME FUN

Their work done, the bandits instead of backing through the door with guns drawn in the conventional way, decided to have some fun.

Norman, the orchestra leader, was made to play his direiest tune, and the guests, many shaking in their shoes, were ordered upon the dance floor.

"Who smokes? It's all on the house," shouted one of the bandits, bringing forth Fiddle's stock of cigarettes and distributing them with a free hand. Another groan escaped Fiddle when the bartender, Sam Kanobach, at the bandits' command loaded tray after tray of foaming beer and dispensed them to the crowd.

BEAUTY CONTEST HELD

For two hours, the merriment superseded the threatening muzzles of six revolvers. A beauty contest, in which Fiddle was himself an unwilling judge, was one of the diversions promoted by the robbers. And the winner, a timorous little girl, was awarded a prize of $25—paid with Fiddle's money.

Finally the bandits, tiring of the sport, raced away in their two taxicabs. But the guests suffered a disappointment when they sought to race after them in their own cars. For it was discovered that the robbers had destroyed the ignitions of all the thirteen machines parked in front of the cafe.

TWO MORE GUNS FOUND IN PRISON

Guards' Complicity in Plot Considered

CANON CITY (Colo.) Oct. 6. (AP) Discovery of two more revolvers and the belief that five convicts still are armed, served to make a tense situation at the Colorado State penitentiary here tonight, following the bloody mutiny in which twelve lives were lost last week.

Shortly after a second convict had been placed in solitary confinement during investigation of the riot, two pistols were found in a coal pile. Officers believe a shotgun, a 30-30 rifle and two more pistols are hidden somewhere in the prison.

A. H. Davis and Leo W. McGentry are held in solitary confinement as instigators of the riot.

Prison, local and State officials have promised that any man found guilty of conspiracy to aid in the riot will hang.

Three men are suspected. Davis and McGentry are two of the men who have come under official scrutiny as possible ring leaders in the conspiracy. The officials also are investigating the possibility that certain of the prison guards may have been involved in the plot.

Warden F. E. Crawford, given credit for ending the riot without a prisoner escaping, today refused to accuse any guard of having been implicated in the conspiracy.

The warden, however, did not deny that the revolvers used by the barricaded convicts might have been smuggled in by guards who were friendly to the prisoners.

BURIAL OF LIVING MAN CONFIRMED

Ex-Convict Faces Charge in Death of Faker When Interment Stunt Fails

VERSAILLES (France) Oct. 6. (AP) Henri Boulogne, tattooed former convict who confessed last night to accommodating Clement Passal, the false Marquis De Champaubert, by burying him alive, will be prosecuted for homicide by imprudence and for what the French code calls illegal possession of the corpse. If convicted of these crimes he risks sentence of two years in prison with a fine of 600 francs or less.

According to the statements of Boulogne, Passal died in his voluntary tomb within two days. It is supposed that the rubber tube leading to above ground through which he expected to breathe proved insufficient. The police were led to the discovery of the body by anonymous letters which said that "Knights of Themis" had buried a man alive.

SPARTON ADDS ANOTHER OCTAVE

and opens a new world of beauty to the ear

ONCE the piano had a range of only five octaves. It was not sufficient to permit the world's greatest music to express itself.

So other octaves were added, and today, the piano has seven octaves plus four keys . . . and no master lives who can exhaust its possibilities.

In an earlier day, Radio's range was limited. It was very fine so far as it went . . . but it did not go far enough. Like the crude first pianos, it accommodated only the middle register; its range was too limited, and at both the high and the low end of the register, values were lost. So Sparton, a full year ago, did a very simple thing. It added an octave.

That was the Sparton Equasonne circuit, as you first knew it, a year ago.

The world hailed it as revolutionary. Some pronounced it perfect.

But Sparton was not quite content. So Sparton added another octave.

And the result is the new Sparton Equasonne . . . with its increased range of inclusion . . . with its new Face-to-Face Realism.

Just another octave . . . but what a difference! Today, there is nothing in all the world of music that can exhaust the possibilities of Sparton.

It is a receiver that is perfectly responsive, wholly adequate, whether the demand on it be made by a symphony orchestra of one hundred pieces, or a little girl, crooning cradle songs to her doll.

Sparton adds another octave. That is all. But for you it has added a whole new world of enjoyment. And until you have heard Sparton, you cannot know what a wonderful world it is. For we repeat again our sincere belief that this new Sparton Equasonne is the greatest Radio the world has ever known at any price; and again we say, with all earnestness, in all friendliness . . .

"... don't you buy a radio until you have heard a Sparton."

Ill Health to Prevent Court Appearance Today

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (AP)—Wilton J. Lambert, attorney for Albert B. Fall, announced tonight the ill-health of the former Interior Secretary will prevent his appearance tomorrow for trial on bribery charges growing out of the Elk Hills (Cal.) oil-reserve lease.

Postponement until Wednesday or Thursday will be asked tomorrow by Fall's counsel in the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

Fall's health is considered by his physician, Dr. H. T. Safford, as not immediately dangerous.

"Christus" Role Conceded Lang

OBERAMMERGAU (Bavaria Germany) Oct. 6. (AP)—The election of Alois Lang, 38 years of age, woodcarver and beekeeper, for the Christus role was generally conceded tonight on the eve of balloting for the cast of the 1930 Passion Play, the first performance of which will be next April 11.

If elected, he will succeed his brother, Anton, who has played the part in three Passion plays but who is believed to be no longer equal to the physical strain of the role.

BAY CITY'S VOTE DRIVE GETS HOT

Thirty Days of Campaign Warfare Begins

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—San Francisco's 1929 municipal campaign gets off to a running start this week and gives promise of developing into a knock-down-drag-out affair with charges, counter-charges and recriminations filling the atmosphere for the next thirty days.

A decided movement to rid the Board of Supervisors of certain incumbents, recognized as petty politicians, incompetents and wasters of the taxpayers' money, is being attempted by various organizations. District improvement clubs have joined in the demand for a cleaning out of the "dese and dose" boys on the board and some of those who have been playing politics while the city's business has been neglected.

Slate-makers will be occupied for the next few days with the business of making recommendations to the voters. One of the first of the tickets to appear will be that of the San Francisco Progress Committee, composed principally of a downtown business group and representatives from various city-wide organizations.

WOMEN OF ENGLAND PICK YOUNG HUSBANDS

LONDON, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—The old order is changing and one of the differences seen in England is in the propensity for elderly women to take young husbands instead of looking for mates several years their senior.

The statistical review for 1928 issued by the Registrar-General today records twenty-three cases where women in their thirties married youths between 17 and 22 years of age, while nineteen women between 40 and 51 years married men from 20 to 22 years. There is forty-five years' difference between some of the marriages of women more than 70 who married men from 35 to 50 years. Among the marriages showing the greatest discrepancies in the foreign couplings, the woman's age in every case is greater: 57 and 24; 55 and 29; 63 and 29; 69 and 34.

The average age for married women, however, remained at a comparatively low level, 23, while fifty-seven girls married at 15, forty-four at 16 and 2499 at 17.

New Yorkers Concerned Over Week-End Slaughter

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—Poison liquor and acute alcoholism killed seven persons, including one woman, in New York over the week-end, according to official reports from the medical examiner today.

There also was an increased number of persons made ill from alcohol and the list of dead may be augmented.

It was the first time in many months that the liquor mortality rate mounted so high, and medical authorities are perturbed. Two of the victims were killed by drinking wood alcohol.

Burglars Raid French Embassy

BERLIN, Oct. 6. (AP)—Jewelry valued at $20,000 was stolen from the French Embassy today while Ambassador Pierre De Margerie was attending the funeral of Dr. Gustav Stresemann.

A chauffeur found empty jewel cases in the Embassy garden and detectives then discovered that a writing table in the bedroom of the Ambassador had been forced open and a pearl necklace valued at $10,000, a platinum ring and stickpins had been removed. A glass cabinet in the room below also was pried open and antique gold objects taken.

MARION INDICTS SOVIET SYSTEM

Dombatz Trial Excuse for Economic Failure

Engineers Show Hostility to Communism

State Industry Operated at Peasants' Expense

(This is the second of a series of seven daily articles in which Paul Marion, for eight years an outstanding figure in the French communist party and Chief of the political agitation and propaganda section, tells of his disillusionment after fifteen months in Soviet Russia. What he found in Russia led him to resign from his party. In these articles he describes what he found.)

BY PAUL MARION

PARIS, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—In May and June, 1928, forty technical officials of the Dombatz Works were tried before the Supreme Court at Moscow.

The Dombatz or Donetz region lies in the southeastern part of European Russia. The O.G.P.U. (political police) charged that they had discovered a huge economic conspiracy carried on by the accused and by the former proprietors of the works, who had now emigrated abroad.

The whole case for a long time had been discussed by the soviet press, and was intended to prove in a sensational manner that the difficulties in soviet productivity were principally due to the "sabotage" of the small bourgeois.

SYETEM ON TRIAL

I had been asked to attend the trial, and to send a few articles about it to France. But I quickly saw that it was impossible to maintain the official argument of the case, because the trial seemed to me to be much less the trial of the people in the dock than of the whole economic and political system of the U.S.S.R.

From the very beginning the lookers-on, at all events, felt uncomfortable. The first of the accused to be examined was Beresovsky, an engineer, and his evidence was highly disturbing.

Beresovsky was a former pupil of the St. Petersburg Academy of Mines. His language, in trying to explain his position and the position of those he called his accomplices, was so classically Marxian (for instance he talked of "we small bourgeois constantly slipping up between capital and labor,") and he gave so willingly every detail required by the government prosecutor on the conspiracy and on the "psychology of technicians trained in a capitalist school," that one really thought he was reciting a lesson learned by heart.

The O.G.P.U trade-mark stuck out clearly over all his evidence, and nobody was astonished later to see him escape the death sentence, which, according to the prosecution, he had deserved a hundred times over.

POSITION SUMMED UP

Furthermore, the impression that the conspiracy was engineered by the police with a view to a certain political result grew in the course of the trial, which was full of disgraceful incidents.

The fact, however, that the Bolshevists were obliged, to justify their economic failures, to hand over the "responsible people" to popular justice, was only a small part of the lesson learned from this trial.

Seen from the angle of the technical assistance of the soviet and particularly from the angle of the plucky evidence of some of the accused, this is how I summed up the position of the Russian engineers.

The technical people were working with feelings of distrust in the soviet factories. They could make no show of initiative because they felt themselves checked and spied upon by a crowd of bureaucrats and inefficient Red directors. They were and are under suspicion by the workmen, who are stirred up behind them, in order to draw away the dissatisfaction of labor from the soviet regime, which is really responsible for all the evils under which they suffer.

REAL CONDITION

In Moscow feeling ran very high about the trial among engineers and public servants, and in spite of the habit of holding one's tongue that one acquires in Russia, people did not hesitate to discuss the proceedings. I then learned the real condition of Russian production, in spite of the optimism of official statistics and forecasts.

"Our industry is a tiny island lost in a huge peasant sea. It is directed by a bureaucracy smothered in red tape and costing more than it earns. This bureaucracy lives at the expense of the peasants from whom it draws revenue in two ways: First by agricultural taxes and secondly by speculating on the prices that the government arbitrarily fixes at a very high level where industrial goods are concerned, and a very low level where agricultural produce has to be sold.

"In this way the state can always increase the number of factories and show a profit, and it can maintain an army of soviet -parasites. This, however, does not mean that our system of production is not terribly unprofitable and much below the capitalist system as regards output. Moreover, every attempt at further development as planned by the celebrated economic scheme of five years ago will run its head against the opposition of the peasants, who are falling back more and more upon themselves and are having as little as possible to do with the towns."

This was the substance of what I was told by men who, some of them, held important positions in industry or in State administrations. All my personal experiences agreed. For instance, I remember an old locksmith who had become the "Red" manager of the Moscow slaughterhouses, and who confessed he knew nothing about his new job.

INSTANCES CITED

I had seen a demobilized officer taken on at the Pravda Printing Works simply to give political lectures to twenty or thirty apprentices employed there. At my hotel, whereas in France four servants would have been enough, there were nineteen servants and other employees.

I had been told by American and German engineers that the erection of new works in Russia cost four times as much as abroad, and that every undertaking gave rise to so much waste and corruption that Preorbrajensky, former favorite of Lenin, who, when I was in Russia, was in opposition, reckoned that between 1923 and 1928 $600,000,000 had been embezzled, counting only the cases of embezzlement heard in the courts. This did not take into account money stolen "more discreetly," as it was put to me, or which had formed the subject of secret trials under the P.G.P.U.

Often when I was going along the streets in Moscow and as I passed a new building either completed or under construction, a friend of mine would say, "You know the people who built that place are in prison, and perhaps they are going to be shot. Was it sabotage? Was it embezzlement? I don't know."

"All Russia is made after the image of the Dombatz mines."

This was almost a formula one heard at the end of every conversation on this subject.

But not express'd in fancy; rich, not gaudy;
For the apparel oft proclaims the man."

We believe that the average man will be safer in selecting accessories that blend, rather than those that contrast. This is said advisedly, and with due regard for the fact that the present trend among fashion leaders is in the direction of contrasts. It is extremely difficult to select just the right contrasting colors, and a task that we believe requires a better sense of color than most of us have the time or inclination to cultivate.

Though we may be criticised for our stand, we still unhesitatingly advise blends as being safer, and quite as effective, for the majority.

All of the world series games this year will be available to the Southland through the local Don Lee station, KHJ, via the Columbia network.

The initial game will start tomorrow at approximately 11:30 a.m., Coast time, and, unless weather interferes, the second broadcast will come through on Wednesday at about the same time.

The teams are scheduled to be on the road on the 10th inst. and should play in Philadelphia on the 11th and 12th inst. and on Monday, the 14th inst.

In case the series is not settled in Philadelphia, the teams probably will fight it out in Chicago on the 16th and 17th inst. On the days that the baseball broadcast is given, the noon-time news period from The Times Building will be omitted.

FROLIC PROGRAM

This afternoon at 4 o'clock the former Saturday frolic time, known as the "Chasin' the Blues," will make its bow as a Monday feature called, "Rhythm, Rhythm, Rhythm," with Charlie Wellman as master of ceremonies. The change has been made necessary because of the Saturday afternoon gridiron broadcasts.

On the program today will be billed Bob Swan, KHJ's singing announcer, in "Every Day Away From You," as one of his numbers. Elvia Allman, Lee Harline, June Parker and other popular studio artists will take part.

Lindsay MacHarrie, chief of the station announcing staff, has created a half-hour program for 7:30 p.m. with familiar tunes associated with eastern collegiate institutions and the football songs of U.S.C., Stanford, California and Washington as the theme for the feature. The orchestra and singers will give the entertainment.

This will be followed from 8 to 10 o'clock with the Pearce Brothers, Norman Neilson, a male chorus, Pedro, and others on the blue Monday jamboree staff, which originates in the San Francisco studios of KFRC, Don Lee's northern station.

O SA KA NU SA VVY TH ESE?

In Other Word's Oh Say Can YouSavvy These Queer Queries From Osaka by Mr. Okamoto Who Most Desperately Craves Hotel Labels

When Japanese schoolboys cease to be that, their penchant for writing letters in Japanese English does not always cease, too. This was proved yesterday by Fay R. Smalley, assistant manager of the Alexandria, who exhibited a typewritten missive, newly received, from one who describes himself as an advocate. The letter was postmarked Osaka, Japan and sets worth the Japanese writer's desires in unmistable language:

"Gentleman: Having found the well-known Hotel-Name of yours, I have the honor to write you.

"I am an amateur of collection of hotel labels and cards. If I can have some brilliant Labels of the famous Hotel of Los Angeles of U.S.A., (which will, with doubt, glorify my album exceedingly,) how should I be full of happiness and thankful!

"Will you kindly, ansering me, give me some beautiful Labels of your Hotel?

"Allow me to inclose some cards to show my gratitude previously to you for your favourable response: the pictures present the typical sceneries and genre of Japan (in the Prefecture of Kioto.) I am an advocate; if you desire some thing in Japan, I will procure them to you with pleasure. Write me.

"Attending your kind response,

"Your very truly,

"I. OKAMOTO."

A bulky package started yesterday for Osaka. In it were various labels of the Alexandria, and for good measure, a number of similar baggage adornments from other Los Angeles hotels.

The sale of property in the Grand View Addition has been reported by Bryan & Weiswender of Los Angeles, for the new station which is reported to be a completely new outfit erected at a cost of $60,000. There is only one other station in the State, located at Reno.

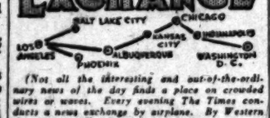
AIRPLANE NEWS EXCHANGE



(Not all the interesting and out-of-the-ordinary news of the day finds a place on crowded wires or waves. Every evening The Times conducts a news exchange by airplane. By Western Air Express, T.A.T. and Standard lines papers of current and yester date from pivotal cities are received. Washington, D. C., contributes this Star only two days from the press, Indianapolis and Chicago, thirty-six hours, Kansas City, Salt Lake and Phoenix are just halfway 'round the clock. Today's gleanings range in subject from an account of how Washington (D. C.) authorities are having difficulty in stocking their aviary with "peafowls, pheasants and other animals," to the boast of an Albuquerque editor that their sunshine is beyond compare.)

SNIPE SEASON OPENS

Kansas City Star, Oct. 5.

In spite of the fact that they waited patiently from 11 o'clock until about 3 o'clock two young men failed to snare a single snipe last Saturday night in their waiting sacks. Three accommodating young Brunswick men took the highly sophisticated city boys out about five miles north of town, supplied them with sacks held open with switch hoops, and full instructions for enticing the wily snipes into the sacks. The sack holders were given clubs to beat on the ground to help attract the snipes. The instructions also called for lighting a match about every five minutes in order to see if any snipes were coming in. If the fuel supply this winter is short, it will be because of the matches burned by the snipe hunters.

OR WAS IT A FAIR EGG?

The Salt Lake Tribune, Oct. 6.

Representative David Hirschi of the legislative tax advisory committee, doesn't like to be misquoted. Wednesday he was discussing a favorite topic of his—the futility, as he sees it, of expecting ever so wise and ever so strong a State Tax Commission to give a satisfactory administration if it is hampered by the restrictions of the present system.

"I feel impelled to repeat," said the representative from Hurricane, "what I once inquired before at these sessions, and to ask how much domestic science it would take to make a palatable dish out of a rotten egg. The Tribune quoted me as saying 'bad egg,' but that was not what I said."

THE POOR FISH

Kansas City Times, Oct. 4.

Twenty-seven kegs of grape juice, stored six years ago in the United States Cold Storage Company warehouse, emerged today as wine and gurgled their way into the river—smashed by an official.

Mr. Dunlap reported his discovery to Judge Merrill E. Otis of the Federal court. Judge Otis spoke to Asa W. Butler, United States marshal, and it was Mr. Butler's own hammer that shattered the kegs on the municipal wharf today.

PROSPEROUS BANKS

Arizona Republican, Oct. 6.

Checking transaction in the Phoenix banks amounted to $34,030,759 during September, according to a report issued yesterday by Earl F. Barrows, manager of the Phoenix Clearinghouse Association. Although this figure represents a slight decrease as compared with August, it exceeds that for September, 1928, by a margin of $4,573,851, the clearinghouse report shows.

ITALIAN ENGINEERS

Chicago Tribune, Oct. 6.

Ten engineers from Italy, journeying to Tokio for the world engineering congress to be held in October, were greeted by Joshua d'Esposito and taken to luncheon at the Union League Club as the guests of the Chicago chapter of the American Society of Engineers.

OR SOME OTHER ANIMAL

Washington (D. C.) Star, Oct. 4.

Having been balked by lack of authority under the law in their effort to purchase peafowl for Washington's parks, officials of the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks are hopeful of obtaining some pheasants to make more attractive the animal life in the recreational areas.

ISN'T THIS OUR STUFF?

Albuquerque Journal, Oct. 6.

Albuquerque is to have another transcontinental air line, and a move is on foot to have plane wings made translucent so that the Duke City sunshine will not be permanently shut off by the vast clouds of ships sailing overhead.

FRANK PERSY WINNE, MERCHANT, SUCCUMBS

Frank Percy Winne died yesterday at his home, 1527 Arlington avenue. He was engaged all his life in the dry goods business and had for many years been the senior member of the Winne & Adams Co. He leaves his widow, one daughter, Mrs. Harold Turner of San Mateo, and three sons, Very Reverend Marshall F. Winne, Capt. Garret V. Winne and Frank P. Winne, Jr. The funeral will be from St. Paul's Catholic Church, Washington street, where solemn requiem mass will be celebrated at 9:30 a.m., Wednesday.

CEMETERY MAN TO TAKE STAND

Len C. Davis Scheduled for Divorce Appearance

Both He and Wife Seeking Decree and Custody

Each Charges the Other With Infidelity

Len C. Davis, Glendale cemetery owner, is expected to take the witness stand in the court of Superior Judge Guerin today when the trial of his divorce action brought against Mrs. Clara Davis, and her cross-complaint is resumed at 10 a.m. Both ask for a divorce on the grounds of infidelity and the custody of their two boys, Leonard, 16 years of age, and Milton, 7.

Until Friday afternoon Davis had not put in his appearance in court to deny the charges of his wife that he was unduly intimate with his stenographer, Miss Virginia Long. The wife names Miss Long as co-respondent. The husband names two men as associates of his wife, James McDonald and John E. Krieger. Both McDonald and Krieger have appeared in court to deny the assertions of the cemetery owner.

In her testimony directed against her husband at the opening of the trial, Mrs. Davis asserted she and friends trailed Davis to a bungalow where they found him and Miss Long together.

It is expected that the hearing from now on will be devoted largely to testimony relative to Davis's property holdings, said by his wife to be more than $3,000,000, and by him not more than $300,000.

DOWNTOWN CHEST UNIT ORGANIZED

Homer Lawton Will Head Committee to Work for Large Subscriptions

HOMER LAWTON

Homer Lawton, assistant vice-president of the Bank of Italy, will head Committee No. 21 of the Community Chest central division campaign, according to J. A. H. Kerr, vice-president of the Security-First National Bank, Chest campaign chairman.

The central division committee, which was headed last year by thirty of the outstanding financial leaders of the city, contacts the larger givers to the campaign. Kerr pointed out that the largest quota in the history of the Chest this year, $3,200,000, an increase of 20 per cent over the amount raised last year, will necessitate the building of a strong central division committee to reach those in position to substantially subscribe.

"A great group of Los Angeles' finest citizenry—a far larger group than ever before," Lawton said—"feels that money is not enough, and, as individuals, are giving of their time and ability to this work which cares for the widow, the orphan and the unfortunate. The most unresponsive spirit is quickened as he sees the business man, the clerk, the banker, the stenographer, the housewife and the society woman, seeking the privilege of becoming enrolled as workers for the Community Chest."

Lawton has begun the work of organizing his committee and announced that ten prominent business men will serve as committee members. They are E. J. Richards, R. V. Morrison, L. W. Kimball, A. D. MacArthur, Neil S. MacCarthy, G. W. McClure, Erving Palmer Tucker, Louis J. Canepa and James B. Duffey.

YULE TREE BREAKS HOME

The marital troubles of Mrs. Rebekah K. Earle and her husband, Homer P. Earle, started on the Christmas Eve of 1927 while trimming the Christmas tree for their little daughter Cordelia, Mrs. Earle testified before Superior Judge Blake when granted a divorce on grounds of cruelty. Mrs. Earle declared she and her husband, who is much older than she, were trimming the Christmas tree and something went wrong with the lights. She was standing by, she said, and offered a suggestion, whereupon Earle became very angry and declared in a sneering tone: "You are so superior." The couple were married on December 8, 1919, at Washington, D. C., according to the complaint.

HUNTER KILLED IN ACCIDENT

Bullet From Dropped Gun Fatal to Member of Angeleno Party in Temescal Canyon

Tragedy stalked in the wake of a returning hunting party near Corona yesterday, and overtook it on a steep slope in Temescal Canyon, when Joseph Vasvary, 30 years of age, of 3016 West Forty-eighth street, Los Angeles, was shot to death accidentally by a companion's gun as it fell from the latter's hand. The accident happened at a point about four miles off the highway and seven miles south of Corona.

Besides Vasvary the party included Frank Morreale, 20, of 5024 Cimmaron street, and John Runge, 28, and his brother, Edward, 24, of 1522 West Twenty-second street. Bent on bagging deer, the four left Corona at 6 a.m. and after parking their car at the roadside penetrated the brush for the day. At 10 a.m., having met with no success in tracking their prey, they started back. Vasvary led the single file down the precipitous slope of Temescal Canyon. A few feet behind him walked Morreale, then the Runge brothers.

Suddenly Morreale's foot slipped and he plunged headlong toward Vasvary. The latter turned and reached out to check the other man's descent. As he did so, Morreale's rifle slipped from his grasp and was discharged as it struck the ground. The bullet tore through the calf of Vasvary's right leg and imbedded itself in his abdomen. He died within five minutes.

Morreale and Edward Runge went to Corona and returned to the scene with local police, State patrol officers, deputy sheriffs and ranchers. It required five hours to convey the body back to Corona. An inquest will be held there at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

Vasvary, who was paint foreman of the Surety Automobile Insurance Company of Los Angeles, expected to be married in about two weeks, his companions said.

DE BESA UP TODAY FOR THEFT PLEA

"Count" Will Face Court on Charge of Obtaining Bank Loan by Fraud

L. S. De BESA

Lorenzo Spayer De Besa, who was known some time here as "Count" De Besa, is scheduled to appear before Superior Judge Aggeler today to enter his plea to two charges of grand theft preferred in an indictment returned by the county grand jury.

The indictment charges De Besa with obtaining a loan of $1500 from the Wilshire National Bank through misrepresentation of his financial assets.

According to the defendant, he obtained the loan to finance a building enterprise, but the proposition failed. The matter was then settled in civil court, De Besa asserts, when the bank obtained judgment against him.

CLEAN-UP ON BUG-RIDDEN LOTS URGED

Removal of Pest Breeding Places Advised by City Forestry Department

Removal of old boxes, boards and other litter that serve as breeding places for insects that infest trees and shrubs is urged by the Los Angeles department of forestry in an official indorsement of the clean-up week program sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Thus, it is pointed out, a great many precious plants, as well as time and labor, may be saved.

"Many people who keep their own premises clean," reads the statement signed by H. A. Tibbetts, city forester, "will often wonder why it is that their favorite plants become infested with mealy bugs, scale or aphis, and that soy bugs and similar pests swarm about the roots of their flowers. They have no need to look farther than the vacant lot next to them. Usually it is neglected, unkept, a mass of weeds and in general the dumping ground for everything in the neighborhood.

"The man who gets out and cleans up his own place is not only benefiting himself but is serving the entire community. His place is more attractive and sanitary, too, for who knows what dreadful diseases may be lurking in the filth of a back yard or vacant lot?"

ROGERS HAS GAUCHOS AS HIS GUESTS

Former Cowboy Entertains Them at His Hacienda and They Match Skill

Will Rogers made yesterday a gala occasion at his hacienda on Beverly Boulevard, acting as host to Senor Ramos Otero and his Argentine gauchos who are here to participate in the international exposition of horsemanship at Vine street and Sunset Boulevard next Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

In 1901 Rogers turned from the western plains of the United States and went to the great Argentine pampas to work for the Santa Fe Land and Cattle Company. For eight months he matched his skill with the best of the gauchos of that time.

While acting as host to Senor Otero, the girl gaucho, Senorita Amalia Dugo, and the quintet of wild-riding Argentine cowboys, Rogers again matched his skill with the gaucho in calf and steer roping and riding.

Rogers is to be honor guest at one performance of the exposition this week, but admitted to Senor Otero that "I'll probably be there at every performance."

COURT CUTS ALIMONY

Harpist Accepts Reduction After Ex-Husband Explains Plight

Varra Vaska, harpist, summoned her ex-husband, Edward McDermott, film editor, into Superior Judge Rosenkrans's court to find out why he had dropped $400 behind in the payment of his alimony, it was disclosed yesterday.

Mrs. McDermott obtained a divorce in 1926 and was awarded $100 a month alimony. Her former husband explained that he had to keep up payments to his creditors, or they would attach his salary. So Judge Rosenkranz cut the alimony allowance to $50 a month. Mrs. McDermott said she would rather be sure of that amount than take chances of getting twice as much.

GOOD OLD HUMANNESS RESTORED

President Offers Cape Cod Comedy-Drama, With William Mong

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

William V. Mong, who has often displayed the evil eye of villainy upon the screen, assumes the manner gentle and the smile of humanness currently at the President Theater. He is appearing in the comedy-drama "Shavings"—all about Cape Cod folks, and their resentments and their generosities. Mong is cast in the role most self-sacrificing.

"Shavings" is a bit vintage for the up-to-date showgoer, but it presents the kind of plot that is perennially agreeable to those who want to shed a tear or two between the spells of laughter. For the better part, it is comedy—but there is a scene or two meticulously steeped in pathos. And the third act, which is by way of being the best, has its share of excitement.

The title "Shavings" is simply a nickname for the leading character. He is a carver of toy windmills—a bachelor, and the kindly soul of a Massachusetts village. He sins egregiously when he fails to advise his life-long friend, the town banker, that a certain young man said banker employs has a prison record. And most of what really happens in the play has to do with the consequences of this intentional error.

Of course, the employee's sister happens to be the cause for the fault of the omission. "Shavings" is in love with her, but never summons up the courage to propose to her, and if he did would probably have been gently but firmly rejected. At all events, the stellar role in this piece is a sacrificial one, and therefore manages to be genuinely appealing.

"Shavings" presents some fossilized characters of the stage, such as the mean man of the village, but then what would a "Way Down East" creation be without its vindictive townsman? "Shavings" follows a fairly familiar prescription in several of its characters, and various of its situations, but its people are in the main engaging, and rather well enacted.

The performances by Mong and James Bradbury, Sr., were the most effective, and the audience applauded their work liberally. Sincerity and an able measuring up to the demands of the role that he played were particularly reflected in the Mong portrayal, and it isn't the sort of role that would be associated with his screen interpretations. Perhaps this is a handicap, perhaps it is not, but at any rate he seemed to override it.

Allen Connor was very genuine in his impersonation of the soldier suffering from an incurable war wound and determined not to marry the girl he loved because of this. A sort of counter-plot in the play evolves from the romance of the two. Frances Morris appeared rather convincingly as the girl, especially in the scene where she forces the young man to declare his attachment for her. Paul Fix, Frederick Wallace, Joyce Booth, and the child, Anita Calfot, were others who gave a very creditable account of themselves, and Erville Alderson in the exaggerated role of the mean man seemed to achieve very satisfying results. Others were James Burtis and Dean Jagger.

FOUL PLAY AFOOT AT BILTMORE

"Foiled," Shouts Dapper Dan, Amid Hisses from Worried Patrons

"A reformed rake makes the best husband," says the dastardly villain in "After Dark," which comes to the Biltmore Theater tonight, and poor Rose, who loved Lord Chumley, gives her sacred promise to go to the altar with George.

It would be a sad, sad journey for, hark! George is already wed. His bride, the beautiful Eliza, has been persuaded to give up her bonny boy for his own sake. The wretched men who plot her ruin and his, do their foul work well. But they are foiled! Dark deeps can never flourish upon this earth whilst there be men like Old Tom to watch over the innocent and wash away—with their tears—the heinous crimes of sinners.

"Here comes the villain!" shouts the audience at "After Dark," and long and sibilant hisses follow the curled mustachio of as cantankerous a gent as ever trod the boards. "Don't jump!" cries the audience in warning as little Eliza leaps from the bridge to what had every evidence of being a very wet grave.

Fashion Parade Provides First Footlight Job

"Long legs, long arms and a loud voice drove me into the show business," declares Charlotte Greenwood. "I obtained my first job in a musical comedy chorus when I was only 14. I quit school because I was too big—I looked like a girl of 20. And, incidentally, my people needed money.

"I started in as a show girl, the tall kind who wear beautiful gowns, parade around the stage and occasionally try to sing. For some reason or other the audience always laughed as I loped forward, done up with Turkish trousers to represent 'The Pearl of Cairo' or walked down the steps they always had in musical shows as 'The Spirit of the Renaissance.'

"I met another ambitious girl in the company and she persuaded me to go into vaudeville with her. With a wardrobe of two cotton voile dresses, which we made ourselves, we appeared as 'Two Girls and a Piano.' She played and I sang. My salary was $25 a week but I managed to send $10 home to mother."

Miss Greenwood, who is now appearing as guest star with the Henry Duffy Players at El Capitan in "She Couldn't Say No," tells of those early vaudeville days with relish.

Salome in Sepia Appears

Dorothy Burgess

Portrays "Lulu Belle" in the play of the same name, and from a shoddy little colored flapper becomes the pet of European nobility. This forceful drama starts at the Belasco Theater tonight.

Directors of Bowl Select New Officers

The Hollywood Bowl Association has had a reorganization during the past week which promises certain differences in administration. The new board of directors elected Allan C. Balch, president; Mrs. Leiland Atherton Irish, general chairman of committees; E. N. Martin, first vice-president; C. E. Toberman, second vice-president; Mrs. Burdette Norton, secretary, and M. F. Palmer, treasurer. H. M. Haldeman, David T. Babcock and Rev. Willsie Martin are other members of the board.

It was voted to dispense with the services of Raymond Brite, as general manager of the Bowl, but a new manager has not yet been decided upon. The invaluable work of Mrs. Irish as general chairman of the Bowl activities was voiced in unanimous expressions of confidence and good wishes for her future association.

Baffa Conducts Orchestra for Horton Drama

One of the most important ingredients in the romantic appeal of "The Command Performance," comedy of royal romance and the stage, at the Majestic Theater, is the renditions of the orchestra at that playhouse under the direction of William Baffa.

Baffa, a skilled musician and popular conductor, has returned to the fold of Edward Everett Horton at the Majestic this season with an unusually large orchestra. The organization plays at eight different intervals during the presentation of the six scenes of the play at the Majestic. Included in its program, which is being varied from week to week, are numbers from Berlioz, Strauss, Chopin, Godowsky and De Micheli.

"The Command Performance" is being presented at the Majestic through the medium of a strong cast headed by Edward Everett Horton and Kay Hammond. Included in the cast are Claude King, Evelyn Hall, Wilfred North, Mia Marvin and others.

Loew's Installs Scoreboard for World's Series

Loew's State Theater will be converted into a large baseball stadium and grand stand tomorrow morning by the installation of a mammoth electrical scoreboard on the stage to record the world's series games between Chicago and Philadelphia, the first of which will be played tomorrow.

The game is called for 11.30 a.m. Pacific time and the theater doors will be open at 11 as usual so that all may have time to obtain seats in this comfortable grand stand.

The complicated mechanism of the board, including an elaborate system of lights and signals and audible announcements through the large sound - amplifying horns of the theater's talking screen and sound equipment, will require several men for operation.

Mayan Theater Plans Benefit Performance

"Marianne," Metro - Goldwyn-Mayer's popular screen musical comedy, starring Marion Davies, at the Mayan Theater, has been selected by the executive committee of the Mt. Sinai Home for Chronic Invalids as the attraction for a benefit which will be held on the afternoon of the 15th inst.

The Mt. Sinai Home is maintained by the Jewish folk of Los Angeles and is the only public institution in Southern California taking care of invalids who are beyond the scope of benefits offered by any ordinary hospital or other institution.

After canvassing all the current attractions in Los Angeles, the benefit committee decided on "Marianne" as the ideal entertainment to be utilized for this event.

MARIO AND SCHIPA WIN OVATIONS

Delightful Comic Opera "Martha" Given Sprightly Performance

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

"Martha," a German comic opera set in early England, done in the French manner and sung in Italian, occupied the attention of a capacity audience at the Shrine Auditorium Saturday night. Tito Schipa and Queena Mario were the hero and the heroine of one of the most charming presentations given here by the Los Angeles Grand Opera Association.

Karl Riedel conducted with an authority that brought precision out of an opening uncertainty. The Los Angeles singer, Lenore Ivey, who was the unfortunate victim of an automobile accident on her way to the opera, proved an accomplished actress, and the estimable gentlemen, De Luca, Malatesta and D'Angelo, whose genius for operatic merriment is indispensable, added their luster to a sparkling performance.

Judicious cutting left out the overture, and the opera began with a pretty scene of Lady Harriet's boudoir in which court ladies of the chorus were endeavoring to dispel her ennui by some delightful singing. Queena Mario voiced her boredom with her lovers and all the world in a clear and lovely lyric soprano and handled her bouffant satins with such charming grace that she won her audience completely in the first scene and never once lost that admiration in those succeeding.

Her voice is a rippling high soprano of such purity that it carries well and she is a person of such innate taste and refinement that her stage presence is a joy to behold. Last, but not at all the least of Queena Mario's virtues as an opera singer, she is exceedingly pretty, dainty, slender and wears her clothes with an air.

The chorus is prominent in "Martha," for it is a kind of glorified Gilbert and Sullivan opera with important music and situations given to the ensemble. In this performance the chorus, composed of forty San Francisco singers and forty resident choristers, was particularly effective. The chorus is more at home on the stage this year, and having received a thorough drilling at the hands of Dr. Riedel for several months, the singers knew his beat. This was significant, for the deplorable lack of rehearsals put the capable conductor Riedel in a difficult position of balancing stars, soloists and an orchestra unfamiliar with each other.

Schipa's beautiful singing brought ovation after ovation and repeated curtain calls for him alone evidenced his supremacy in the admiration of Los Angeles opera lovers. He was easily the star of the evening, but his gracious deference to the other artists added to his attraction. In the quartets with Mario, Ivey and De Luca, and most of all in his duets with Mario, he was superb, and it is almost unnecessary to mention that he stopped the performance with the single tenor aria of note that "Martha" affords—and again with the repetitive motif, "The Last Rose of Summer."

De Luca as the faithful Plunkett was an excellent complement, and D'Angelo as the amusing Sheriff caused many a laugh. Paul Wright, Hazel Huff, Ethel Twigg, Marguerite Sigond and Ruth Treweek gave good performances of minor parts. Credit for fine stage direction goes to Armando Agnini.

LEWIS TO APPEAR AT GROVE TONIGHT

Rated as a full-fledged member of the Hollywood motion-picture colony since his recent screen appearance in "Is Everybody Happy?" Ted Lewis will enjoy the first movie premiere in his honor when with his Musical Klowns he makes his debut at the Ambassador Hotel Cocoanut Grove tomorrow night. The engagement will mark the first time the group has appeared in the West as a dance orchestra, and the grst time in several years that it has appeared as such.

In honor of their fellow-artist, many prominent members of the film capital have already made reservations for the opening night.

NOVELTIES NUMEROUS AT ORPHEUM

Siamese Twins, Songs and Dances All Add to Variety Entertainment

BY MURIEL BABCOCK

Despite the sideshow aroma which permeates the atmosphere of the Orpheum this week, there's a rousing good bill of varieties on tap.

The freak act, the Siamese Twins, is not half as bad as one might anticipate. The young gentlemen (or does one speak of them in the singular?) confine their activities to an appearance with a little humorous comment on their physical infirmity, tooting a couple of brass horns and dancing with their respective wives. They move around the stage quite deftly.

They are accompanied by a fourteen-piece Filipino jazz band, which is extraordinarily good. In costuming, in music, in feeling the band is of the Orient, the modern jazz-rhythmed Orient and, whether you like it or not, you will find that it exerts a peculiar fascination for far-away places.

Then, of course, there's Belle Baker, unquestionably a hit, if not the hit. Belle was very much among those present with one or two somewhat Rabelaisian song stories, with several heart-tearing ballads, and with some new Jewish stories, and finally as encore numbers, "An Old-fashioned Lady" and "Mrs. Goldberg's Bridge."

For sentimentality, Joseph Regan, the Irish tenor, held over from last week's program, gave her a close run. I didn't recognize the titles of all his songs, with which he was graciously generous, but among them were, "My Wild Irish Rose" and "Mother Machree." The last, it is almost needless to say, was one of his much-clamored-for encores.

Charles (Slim) Timblin, accompanied by Billy Raymond and Val Russell, all in black face, is back with his riotous offering. Slim, in case you forget, is the lad who impersonates a be-spectacled negro preacher, explaining the contents of the book of Numbers (Mr. Bell's directory) and exhorting his followers to good deeds. The act is funnier than ever, and while it is may be precisely as last time, it seemed that there were many bright new witticisms included.

A pair of comics, Chain and Conroy, present the mind-reading act wherein Chain is sent into a trance by being slapped on the head with a blackjack. His partner, descending into the orchestra pit, gives clews as to the names wanted such as: "His name is neither warm nor cold!" "Luke!" triumphantly shouts Chain upon the stage. They are really quite funny and they sing well.

The bill closes with a smart and pretty revue entitled "Mexican Dreams," in which Paulo and Paquita demonstrate various Spanish and Mexican dances. Chikita, a pretty Miss with personality, both sings and dances.

Murand and Girton, cyclists, start things out. Murray and Harris, a couple of lads with a piano, follow.

JOLSON TO HEAD GALA PREMIERE

"Say It With Songs" Will Start Tonight Amid Blaze of Lights

With Al Jolson himself acting as master of ceremonies, tonight's premiere of "Say It With Songs," the new Jolson picture at Warner Brothers' Theater in Hollywood, gives every evidence of being a gala occasion.

Jolson will introduce the various members of the cast and the prominent stars who are present, and conduct the program attendant upon the first Hollywood showing of his latest Warner Brothers and Vitaphone all-talking and singing offering.

"Say It With Songs" is said to top both "The Jazz Singer" and "The Singing Fool," the Jolson vehicles which pioneered the talkies. The Hollywood showing of this picture is awaited with interest, it is said, and Max Shagrin, manager of the Warner Brothers' Hollywood Theater, is making extensive plans for the opening.

More than 100 famous motion-picture stars of Hollywood are expected to attend, as well as various members of the cast.

Singing Voice Wins Contract

The talkie career of Lola Lane, Fox featured player in "The Girl from Havana," at the Boulevard Theater, is less than 1 year of age. Since being "discovered" on the stage in New York by Director Ben Stoloff, Miss Lane has appeared in three pictures, the first being "Speakeasy" and the other "Fox Movietone Follies." The sweet singing voice which Miss Lane uses in "The Girl from Havana," and which won her a long-term talkie contract, is a natural endowment, and has had little formal training.

'COCK-EYED WORLD' NIGHT ARRANGED

Last-minute preparations are being rushed for the celebration of "Cockeyed World Night" in tribute to the stars of the William Fox production this evening in the Blossome Room of the Roosevelt Hotel in Hollywood, with George Olsen, New York bandmaster and master of ceremonies, and his noted musicians furnishing the musical inspiration and entertainment features.

As guests of honor along with the director, Raoul Walsh, Edmund Lowe, Victor McLaglen and El Brendel, stars of "The Cockeyed World," now drawing throngs to Grauman's Chinese Theater, are scheduled to appear. The affair is being arranged by Eugene Stark, managing director.

BURLESQUE AT BURBANK THE THEATER
"CUTE 'N PRETTY"—with BETSY ROSS
COMPANY OF 85—CHORUS OF 45 DAINTY DARLINGS

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

At length they reached the spot where Rokoff had pitched his camp. Here they found all in turmoil. While he was absent many of his men had deserted, taking away the bulk of his food and ammunition. When he had done venting his rage on those who remained, he returned to where Jane stood, guarded by two white sailors. She struggled and fought to free herself as the men laughed at her efforts.

Rokoff grasped her roughly and started to drag her toward his tent. Then he struck her and carried her, half-conscious, within. His boy had lighted the Russian's lamp and at word from his master he disappeared. Jane had sunk to the floor in the middle of the enclosure. But slowly her numbed senses were returning to her and she was commencing to think very fast indeed.

Now Rokoff was lifting her to her feet and attempting to drag her with him. At his belt hung a heavy revolver. Jane's eyes riveted themselves upon it. She made believe she had fainted, but through her half-closed lids she waited her opportunity. It came just as Rokoff was raising her. A noise at the tent door caused him to turn his head an instant.

That instant was his undoing. The butt of the gun was not an inch from Jane's hand. With a single, lightning-like move she snatched the weapon from its holster. At the same time Rokoff realized his peril. But it was too late. Jane held the gun firmly in her hand, its muzzle pointed at the Russian's heart, her finger upon the trigger. Yet even in her peril she dared not fire the shot!

PLATICAS DE LOS LUNES

POR EL PROFESOR R. GUERRERO
Encargado de la Sección Española de Este Diario

Hablaba yo en la Plática próximo-anterior de la tendencia popular a decir "de de veras" por "de veras", y, como no es ésta la única locución adverbial a la que el vulgo suele anteponer indebidamente la preposición "de", juzgo de interés que el estudiante de español conozca lo que sobre tal corruptela nos dice don Rufino J. Cuervo en sus Apuntaciones Críticas sobre el Lenguaje Bogotano:

Tan genial es del castellano el empleo de la preposición "de" para significar modo o manera, que en el lenguaje familiar y vulgar se antepone a complementos que de suyo tienen significación modal: "Van 'de' por fuerza, y no de voluntad", dice Cervantes ("Quij.", pte. I, cap. XXII); "Si se compraba aceite 'de' por junto, carbón o tocino, escondíamos la mitad", escribe Quevedo ("Buscón", lib. I, cap. VI); cuando lo más usado es "por fuerza", "por junto". En el habla popular bogotana es muy común hacer lo mismo con otros complementos y aun con adverbios, añadiéndoles el "de" que tienen expresiones análogas: "Venía 'de' para arriba, cuando ella iba 'de' para abajo" (como "de subida", "de bajada"); "Hágalo 'de' por amor de Dios" (como "de caridad", "de limosna"); "Si no lo hace 'de' por buenas, lo hará 'de' por malas" (como "de buena" o "de mala gana", "de grado"); "Escribió torcido 'de' ex profeso" (Véase un ejemplo español de este disparate en el prólogo del tomo II de la "Historia de cinco reyes" de Sandoval, p. 4, Madrid, 1729. "De gratis" es también vulgar en España—López Silva, "Barrios bajos", p. 233; "Los madriles" pp. 128, 183 — "De por poco no le matan", dice uno en Pereda, "Sotileza", V); "Lo hizo 'de' apostata": "Rompió el vaso 'de' adrede", vulgo "de adre" (como "de propósito", "de intento", "de caso pensado"); "Dio una función 'de' gratis" (como "de balde"). Aun delante de expresiones que ya llevan el "de", encajan otro: "Eso no lo dijo 'de' de veras"; "Ya yo estoy 'de' demás aquí". Para que todas las frases propuestas queden castellanas, hay que escamondarlas quitándoles el "de".

Ejemplos del buen uso de las expresiones anteriores: "Calle por amor de Dios, y tenga vergüenza de lo que ha dicho" (Cervantes, "Quij.", pte. I, cap. XXXI); "Ya nos entenderemos con esas gentes; por buenas, si va por buenas; y si va por malas . . ." (Pereda, "Sotileza", IV). La Academia sólo trae la frase "por malas o por buenas"; con artículo es tan común en España como en América: "Y quiero yo que usté cene — Con nosotros por las buenas — U por las malas" (López Silva, "Los Madriles", p. 107). "No parece sino que Felipe III, Felipe IV y Carlos II subieron ex profeso al trono de las Españas para arruinarlas, y destruir la obra de sus antepasados" (Angel de Saavedra, "Masaniello, Introducción"); "Don Quijote, como vio todo aquel mazo de barbas sin quijadas y sin sangre lejos del rostro del escudero caído, dijo: Vive Dios que es gran milagro éste: las barbas le ha derribado y arrancado del rostro, como si las quitaran aposta" (Cervantes, "Quij.", pte. I, cap. XXIX); "Al pasar por una galería estaban apostados esperándole Altisidora y la otra doncella su amiga" (Id., "Ib.", pte. II, cap. XLVI); "Pasádome ha por el pensamiento que adrede me enviastes aquella carta de burla, para darme ocasión de que os respondiese 'de burla'" (Guevara, "Epist. fam.", pte. I, V); "Los que estaban allí de guardia, acercándose a la puerta de la cámara, hacían ruido para despertarle, procurando adrede interrumpirle el sueño" (Amat, "Judit", XIV, 9); "Créeme, amigo, que es menester rogar a Nuestro Señor muy de veras que nos libre a los dos de malos hechiceros y de malos encantadores (Cervantes, "Quij.", pte. II, cap. XLIV); "Quiérote hacer sabidor de que todas estas cosas que hago, no son de burlas sino muy de veras" (Id., "Ib.", pte. I cap. XXV); "Yo ya estoy aquí demás" (Bretón, "La independencia", acto IV, esc. XIII); "Don Turuleque me llaman" — Imagino que es adrede, — Porque se zurce muy mal — El don con el Turuleque" (Quevedo, "Musa VI", rom. LXXXIV); "¿Cuál es el monstruo de maldad tan rara — Que para entrar en la celeste corte — Gratis no se agenciara un pasaporte?" (Bretón, "Desvergüenza", canto XI); "Que la mujer cruel esto de veras" (Ercilla, "Araucana", canto X); "— Donde no hay culpa, — El perdón está de más" (Calderón, "Lance de amor y fortuna", jorn. II).

En el artículo de Elena Fortún que venimos comentando nos dice la niña Celia que va a hacer a doña Benita una bolsa preciosa de tela amarilla. "Bolsa" (bag) es un saquito de cuero, tela, u otro material, que llevan las señoras en la mano y les sirve para guardar el dinero, el pañuelo, el espejito, el peine, la polvera, y los demás chismes o chirimbolos que usan para componerse y darse afeite. Generalmente llaman en España "bolsos" o "bolsitos" a esos saquillos, y es de extrañar que Celia, madrileñita neta, haya empleado la forma femenina, que es la preferida en América, donde siempre se les llama "bolsas" o "bolsitas".

No son pocos los términos castellanos que se han hecho variar de terminación y género en América. Citaré dos muy conocidos: "cerillas" (matches) llaman los españoles a las delgadas candelillas de madera, o de mecha y cera, con materia inflamable en la punta, que sirven para encender luz por fricción. En América las llaman "cerillos". En España se dice "la vuelta" (change); en América, "el vuelto".

En América aplican incorrectamente el nombre de "bolsas" a los "bolsillos" o "faltriqueras", que forman parte de los vestidos, y en los que mete uno diversas cosas usuales. Averigüe el estudiante el significado de las siguientes frases familiares castellanas, ya buscándolo en el diccionario, ya interrogando a su maestro: "Consultar con el bolsillo"; "Meterse a una persona en el bolsillo (la faltriquera)"; "No echarse nada en el bolsillo".

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6. (AP)—The Matson liner Maloio, now on a tour of the Orient and South Sea Islands, with a San Francisco Chamber of Commerce excursion, made a record run between this port and Yokohama direct, of ten days and seven hours, company officials announced today. This she did in two knots more than her cruising speed of twenty-one knots.

The Panama Mail liner El Salvador arrived early this morning from the Atlantic Coast via the Panama Canal without passengers. She will carry a full passenger list when she leaves for New York next Saturday.

Having the unique distinction of being one of the few steamship passenger traffic officials in the United States who can represent their companies both in Federal and State courts, in addition to handling traffic matters, Edward C. White of the N.Y.K. Line, left here today for Los Angeles. While will appear at an immigration hearing on Thursday in that city and then will leave for Vancouver to attend the general meeting of the Trans-Pacific Passenger Conference on the 14th inst.

SEATTLE, Oct. 6.—The Wing Line carrier Swedroot, operated through four, Guthrie & Co., will arrive here Saturday on her maiden voyage to load out a general cargo from the Northwest to the west coast of South America.

The new ship, motor driven, is the second of three new carriers the line is putting in the South American trade out of the Northwest. She has 50,000 cubic feet of refrigerator space, in addition to general cargo space and accommodations for twelve passengers.

The Swedroot will lift 2500 tons of flour, lumber and general cargo, principally at Seattle, Tacoma and Anacortes. The John Bakke, first of the new motorships put on by the line, was here recently, while the Samuel Bakke, the third of the new ships, is expected here the last of the present month.

CITY QUAFFING MORE WATER

San Diego Reports Marked Increase in Consumption

Third Quarter Millions of Gallons Over Last Year

Murray Reservoir Cut Off, Due to Poor Quality

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 6.—San Diego's consumption of water during July, August and September of this year was 461,515,000 gallons, or an average of 20,658,168 gallons daily, for which consumers paid into the City Treasury $472,380.03. This included water of a value of $56,688.40 furnished free to public institutions.

The water consumption during the third quarter, according to a review submitted to the City Council by C. K. Stout, City Auditor and Controller, was greater by 244,065,688 gallons over the similar period last year.

For water purchased from the La Mesa, Lemon Grove and Spring Valley Irrigation Company, impounded in the Murray reservoir, the city paid $14,606.73 for the third quarter of 1928, and only $1626.16 for the third quarter of the present year. The decrease was due to the poor quality of water furnished from the Murray reservoir, which was cut off several months ago and the territory served by it in East San Dieo was connected with the city main, bringing water from the lower Otay system. The report shows that during three months the city sold 80,096,821 gallons of water to Coronado, against 76,798,939 gallons during the same peribd last year. From Lake Hodges, the report shows, the city sold water to the value of $28,014.49 to the Rancho Santa Fe, San Dieguito and Delmar interests in July, August and September, an increase of $8189.60 over a year ago. Free water was furnished to the Street Department, Balboa Park and institutions within its borders, Mt. Hope Cemetery, playgrounds, Fire Department, Police, Library, Public Health departments, hospitals and city pound, to the value of $58,688.40 the past quarter, against $29,312.80 during the third quarter of 1928.

RITES FOR YOUTH CRUSHED BY TREE

NEWHALL, Oct. 6.—The funeral of Clyde Radmacher, 20 years of age, took place from the Noble undertaking establishment, San Fernando. Radmacher was killed by a falling tree while he was aiding in the building of a road with a Forestry Service gang in Shake Canyon, leading to the Sawmill Mountain lookout, thirty-five miles north of here. The tree was being chopped down. When it started to fall Radmacher was not able to get out of the way in time, and his skull was crushed by one of the larger limbs.

ARABIAN STEEDS IN SHOW

Kellogg Equine Entries Announced

Dorothy Dwan With Antez, Pride of the Rancho

Miss Dwan will sponsor this patrician animal at forthcoming international exposition of horsemanship to be held in Hollywood on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, with outstanding motion-picture stars presenting the famous Kellogg entries to the stands.

POMONA, Oct. 6.—The famous Arabian horses of the W. K. Kellogg rancho near Pomona, will be definitely entered in the International Exposition of Horsemanship to be held in Hollywood, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Personal representatives of the millionaire live-stock breeder confirmed this today, and started preparations to have the equine headliners of the ranch in fine fettle for shipment to Los Angeles Friday.

Motion-picture stars, personal friends of Kellogg, will be invited to present the horses to the grandstands, it is stated. Dorothy Dawn, widow of Larry Semon, is to personally sponsor the appearance of Antez, one of the stellar steeds.

Senor Carlos Ramos Otero, who is directing the event, personally invited Kellogg to enter his horses, and a large delegation of equine enthusiasts from Pomona are expected to go to Hollywood for the festivities.

Rudolph Valentino's favorite horse, which he used in "The Sheik," is now the property of the Kellogg ranch, and will be loaned for the exhibition, it is stated.

RARE HERON PAIR ADDED TO AVIARIES

Fowl Highly Prized for Egret Plumes Now May be Seen at Catalina

AVALON, CATALINA ISLAND, Oct. 6. — A pair of white herons, sometimes called "egrets," have been added to the Catalina Aviaries. These birds are extremely rare and come from the inaccessible regions of Honduras. These birds have been hunted to practical extermination for their priceless egret feathers. Supt. E. H. Lewis of the Catalina Bird Farm, states that there are less than a dozen specimens of the white heron in the United States today. The weird lemon-crested toucan, several rare varieties of parakeets, macaws and finches are included in the recent importations to the island aviaries.

Extensive shipments of game birds reared this season at the Catalina Bird Farm have been made to various sections of the United States and Canada. The various shipments made, total some 500 young birds and include valley, mountain and Gambel quail, gold and silver pheasants, the rare eared Manchurian pheasant and the fireback pheasant, the Chinese ring-neck pheasant and the white albino pheasant.

One of the largest orders has been sent to the Nebraska farm at Norfolk, Neb., for the opening of a large zoo and bird park. Another large shipment has been sent to H. W. Jackson at San Mateo.

White peacocks and many of the rarest species of birds have been sent to stock the private collection of Keith Spalding on his Sespe rancho, north of Fillmore.

"We are sending out shipments of young birds daily," states Lewis. "We have raised more than 1000 game and exhibition birds this season. Most gratifying is the fact that we have been able to successfully raise many birds so far believed by bird fanciers to be impossible to raise in capavity. This is doubtless due to the equitable climate of Catalina Island."

GROUND TO BE BROKEN AT COLLEGE

Ceremonies to Be Held in San Diego Today for Unit of New State Institution

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 6.—Ground-breaking ceremonies for the first unit of San Diego's new State College will be held tomorrow afternoon, faculty, alumni and students conducting the exercises. Early in the new year a big civic celebration is to be held, with the probability that May 1, "charter day" of the college, will be selected for the ceremonies. Tomorrow's observance will lack much of the pomp and circumstance of the corner-stone ceremony to follow, but it will mark the actual beginning of construction work on the total construction investment of $725,000.

Four shovelfuls of dirt will be turned in the ground breaking. The first will be dug by Gordon Gray, representing the State Board of Education, and the second by Dr. E. L. Hardy, president of State College. Barham Garner, representing the alumni of the college, will follow, while Robert Barbour, president of the Associated Student Body, will turn the fourth. Each of the four participants will make a brief address. Classes at State will close at 3 p.m. tomorrow and an automobile parade out El Cajon avenue to the new college site will be formed. The band will play while the parade is forming and while en route to the new site.

The shovel to be used in the ground-breaking ceremony will be silver plated by order of alumni students and will have a prominent place in the collection of souvenirs of the new institution.

Tomorrow's ceremony will be for the $186,000 administration building. Contract for this building is held by the Pellifer & Hunt Co. of San Diego. They are bound, under the contract, to complete the building in 250 days. The subcontract for electrical work is held by the Capitol Electric Company of this city. A Los Angeles firm has the mechanical subcontract, Dr. Hardy said.

Glendora Fears Water Shortage Coming Season

GLENDORA, Oct. 6.—Unless rains are plentiful this season, a serious shortage in the municipal water supply is imminent, according to City Clerk Fred Long.

Figures compiled for the City Council show a decrease of sixty-two feet in well No. 1 since 1924, and a worse condition in well No. 2, with the table reading 492 feet at the present time, compared to 406 feet six inches in 1924.

Mayor E. L. Comstock declared today that something will have to be done immediately to avoid the water shortage which is dangerously close.

"Unless we have plentiful rains this season, Glendora is going to be in a bad condition as far as the city water wells are concerned," City Clerk Long said today.

Collections on metered water indicated a gain of 30.2 per cent over 1924, and the city pumping plant is supplying 27.5 per cent more water this year than it did in 1924, according to Long's report.

Two Hurt When Car Hits Truck

ONTARIO, Oct. 6.—An automobile crashing into the side of a truck caused painful injuries to two men at the intersection of Euclid avenue and California Boulevard, but report at San Antonio Community Hospital today following an X-ray examination was that no serious results will follow. Julius H. Lanksner, 18 years of age, 1260 South Euclid avenue, driver of the automobile, received a fractured wrist, and other injuries, and L. Carlish, 45, Los Angeles, was also badly hurt.

The automobile, according to William Hammond, traffic officer, crashed into a truck being towed

The Herald is now being published in its new home on Azusa avenue, next door to the original printing establishment.

Hurley came to Azusa from Washington, where he was in the newspaper business, nine months ago.

"FIXING" CASE VEERS HERE

San Diego Liquor Scandal Soon to Be Brought Before Federal Grand Jury in Los Angeles

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 6.—Federal investigation of the asserted attempt to "fix" the recent $27,000 police liquor raid here, will be concluded this week and the case will be placed in the hands of a Federal grand jury in Los Angeles early next week, it was learned today.

The main charge so far indicated is conspiracy to violate the prohibition law. Before grand-jury action can be taken, however, twenty-five or thirty persons, whose names have not yet appeared in connection with the "fixing" attempt, will be questioned by Federal agents and as soon as these are interrogated, and the reports of investigators completed, the case will be laid by a deputy United States Attorney before the grand jury.

Federal agents here are making a definite attempt to bring their investigation to an immediate close. In order to get it before the Federal grand jury next week, it was pointed out, the agents' investigation must be finished early this week. Investigators admitted that they do not know if any arrests will develop out of the questioning of the twenty-five or thirty persons.

They described this planned questioning as a "fishing expedition." Additional "leads" obtained by the Federal authorities a few hours after Jess Flanders, in charge of the special agents in Southern California, left here Friday for his office in Los Angeles, prompted this last phase of the investigation. No opening will be left by investigators in the case, and for this reason they are making a last-minute check of persons that may be implicated. This investigation will be a routine one. The questioning probably will be finished by Wednesday.

Wee Kirk o' The Heather Given Its Dedication

GLENDALE, Sept. 6.—Bagpipes shrilled and tartans were much in evidence yesterday at the dedication of the new Scottish Church, the Wee Kirk o' the Heather, at Forest Lawn Memorial Park. Hundreds of Scots from all sections of the Southland were among the 5000 persons attending the dedication.

The program, sponsored by the Order of Scottish Clans and the Daughters of Scotia, was presented in front of the little kirk. Dr. Robert Freeman delivered the dedicatory address and Burr McIntosh presided. Frank MacWilliams, Scottish tenor, sang "Annie Laurie" to Miss Margaret MacTaggart, who impersonated the famed Scottish lass. Scottish airs were played by the Scotish Clan Bagpipers.

At the conclusion of the program, the new church, a replica of the kirk where Annie Laurie worshiped in Dumfriesshire, was thrown open to visitors, as was also the Christus Garden, adjoining the church, wherein is Thorvaldsen's famous statute of the Christ. The new church is a companion edifice to the Little Church of the Flowers at Forest Lawn.

Celebration for Street Opening Set Week Later

SOUTH GATE, Oct. 6.—At a meeting of representatives of the Chambers of Commerce of Lynwood, Huntington Park and this city, together with representatives of the State Street Improvement Association, it has been decided to change the State Street improvement celebration from the night of the 8th inst. to the night of the 16th inst., so that ample time will be given for the connections to be made on the entire lighting system through these three cities along this newly improved thoroughfare.

Announcement has been made by A. C. Wisegarver of this city, president of the State Street Improvement Association, that the plan is to decorate the street from the north side of Huntington Park, through South Gate, and to Norwood street in Lynwood. The procession on the evening of the celebration will be formed at the north end of State street in Huntington Park, and with two brass bands in the lead, will march south through this city and into Lynwood and will then countermarch to State and Santa Ana streets, in this city, where the program for the evening will be given. There will be a big street dance as part of the entertainment.

State street has recently been improved with a fifty-six-foot wide paved roadway, new sidewalks and an ornamental lighting system.

Prisoner Twice Makes Get-Away From Road Camp

ONTARIO, Oct. 6.—Carl Lee, 315 North Plum avenue, does not like the county prison camp, and for the third time he is being sought far and wide by police of the Southland.

Lee was working with a gang of prisoners in upper Lytle Creek Canyon, the first day he had been out of solitary confinement since his second walkaway July 3. He was walking a short distance ahead of the guard on the way to work. At a clump of brush he disappeared down the hillside. On July 3 Lee walked away from the camp and was captured three days later in his home in Ontario where he had gone, he said, to spend the Fourth of July shooting firecrackers "With the kid and wife."

Lee has a young child. He was taken back to the County Jail and sentenced to sixty days' solitary confinement. His first walk away from the prison camp was of even shorter duration.

ENROLLMENT RECORD MADE

HUNTINGTON PARK, Oct. 6.—The first four weeks of the present school year shows the largest enrollment of pupils in the history of the Huntington Park city school district, the total enrolled reaching 5806. The largest enrollment is at the State-street school with 1288 pupils, while the smallest is 339 pupils at the Carmelita school, which was opened the first week of the present school year.

AZUSA WOMAN GETS LIMIT

Lucky Shot Secures Second Deer

Mrs. J. B. Alexander and Her Buck Trophy

Azusa woman brought down her first deer of the season in Ventura county on opening day of season, and her second, the limit allowed hunters, in Little Dalton Canyon, the first to be bagged there this season.

AZUSA, Oct. 6.—A shot in the nick of time at a fleeting gray streak through the trees in Little Dalton Canyon above Glendora, early yesterday morning resulted in the season's limit of deer for Mrs. J. B. Alexander of 935 Azusa avenue, Azusa.

Killing her first deer this year in the Alimo Mountains in Ventura county, on August 1, opening day of the deer season, Mrs. Alexander began her quest for the coveted limit before dawn yesterday morning, and her desire was rewarded with the kill before she had been away from her home two hours.

"The deer was so pretty that my first impulse was not to kill it, but when it saw me and turned about for its escape through the brush and trees, the hunter's spirit moved me to shoot," Mrs. Alexander related.

The deer limit is a much-coveted honor among sportsmen and is a credit to the expert marksmanship of Mrs. Alexander as well as her prowess as a hunter, it is declared.

She was accompanied on the hunt by her sister, Mrs. E. L. Emerick of Azusa, who is also an expert shot and has a number of deer to her credit.

"I was born in Kentucky, where the skill of shooting is an important requisite in accomplishments, and trained by my brothers I became what is termed a 'sharp shooter,' or otherwise, a 'good shot,'" Mrs. Alexander stated while talking about the kill.

According to District Ranger N. H. Petersen, Mrs. Alexander holds the distinction of bagging the first deer in the Glendora mountains this season.

SAN JOSE DIVISION HAS NEW FIRE ENGINE

SAN DIMAS, Oct. 6.—To serve the entire San Jose division of the Los Angeles County Forestry Department, a new pump truck has been added to the district equipment, according to K. P. Carter, fire warden of the San Jose area.

The new equipment consists of a 600-gallon water tank with a pressure system capable of throwing a stream of 90 to 100 feet at 150 pounds pressure. The truck carries 150 feet of hose with fittings for emergencies.

With the approach of the fall rains, a large number of the crew employed during the dry season will be assigned to camps and building of fire breaks, Warden Carter stated.

BIG DIVOT-DIGGING DAY SET IN VALLEY

ENCINO, Oct. 6.—It was given out today that the big fall tournament at the St. Andrews golf course, between here and Girard, will open on the 20th inst., the date having been tentatively fixed. Hundreds of players in San Fernando Valley usually take part. It also is stated that a qualifying round of eighteen holes must be played before the date, and that the sixteen low qualifiers will constitute the championship flight. Match play in this flight will be at scratch. The remainder will be given handicaps.

All amateur players are eligible. If they intend to take part in the tournament, in which there is no entrance fee, St. Andrews officials request they report at the course and get the full rules of the coming contest.

CARBON HAS DOUBLE, SO IT'S 'TWINS'

Superheating of Element by Research Workers Adds Proof to King Theory

PASADENA, Oct. 6.—Discovery that carbon, perhaps the most essential element in animal life, has a twin, was announced recently by Dr. Arthur S. King of the Mt. Wilson Observatory and Dr. Raymond T. Birge of the University of California.

The new type of carbon was revealed when the scientists heated carbon in a vacuum in an electric furnace to a temperature of about 5000 deg. Fahrenheit, and the light emitted was analyzed with a spectroscope.

Besides the ordinary spectrum of carbon, which includes a prominent red band, the photograph recorded a scarcely perceptible band previously unknown.

Dr. King is of the opinion that the new band can be explained by the presence, in addition to the ordinary form of carbon, of another distinctive variety.

The relation of the "carbon twins" is unknown, but the discoverers believe that the new form, which is heavier, must be present in minute quantities, in view of the fact that its spectrum band is one one-hundredth as strong as that of the common variety.

Twin forms of the same element, possessing different weights, were discovered first in connection with studies of radio-active substances.

Dr. F. W. Aston, English scientist, found that several of the elements are composed of six or more "twins" or isotopes.

Prior to the discovery of the carbon isotope, Dr. W. F. Glauque and H. L. Johnstone, both of the University of California, proved the existence of three oxygen isotopes, existence of which Dr. King had suspected.

HEALTH INSPECTORS ADDED TO VALLEY

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 6.—Two additional health inspectors have been detailed for work in San Fernando Valley under Dr. George Parrish, Los Angeles city health officer. They are Roy Young and H. J. DeLacy, who will look after housing, quarantine, sanitation and food inspection, and will inspect and improve conditions in poultry and rabbit slaughter houses and packing plants. One will be at the slaughter house near San Fernando and the other at the plant near North Hollywood.

LANCASTER PUPILS SHOW EXTRA THRIFT

LANCASTER, Oct. 6.—Although, comparatively speaking, Lancaster is a small town, the thrift of its school-children is such as to make larger communities sit up and take notice. Banks here report that through a savings system in vogue in the elementary school, the pupils have nearly $1200 on deposit. The savings are made during each week within the school and then deposited. Last week more than $46 was placed in the bank. The weekly amount is not an unusual one, it is stated.

SCULPTOR SAVES TIME

Spaniard Who is Leading Exponent of "Taille Direct" School Eliminates Preliminaries in Clay

ALTADENA, Oct. 6.—When Senor Jose de Creeft, internationally known leader of the new "taille direct" school of sculpture, was a small boy in Spain, he was given a pocket knife and a chip of wood.

The crude toy boat which he carved out of the chip is gone, the knife and chip have been exchanged for a chisel and a block of stone or ebony column, and the boy is now a man who critics say is on the high road to immortality in his art.

The Spanish sculptor is visiting America for the first time, and he and Senora de Creeft, the former Miss Alice Robertson Carr, are guests at the residence of Frederick T. Griffith, 313 East Calaveras street. Senora de Creeft, a native American, has won recognition as a sculptress in this country. When her husband's Spanish or French becomes too technical for his interviewers, she serves as his official interpreter.

Senor de Creeft asserts that what surprises him most on his first visit to the United States is that Americans, despite their reputed concentration on business, are "more cordial, more leisurely and more inclined to be helpful to strangers than are the English or most Europeans."

AIMS FOR VARIETY

The distinguished visitor has used his medium to create a variety of enduring masterpieces, serious and humorous. His carved stone memorial, "The Poilu," at Saughes, France, is hailed as one of the finest monuments of its kind. One of his best pieces of work, in his own opinion, is a stone bust of Frederico Beltrain, the Cuban painter.

Instead of the usual modern method of making clay models and using a semimechanical finishing process, the "taille direct" exponents sink their chisels directly into the raw stone or wood.

The idea of the "taille direct" school of sculptors, Senora de Creeft explained, is to recognize the peculiar artistic possibilities hidden in each piece of material.

"In wood, there is always the chance of an unexpected turn in the grain, and in stone the degree of hardness may vary or a small fissure appear," she asserted.

"If the sculptor's inspiration is unhampered by a model, his imagination is free to overcome such apparent defects and force them to add artistic quality. An exponent of "taille direct" accepts any unexpected variation in his material as a challenge, whereas other sculptors might destroy their models for material."

"STUDY, BUT DON'T COPY"

Asked to give his first impressions of art in the United States, Senor de Creeft voiced the opinion that "America is bubbling with ideas, but she has not yet become balanced."

"While architecture in the United States is practical and adapted to the day, decoration, sculpture, even furniture, are borrowed from the past.

"If you are going to develop an art of your own in these fields, very young American art students should not study abroad, for they are too easily influenced by the style of antiquity. Europe is the museum of the world to be studied, not copied!"

After sojourning in New York City for a few months, Senor de Creeft will return to Spain to complete a group of stone columns surrounding one of the public buildings.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY 1465

The Story of the World War

235—Strength of the A. E. F., July 15, 1918

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

BY THE MIDDLE OF JULY, 1918, MORE THAN A MILLION AMERICAN SOLDIERS HAD BEEN LANDED IN FRANCE. THOUGH AS YET NOT ACTING AS AN INDEPENDENT ARMY, THE A.E.F. HAD BECOME AN IMPORTANT FACTOR.

THE GERMANS, THOROUGHLY ALARMED BY THE RAPID RATE AT WHICH AMERICAN TROOPS WERE ARRIVING, RESOLVED TO MAKE A FINAL BID FOR VICTORY BEFORE THE AMERICAN SOLDIER SHOULD TURN THE TIDE AGAINST THEM.

"FORTUNATELY FOR THE ALLIES THE GERMAN ATTACK AND ITS LOCATION WERE FORESEEN AND MORE FORTUNATELY STILL THE CONSIDERABLE NUMBER OF AMERICAN SOLDIERS WHO HAD NOW ARRIVED WERE EITHER IN THE LINE, IN RESERVE READY FOR THE COUNTER-ATTACK WHICH HAD BEEN PLANNED DURING THE FIRST DAYS OF JULY, OR, IN THE CASE OF NEWLY-ARRIVED DIVISIONS, READY AND ANXIOUS TO GET INTO THE FIGHT WITH AS LITTLE TIME AS POSSIBLE FOR COMPLETE EQUIPMENT."

KETTLEMAN OIL INCREASE NEAR

Two New Projects Approach Completion Stage

Success of One Regarded as Highly Important

Would Add Large Potential Producing Area

With the Shell Oil Company finishing its Armstrong No. 1 on the north dome, and the Ohio Oil Company preparing to swab Smith No. 1 on the south dome, the Kettleman Hills oil field faces the possibility of having two new wells on production within a few days, together with the possibility of demonstrating its first deep production on the south end of the long chain of hills.

Armstrong No. 1 on Sec. 8, 22-18 has cut two and one-half-inch tubing to a depth of 7166 feet and is running the drill at 7186 feet. This well blew in for a couple of months ago, natural higher up, and produced 1000 barrels of oil a day until it was plugged to go deeper. Smith No. 1 on Sec. 32, 20-19, many miles southeast of the Shell well, is approaching completion stage, with bottom at 6655 feet. Its completion would add millions of dollars to the value of lands on the south dome held by Pacific Western Oil Company, Bolsa Chica Oil Corporation, Shell Oil and other operating organizations. Its success would prove the existence of an oil structure for a distance of perhaps twenty-five miles along the Kettleman Hills.

It is expected that within a day or two Ohio will swab into the oil zone, where three-inch tubing is set at 6655 feet. The company is prepared for any emergency. Traps and storage tanks are up in anticipation of production. The General Petroleum Corporation's pipe line is near the well and may be utilized to handle the output.

The best producer for Kettleman Hills is the Continental Oil Company's Elliott No. 12-8 on the north dome. Completed more than a month ago, as an offset to the Millham Exploration Company's Elliott No. 1 discovery well, it is putting out 1000 barrels of 60-deg. gravity oil per day from a depth of 6876 feet, while Millham's producer is flowing approximately 2700 barrels daily from a depth of 7236 feet.

With the Standard Oil Company's No. 11 on Sec. 11, 22-17 flowing 1000 barrels of oil per day with bottom at 6673 feet, total output for the field averages 10,530 barrels daily, thus controlling of Continental's first completion, however, Millham's discovery well has shown a slight flow increase and may return within a few hundred barrels of its former flow.

The General Petroleum Corporation has been patiently fishing for 22 feet of three-inch drill pipe in its Ochsner No. 2 on Sec. 26, 22-18 with bottom at 7230 feet. This became lodged in the hole several weeks ago. The Ochsner No. 2 on Sec. 23, 22-18 is drilling below 6655 feet.

The Associated Oil Company is fishing for five joints of drill pipe, a roller and bit in its Watson No. 1 on Sec. 34, 22-18. Bottom of the hole is at 4328 feet.

Eight and five-eighths-inch casing is cemented at 6380 feet in the Petroleum Securities Company's Felix No. 1 on Sec. 35, 21-17, on top of the oil sand at 6640 feet. Nine-inch casing is cemented at 6450 feet in Buena Vista No. 1 on Sec. 28, 20-16 with bottom at 6650 feet. The Robinson No. 1 on Sec. 14, 22-17 is drilling below 6370 feet.

Standard has eight wells drilling below 6000 feet and one producer. Thirteen and five-eighths-inch casing is cemented at 5176 feet in the No. 21 on Sec. 17, 22-18 with bottom at 5198 feet. The No. 41 on Sec. 3, 28-17 is drilling below 7020 feet and the No. 1 on Sec. 10, 22-17 is at 6220 feet.

VENTURA TO FIGHT GAS CUT

Several Operators in Field Reported Planning for Test of State Conservation Act

VENTURA, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—That the State probably has struck a snag in the Ventura-avenue oil field in an effort to enforce the new gas conservation law was indicated Saturday by the report that several individuals heavily interested in the production from that area are preparing to file suits for a test of the constitutionality of the act.

Meanwhile, State Oil and Gas Supervisor Bush, who handed down his curtailment order Thursday, is preparing to serve all persons interested in that field with a printed copy of his order and is having it posted on all of the wells in the field. The order becomes effective Saturday.

Under the terms of this order, which is the first that has been issued in pursuance of the conservation campaign, the gas output of the field is to be cut more than 50 per cent. This will sharply pinch back the production of light refinable oil, and will adversely affect the drilling program which companies have maintained there for several years.

The present gas output of the field is 260,000,000 cubic feet per day. Supervisor Bush's order prohibits the operators from sending 7,000,000 cubic feet of gas per day into Santa Barbara county, and allows them to turn 112,500,000 cubic feet a day into the Los Angeles pipe line from September 15 to March 15, and 87,500,000 cubic feet a day from March 15 to September 15.

WASTE FIXED

The supervisor has forbidden the operators to waste more than 5000 cubic feet a day from any well. A ratio of 10,000 cubic feet of gas per barrel of oil has been specified for the newer part of the field and 20,000 cubic feet per barrel of oil for the remainder of the field. During the hearings at Ventura last week it was pointed out by several operators that in view of the great reduction in the total gas production of the field the gas and oil ratios in question have little practical application.

The reading of Supervisor Bush's order was followed by the formal presentation of strongly-worded objections and exceptions by J. P. Beek, attorney for the Shell Oil Company. He raised the point that the order is contrary to the law and the evidence, that the supervisor has exceeded his administrative authority, and abused his authority, and that the order is premature in that no findings have been arrived at for the other oil fields of Southern California.

GUIO GIVES VIEWS

Speaking for the Associated Oil Company, Harrison Guio concurred in the objections offered by Mr. Beek, adding that the Associated does not recognize that the supervisor has any authority to issue an order setting up different ratios in a field. He objected to the specified ratios, and to the requirement for shutting down and perhaps permanently damaging certain wells. He also objected to the allocation of percentages of gas outlets to the various leases. A representative of the Bolsa Chica Oil Corporation voiced similar objections.

Men who have taken a prominent part in the development of the Ventura-avenue field are of the opinion that if the order is rigidly enforced it may result in the complete destruction of some of the most valuable wells in the field. There are 175 wells producing oil. Quite a number of these were brought in through the drill stem two or three years ago, and had to be continued in that condition because of extremely heavy gas pressure. In one instance, a well on the verge of completion, high on the structure, was capped and left standing because the operating company feared that if it undertook to bring the well in the gas pressure might tear a whole side out of a hill and wreck from six to ten producing wells. One lease was relegated to the "sleeper" class, by mutual agreement between land owners and operators, because it was feared that its development would be hazardous.

RESULT IN DOUBT

During the hearing Thursday, Joseph Jensen, petroleum engineer for Associated, expressed the belief that under the proposed gas reduction program many existing wells would be disastrously affected. Some wells, he admitted, could be beaned back to curtail gas output, but it would be necessary to completely kill and shut in certain others to meet the supervisor's requirements.

"Nobody can forecast what the result will be," said Engineer Jensen. "The experience in the past has been that many wells so shut in have never returned to their original state of productivity when reopened."

Some of the operators say that it will be necessary to pump many of the producing wells full of mud in order to kill their production and cap them. These wells, it is feared, will clog up if kept shut in for the two-year period of curtailment proposed, and may be irreparably damaged, while dangerous pressures may build up in the wells left flowing, as a result of shutting in a great quantity of gas.

Supervisor Bush is allowing the operators twenty-five days in which to make all new wells completed hereafter conform to the 10,000 to one gas and oil ratio.

The natural gas supply, which formerly went from the Ventura-avenue field to Santa Barbara and San Luis Obispo counties, has been allocated by Supervisor Bush to the Elwood field for the reason that Elwood can produce that volume of gas with a much lower gas and oil ratio, and that through such an arrangement the greatest possible quantity of natural gas can be retained underground.

The thought has been expressed by some of the Ventura operators that the State should have undertaken gas curtailment at Ventura on a graduating scale, undertaking at the outset to pinch in perhaps 25 per cent of the wastage and studying the effect upon the wells before trying to pinch back the gas output a matter of more than 50 per cent.

MINE MILL UNIT NEAR ELY READY

New Standard Mining to Put Plant in Operation at Early Date

ELY (Nev.) Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—The New Standard Mining Company, composed of eastern and Southern California capitalists, has completed construction of the first fifty-ton unit of a large mill in the noted Cherry Creek district, fifty miles from Ely, and is preparing to start steady production.

The corporation controls the Exchequer, Imperial, British American and Star groups, embracing more than fifty claims, and is reported to have optioned the Mary Ann and North Mountain mines. The 4000-foot Star tunnel has been repaired and is to be extended 2000 feet. A large tonnage of commercial ore is reported exposed in old workings.

Manager L. A. Friedman of the Seven Troughs Gold Mines Company announces that the prospecting drills from the face of the 8250-foot tunnel have tapped the silver ore body in the Coalition workings, instead of the main Coalition vein, as was at first thought.

The silver ledge shows a width of four to five feet while the ore of good mill grade. Three strong and distinct ore bodies have been disclosed by the tunnel, which is assumed to be about twenty-five feet from the Coalition ore-channel. Building of the 100-ton mill is progressing steadily, with equipment commencing to arrive.

NEW TEXAS UNIVERSITY LEASES OUT

Cash Bonus of $165,,161 Paid on Eighteen Tracts in Three Counties

AUSTIN (Tex.) Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—Leases on eighteen of the thirty-eight tracts of land owned by the University of Texas in the Ector, Crane and Pecos county oil fields have been awarded by the leasing board of that institution for cash bonuses aggregating $165,161. Bids on twenty tracts have been rejected.

Besides the cash bonus, the university receives $1 an acre rental and one-eighth royalty on all oil and gas that may be produced. It is estimated that a total of more than $5,000,000 will come to the university from these leases.

The highest-priced lease was $500 per acre bonus on forty acres described as the northwest quarter of the southwest quarter of Sec. 13, Block 18, in Pecos county, for which the California Company paid a bonus of $20,000, $1 per acre rent and one-eighth royalty on future oil and gas production. The largest lease item was 160 acres of Sec. 3, Block 35, Ector county, for which the Landreth Production Corporation paid a bonus of $20,113.

OHIO PLUGS BACK IN BELRIDGE PROJECT

BELRIDGE, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—The Ohio Oil Company is plugging its No. 23 well in the Belridge field on Sec. 30, 28-21, back to 697 feet and has cemented the six and three-fourths-inch casing at that depth. The hole was drilled to a depth of 1000 feet, where the four and three-fourths-inch casing was cemented. An attempt to bail at the bottom proved successful, but production was not satisfactory. Formation is now being tested from 653 feet and below with the hope of finding a commercial yield.

TESTS SHUT-OFF JOB

Kern Hill's Round Mountain Well Cemented at 1560 Feet

ROUND MOUNTAIN, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—The Kern Hills Petroleum Corporation's recement job in its No. 1 well, Sec. 6, 28-29, in the Round Mountain district, is being tested. Bottom of the hole is at 1576 feet with casing cemented at 1546 feet.

The recement job was completed on the eight and one-fourth-inch casing at 1560 feet. Water trouble is said to have caused failure of the crew's initial attempts to set the casing at the latter depth.

BARITE OF BARSTOW IN DEMAND

Oil Industry of State Obtaining Supply from Barstow Deposits

The Barstow district, on the edge of the Mojave Desert, in San Bernardino county, now is contributing extensively to the development of California oil fields by supplying barite, which is used for various purposes in drilling operations—particularly to hold back excessive gas pressures.

D. H. Gray of the Barite Company, which has its offices at Venice, reports that the company has opened up an extensive deposit of barite only five miles from Barstow. The highway runs right to the mine.

"We have cross cut one vein of the material—evidently the mother vein—with a width of fifteen to eighteen feet," says Mr. Gray, "and so far it shows a depth of over 200 feet, with an outcropping of nearly 6000 feet."

Engineers have estimated that the deposit contains at least 250,000 tons. The property is covered by mining claims. The company plans to put in the next sixty days doing development work and will then put the mine on a producing basis.

Granite Shaft Will Mark Gold Discovery Spot

GRASS VALLEY, Oct. 6. (AP)—The date for dedication of a five-ton granite marker commemorating the first discovery of quartz gold on Gold Hill, Nevada county, has been set tentatively as the 20th inst. If that date is acceptable to the grand officers of the Native Sons of the Golden West the shaft will be unveiled on that day.

The inscription on the shaft, selected by the Native Daughters of the Golden West, is to tell the history of the first discovery of gold in lode formation in the State.

The site of the marker will command an excellent view of Grass Valley and the Sierra Nevada Mountains. It is expected that in time the area surrounding the marker will be reserved as a park.

REFINERY TO EXPAND

Addition to Pasotex Plant in Texas to Cost $1,250,000

AUSTIN (Tex.) Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—Although the Pasotex oil refinery here was completed and placed in operation only a few months ago plans have been approved for its enlargement at a cost of $1,250,000, it was stated by Manager Walter G. Hamilton.

The storage facilities at the plant will also be increased. The capacity of the refinery will be increased to 5500 barrels daily from 3700 barrels daily.

NEW MEXICO OIL BOOM REPORTED

Los Angeles Operator Tells Stir in Lea County

New Town Rising at Location of Company Holdings

Concern Already Has Well on Production in Area

Returning yesterday from New Mexico, where he went to look over oil property, Willard Arnott, president of the Los Angeles-New Mexico Oil Company, Ltd., reports that Lea county in that State is enjoying a brisk oil boom, and that a new town known as Lea is being built fifty miles east of Carlsbad. Twenty stores, garages and offices already have been erected.

WILLARD ARNOTT.

Mr. Arnott's company is joint owner with Cranfill & Reynolds of Dallas, Tex., of a quarter section lease adjacent to the new town of Lea, and already has on production one well yielding 1500 barrels a day. The output tests 31 deg. gravity. Derricks are being completed for the drilling of two new wells on this property.

Fifteen miles east of Carlsbad George F. Getty, Inc., is erecting an 80,000-barrel steel storage tank on its Dooley lease to handle the output from that well while the company is making arrangements for pipe-line facilities. The pipe line nearest to the property at present is thirty-five miles distant.

Getty brought in the Dooley No. 4 on this land last summer. It gauged 2000 barrels a day for a short test flow and was then shut in. The product tests over 20 deg. gravity.

MINE MILL SHIPPED

Machinery for Plant of National Silver on Way to Inyo

Shipment was made this week of the machinery and equipment for the 150-ton concentrating milling plant for the Big Silver mine of the National Silver Corporation in Inyo county, California, and upon its arrival at the property installation will begin.

Plant should be in operation at an early date, according to President and General Manager John D. Fields, in the treatment of gold-silver ore of a value of $30 per ton and up. The company is planning regular shipments of crude ore in October of an average value of $120 per ton. Mine development continues during construction of milling plant. Large ore tonnages are available for immediate mill treatment.

SANTA FE OIL PEAK SIGHTED

Gradual Decline Forecast Following Possible Gain from Clarke Zone Development

With upward of 200 wells drilling toward the lower Clarke zone in the Santa Fe Springs field, oil operators are expecting that district to maintain at least its present daily production and probably climb somewhat higher, reaching a peak for that zone between sixty and ninety days from date, after which, it is generally believed, that remarkable field will gradually become a declining factor in oil economics.

Just now a large number of operators are crowding their wells along as rapidly as possible to skim the cream from the third Clarke sand "while the getting is good." The gas pressure in that horizon is heavy and excellent production is expected for a time, although water already is showing up in wells drilled to this zone around the edges of the field.

A snappy survey indicates that seven companies are collectively drilling 144 wells to the lower Clarke. These wells are as follows: General Petroleum Corporation, thirty-five; Standard Oil Company, twenty-eight; Shell Oil Company, twenty-three; George F. Getty, Inc., twenty-one; Union Oil Company, fifteen; Associated Oil Company, eight; Texas Company, fourteen. Shell expects to complete seven wells in the lower Clarke during October.

ZONE SPREADS

Some idea of the productivity of the lower Clarke zone may be gathered from the fact that wells drilled on three sides of it already prove that it spreads out over fully as much area as the old Meyer sand, and that includes all of the present field, excepting a few scattering outpost derricks. The Superior Oil Company some weeks ago hooked the three Clarkdale sands together in its Wardman No. 7 and got 7000 barrels of oil per day out of it.

On the other hand, an Associated's Clarke well, with sixty feet of open hole in the lower sand, is dead with water trouble, its Steinly No. 6 is cutting 20 per cent water with 345 feet of the lower Clarke sand open out in the south end of the field, and the Universal Consolidated Oil Company's O'Connell No. 4 is cutting 17 per cent water with 150 feet of the lower Clarke open. The Texas Company is reported as having two wells cutting water in this horizon.

PROSPECTS DEEP

The mining bureau requires operators to make water shut-offs at the top of the old Meyer, the O'Connell and the upper Clarke sands in proceeding to the lower Clarke. Wells are going from 7500 to 8200 feet to develop production in this zone, but are said to be having less trouble getting a shut-off at the extreme depth than they used to have shutting off at the Meyer sand. The Shell Oil Company, operating over on the Slusher lease, to which the O'Connell sand does not extend, can skip the shut-off for that zone and set nine and five-eighths-inch casing at the top of the upper Clarke sand. This zone is sometimes confused with the Hathaway sand. The latter was found by Oscar Howard on his Hathaway lease, but it was also found by Associated, which found three continuous sands on its Clarke lease and the mining bureau characterizes them as the three Clarke sands.

Wells approaching completion in the lower zone are Standard's Weisel No. 17 and Weisel No. 18, South Whittier Community No. 21 and the South Whittier Community No. 24; five of Shell's Slusher wells, two of its G.H.N. wells, and several General Petroleum and Union Oil Company wells. The Associated Clarke No. 22 is just rigging up.

Since the discovery of the Clarke sands the General Petroleum Corporation has completed six wells in the Clarke, giving it a total output of more than 10,000 barrels daily from that zone. As a result of its success, locations have just been made for Anderson No. 153-F, Santa Fe No. 238 and No. 169-D and Jalk No. 116.

The Union Oil Company has three wells drilling below 7000 feet for the same zone on the Bell, Alexander, Howard and Farwell leases.

The deepest of the lower Clarke sand tests is the Texas Company's Patterson No. 10-A, near the intersection of Little Lake and Forest roads. Its drill has passed through the lower Clarke formation and now is at 8540 feet, with the prospect of completion within a week, with 250 feet of productive formation penetrated, half of which is said to be oil sand.

The Texas Company will drill at least fourteen projects into the lower Clarke, while six are drilling to other zones. The best Santa Fe producer completed by Texas is Baldwin No. 4, which came in for 12,000 barrels in the O'Donnell sand, but its output has declined to about 3500 barrels daily.

Glide Project at Poso Creek Going on Pump

POSO STATION, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—The General Petroleum Corporation is making final preparations for putting its Glide No. 15 well in this district on the pump. Production is expected to be obtained from a depth of 1583 feet, where the ten-and-three-quarter-inch casing is cemented, although bottom of the hole is at 1667 feet.

The company is now cleaning the liner and probing the formation in final tests. The well is located on Sec. 21, 27-28, and is the company's only drilling job in the sector at this time.

SECTION TWENTY-SIX OIL DRILLING AGAIN

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—The Section Twenty-six Oil Company, only operator in the Upper Kern River area, has resumed operations and is drilling ahead in its well on Sec. 26, 28-28, after cleaning out. The hole was first drilled to 1870 feet.

OIL ACTIVITY IN KERN POINTS UP

Talk of Conservation Fails to Halt Operations

Sixteen New Wells Started During Last Week

Total Largest for Similar Period in Long Time

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—The State-wide oil-conservation program so much discussed at this time, is not being reflected in the amount of development work being carried on in the oil fields of Kern county. During the past week sixteen new wells were started, that being the largest number of wells started here in one week.

It is remarkable that most of the wells are in proved fields. The valuable production of the Maricopa-Sunset field is responsible for much of the development work. Elsewhere, lease requirements are responsible, it is said. It is noteworthy that few of the recent wells have been caused by drilling requirements under government prospecting permits.

Seven new wells are slated for the Midway-Sunset field. They are California Western Oil Company's Havenstrite No. 2 and Havenstrite No. 4 on Sec. 17, 11-23; Birch Royer Oil Company, No. 2, on Sec. 7, 11-23; Union Oil Company, Son No. 1, on Sec. 8, 11-23; Signal Oil and Gas Company, Signal-Wallace No. 4 on Sec. 8, 11-23, and Reservoir Hill Gasoline Company, Havenstrite No. 2 on Sec. 17, 11-23.

Three new wells on the Kern front are General Petroleum Corporation's No. 10 on Sec. 14, 28-27; Pan American Petroleum Company's No. 14 and No. 16, on Sec. 22, 28-27.

At Poso Creek the Union Oil Company will drill Tribe No. 5 on Sec. 28, 27-28, and the Texas Company will drill Alta Vedder No. 2 on Sec. 4, 27-28.

Two new wells in the Midway field are Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company's No. 65 on Sec. 8, 32-23, and the Richfield Oil Company's Calivada No. 4 on Sec. 34, 32-24.

The General Petroleum Corporation will drill K.C.L.C. No. 13-1 on Sec. 13, 29-26, in the Fruitvale area.

Two wildcat wells in the week's grist of permits are the Texas Company's Newman No. 1 on Sec. 22, 29-28, three miles east of Bakersfield, and the Wesco Petroleum Company's No. 1 on Sec. 14, 11-24 southwest of Maricopa.

CAMPTONVILLE MINE AREA SHOWS ACTIVITY

Mining is active in the Camptonville section of Sierra county. The Mt. Alta mine had recently reopened under the management of the Eastman Consolidated Mines Company of San Jose, and a small crew is prospecting the gravel channel. L. F. Lorenzo has acquired the Leonard Foote claims near Snowden Hill and is planning on a small mill and compressor.

UNITED GAS MAKES STRIDES

Texas Company Owns 2707 Miles of Pipe Lines; 42,676,000,000 Cubic Feet Delivered in Year

AUSTIN (Tex.) Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—Although the United Gas Company was not incorporated until May, 1928, it now owns through its operating subsidiaries 2707 miles of natural gas pipe lines, exclusive of approximately 1600 miles of pipe lines in which it is interested or has under construction.

The system covers a wide area of Texas and Louisiana and it supplies fuel to many important cities, including Houston, San Antonio, Beaumont, Port Arthur, Orange, Laredo, Austin, Palestine, Marshall and a number of smaller towns.

It is stated by O. R. Seagraves of Galveston, president of the United Gas Company, that it owns, through its subsidiaries, leases covering gas rights on more than 245,000 acres in fifteen separate fields and gas purchase contracts covering production during the life of the leases on more than 224,000 acres in thirteen separate fields.

OIL RIGHTS ALSO HELD

In addition to this, the company owns leases covering oil rights on more than 161,900 acres in fifteen separate fields. The company has more than 400 gas wells producing with a daily open flow in excess of 7,370,000,000 cubic feet.

During 1928, the consolidated companies of the United Gas Company produced in excess of 17,900,000,000 cubic feet of gas, and there was purchased, through its contracts, 24,700,000,000 cubic feet, a total of 42,676,000,000 cubic feet being delivered to consumers.

In the first six months of the current year, ending June 30, sales of the United Gas Company system totaled 22,078,134,000 cubic feet of natural gas. Gross revenues during that period were $6,484,749.

During the month of July of the current year, gas sales showed an increase of 20,000,000 cubic feet over the preceding month and now are running in excess of 135,000,000 cubic feet daily, with the volume tending higher as the colder weather of late fall and winter approaches.

INVADING MEXICO

The United Gas Company is invading Mexico with a natural gas pipe line. This line will transport natural gas from the Jennings field, in Zapata county, to Monterrey, the principal industrial city of Northern Mexico, crossing the Rio Grande at Roma, Tex.

In addition to the United Gas Company's network of gas lines in Texas, it has extensive affiliations elsewhere. Through its investments in the Mississippi River Fuel Corporation, Consolidated Gas Utilities and Natural Gas Securities Corporation, the limits of the company's territory extended to such centers as St. Louis and Wichita, Kan., on the north, and El Paso, Tex., on the west.

Besides producing, transporting and distributing natural gas, two of the United Gas Company's controlled companies, Houston Gulf Gas Company and Mission Drilling Company, are producing oil in the Refugio Field in South Texas. These two companies control more than 80 per cent of the proven territory in the extensive Refugio field.

The company also owns the Duval-Texas Sulphur Company, which is developing a sulphur deposit in Duval county, Texas.

VERDE CENTRAL FORGING AHEAD

Manager Reports Property at Producing Stage

Development Work Not Yet Fully Completed

Calumet-Arizona Operating Estate Under Option

JEROME (Ariz.) Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—Verde Central is operating steadily, with reports of satisfactory returns and of close concentration in the new mill. According to General Manager R. H. Dickson, "the mine has reached the productive stage, but has not passed the development stage."

Prospecting and development are being continued. About 75,000 feet of work has been done thus far, with 4000 feet of shafts, 54,000 feet of drifting and 17,000 feet of diamond drilling. About $1,600,000 has been spent in development and exploratory work. The start, in 1904, was on ground that showed no copper outcrop, but had attractive fault conditions on the surface.

In 1921 the property was optioned by the Calumet and Arizona Corporation, which since has been in control. No treasury stock ever was offered the public and any market quotations are on the basis of a relatively small quantity of outside shares.

Work has been extended down to 1900 feet of depth, with the expectation of sinking 600 feet below the present stoping levels of the main ore bodies. The main producing workings are on the Black Butte vein, on which levels have been run at 150-foot intervals from the 600 to the 900-foot level. Most of the exploration has been on the 1000-foot level.

While the mine area is passed through by the United Verde fault and the ore, a chalcopyrite, is similar to that of its great neighbor, no definite connection has been established of the ores. Verde Central ores vary from 2½ to 5 per cent copper and are readily concentrated, final reduction being in the United Verde Extension smelter at Clemenceau.

OLD SILVER PROPERTY IN NEW HANDS

Seventy-eight Mine at Stockton Hill Passes to Seattle Syndicate

KINGMAN (Ariz.) Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—The old Seventy-eight mine, south of Stockton Hill, is reported to have been taken over by a Seattle syndicate, organized as the H. B. Metals Company. Much development work is projected. The property was one of the best silver producers in pioneer times, worked by tunnels, with abandonment for years after the main vein faulted.

At Mineral Park, the management of the Evahom property is upraising for a new main shaft, incidentally cutting ore that assays 300 ounces silver. This appears to be a new find, separate from the vein that has been worked. A fifty-ton mill is planned.

Wright Creek is sinking a new well for water needed in the operation of the company's mill. The plant has been working only one shift a day. Operations are directed by H. C. Block of Los Angeles, president of the corporation and its heaviest stockholder. The Payroll property is short of water for its fifty-ton mill, which is to have increased production from ores developed on the 600-foot level.

It is expected that another week will see the start of the new Gold Road mill, in which all heavy machinery is in place. It is declared that the company has large supplies of good milling ore ready for stoping, as well as a supply of profitable tailings from past operations. This mine once was one of the largest gold producers of the Southwest.

Rehabilitation of Rail Line to Mine Projected

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—Plans are being made for rehabilitation of the Santa Fe Railway's Poland rail line, to the mouth of the long Walker Tunnel, for handling a large tonnage of ores from the Sheldon and other mines in the upper Lynx Creek district, at the opposite end of the tunnel. The Sheldon company has taken over the Humboldt smelter, by purchase from the Southwest Metals Company, and will need the Poland line, which has connections to the smelter ore bins.

Much activity is noted in the Mayer section. A mill is being planned for the Golden Belt property, A. S. Allen, manager. The Verde Standard Copper Company, G. B. McGarvey, manager, is shipping ore that runs well in copper, with $5 a ton added in gold. A mill is promised for the French Lilly, Tom Boyd, manager, with a road being constructed to the mill site. The Howard Copper Company, F. W. Dryden, manager, is to start shipping soon and shipping is to be started from the Black Canyon Copper Company's mines.

Pima Project Again Reports Strike of Oil

SAFFORD (Ariz.) Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—Again comes the report that oil has been encountered in commercial quantity in the Pima well near this point by the Consolidated Oil Company of Denver, with Fred J. Carey in charge of local operations, under contract.

As is usual in the wells of this section, a heavy flow of water was encountered. With ten-inch casing set to 1910 feet there has been a discharge of about 40,000 gallons a day. At 3247 feet the drill, according to Mr. Carey, broke through a lime capping into an oil sand, with discharge at the surface of a strong flood of mixed oil and sand, driven fifteen feet above the casinghead.

Similar conditions were found after thirty-seven feet of drilling into the sand. Eight-inch casing has been ordered from Los Angeles, to cement off the water at 2600 feet.

Phelps-Dodge Plans Ahead at Morenci Mines

MORENCI (Ariz.) Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—Efforts to secure better returns from the low-grade mixed ores of the Morenci Phelps-Dodge branch mines are being continued. Between this point and Clifton will be constructed a fifty-ton leaching plant and a 100-ton mill, for experimental work that may be continued for years to come. M. R. LeGrande will be in immediate charge, under Manager Frank Ayer.

There will be comparison of the copper production and of costs in running similar batches of the same ore through the two plants. At present the ores are handled almost exclusively in a great flotation mill near this point, the concentrates shipped to a reverberatory furnace smelter below Clifton.

GAS LINES CHARTED

Mines Bureau Map Shows Natural Gas Projects of Country

A map showing the location of natural gas pipe lines and natural gasoline and carbon black plants throughout the country has just been completed by the United States Bureau of Mines, and is now being distributed. This map is the first to be prepared showing all of the pipe lines used in the distribution of natural gas.

Its preparation was made possible through the co-operation of natural gas producing and distributing companies in furnishing to the Bureau of Mines copies of company maps showing the lines of each company. These company maps were then consolidated to form a national map.

CAPITALIZATION

The authorized issue of Common shares represents the only type of capital.

The shareholders have full voting rights.

The directors, officers and bankers are receiving no bonus or management shares from the Company, but will receive through the bankers, options which have been given to the bankers, in consideration of their payment of all preliminary organization expenses and taxes in connection with the formation of the company and the issuance of the original shares. These options are to purchase all or any part of 2,000,000 Common shares of this Corporation from time to time at the following prices, to wit: On or before August 1, 1932, at $12.50 per share, thereafter and on or before August 1, 1935, at $14.00 per share, and at any time after August 1, 1935, at $15.00 per share until August 1, 1939, with proper provisions to prevent dilution of the value of the options.

PURPOSE

The Railroad Shares Corporation now owns and will acquire additional securities of Railroad corporations, of holding companies owning shares of railroad operating companies, and/or corporations or companies* engaged in any business incidental to or doing a substantial portion of its business with one or more corporations or companies engaged in the railroad business in the United States of America and/or Dominion of Canada. All proceeds received from the sale of these Common shares by the Corporation will be devoted to the purchase of securities of this type.

MANAGEMENT

The officers and directors will include executives and directors of railroad operating and allied companies and will also include members of leading public utility and banking interests in the financial centers of the country. Through these men the Corporation will be enabled to keep in closer touch with important railroad situations than would be possible with the management vested in any one organization.

ASSETS

The Corporation's portfolio includes, at cost, securities of many of the country's great railroad systems and of corporations doing a substantial portion of their business with such railroad systems. The Corporation is restricted by vote to invest not over 10% of its assets in the securities of any one company, to make no investments in companies whose only property is under construction and not to purchase the control of any operating property. Shareholders are assured of the Corporation's funds being at all times invested in a well diversified list of such approved securities of established standing, a partial list of which will be found below.

*The Corporation is restricted by vote to invest not over 30% of its assets in the securities of companies coming within this classification.

CORPORATION INCOME

The Corporation's Income is not subject to any management fee.

The income is derived from interest, cash dividends, stock dividends, rights and realized profits, which will accrue to this Corporation for the benefit of the Common shareholders and which will be distributed in accordance with the dividend policy of the Corporation.

DIVIDEND POLICY

The dividend policy of this Corporation is to distribute in cash dividends, cash received from cash dividends, interest, and a reasonable proportion of the net trading profits. The balance, together with stock dividends and rights received and realized on, will be used to further build up the surplus of the Corporation against which stock dividends may be issued from time to time.

CONCLUSION

The great strides made by railroads in the last few years and by companies or corporations doing business with these railroad systems in the elimination of costly methods of operation and the substitution therefor of efficient management make the securities of this essential industry attractive to investors.

We believe that the precedent established in the O'Fallon decision will be far-reaching in its effect in making possible a clear understanding as to what will be the ultimate returns of earnings of railroad corporations.

We believe that the securities of these corporations, at the present time, have a better opportunity to show to the holders a real possibility for appreciation and increased yield in the future, and that the present prices, present earnings and present dividend rates will all reflect the improved conditions under which the railroads are now operating.

Likewise it is expected by executives of these great systems that ultimately great consolidations will take place in the United States of America and/or Canada which will advantageously affect the future earnings of railroad companies. The development of electrification of rails we feel will also expedite traffic and increase the earnings per ton mile with advantage to the shareholders. With the ownership of shares of Railroad Shares Corporation the holder may expect an interest in the entire railroad situation in the United States of America and Dominion of Canada.

Railroad Shares Corporation owns and will acquire securities of the following corporations and other similar leading railroad and allied corporations approved from time to time:

As the major part of the company's assets consists of cash and collateral loans receivable it is in a position to take advantage of the present favorable opportunities to acquire additional amounts of these securities. Many of those securities now owned have been acquired at near the low prices for the year.

PLACER CLAIMS DEAL REPORTED

For Generals Adds Group on Salmon River

Ground Already in Partially Developed State

Start of Production Slated for Early Date

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—The War Generals Placer Mining Company has acquired nine placer claims in the Salmon River field, above Yreka, and is preparing for comprehensive operations. The claims include several producing properties and ample water and timber are available. Preliminary work has started, with production slated to begin with the arrival of the rainy season.

The Mines Operating Corporation, Ltd., has been incorporated by John Longan and J. R. Macomber of Los Angeles to operate the Lotus Blue Lead hydraulic mines in Sierra county. The Lotus company, controlled by Edwin A. McKanna and Patrick Longan of Los Angeles, will continue as the holding corporation. It is understood that preliminary work is to start soon and production will be inaugurated in 1930. The deposits have produced much gold and are regarded as being among the largest and most promising hydraulic enterprises in California.

With two steam shovels, a dragline scraper and donkey engines in commission the MacNamara Mining and MacNamara Crescent companies are washing excellent auiferous gravel at the Nash mine, near Carrville. The material is said to be averaging more than $1.15 per cubic yard, but the water supply is lower than for many years.

Development of promising quartz-gold deposits near Nevada City has been started by the Hope Development Company. Sinking of a three-compartment shaft has begun and arrangements are being made for installation of electrical equipment. Prospecting during the past year is credited with indicating the existence of large or bodies.

Shipments of rich copper ore are going steadily from the Greenhorn mine, west of Redding, to the smelter at Tacoma, Wash. The product is reported to average better than 20 per cent copper, with a substantial tonnage exposed.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY

Qualitative analysis will be given in this department of The Times to correspondents on ores and minerals free of charge. Make each sample of an ounce or so in weight. Be sure to write a letter stating what tests are desired and give the approximate locality from which samples were taken. Do not pulverize the specimens. Give your name and address on paper wrapped with samples.

Interesting Samples

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 20.—Question: I am sending a box of samples from that section of the desert northeast of Barstow, and from the Cady Mountains along the Mojave River. I thought No. 1 specimen was Dolomite, but the reaction with cobalt nitrate indicates zinc. No. 2, Arawats Mountains, I take to be hematite. Is No. 3 from west of Barstow of tin or iron? No. 4, A and B came out of the same shaft—I cannot name them. No. 5 pieces A and B.—from the same ledge, are they Jade? The chocolate colored piece of calcite I am sending because of its oddity; of the white piece I wish to know if it is Iceland Spar quality? The specimen of Psilomelane (I think) I am sending because I thought you might want it for your cabinet. The last three are also from the Cady Mountains. Thanking you for the consideration of our perplexities.

X.

Answer: The brownish calcite is odd; the reflections therefrom are on the order of "Cat's Eye," (Chalcedony a variety of quartz.) The other specimen is far removed from high-grade, transparent Iceland Spar. Sample No. 1 is lime carbonate; somewhat botryoidal; zinc is indicated at the locality—prospect for the blue, botryoidal Smithsonite. No. 2 is hematite, mixed with manganese in the fracture seams. No. 3 is hematite; slight manganese reactions, and tin absent. No. 4 is siliceous rock spotted with dendritic manganese. No. 4-B, seems to be fine-grained silica. No. 5-A (blue) is heliotrope, and not jade. One other sample is probably a (vein) variety of quartz (granular) and the green color is due to traces of nickel. The botryoidal, handsome specimen of Psilomelane is now in the collection you refer to, and we thank you for it.

Garnetyte

KERNVILLE, Sept. 21.—Q.: Please find inclosed sample of what I think is Tungsten ore. Please let me know how good it is. Ore was located on Greenhorn Mountain in a district that has been prospected for seventy-five years—but prospected for gold. This location has millions of tons of this ore in sight, with a ledge 300 to 500 feet wide and apparently one mile or more long. P.

A.: The sample was carefully tested for tungsten with negative results. It carries more or less crystal garnet also.

"Jasper Iron"

PASADENA, Sept. 20. Q.:—Please classify the inclosed thumb-specimen. From Riverside county. M.

Six Samples

LAS VEGAS (Nev.) Sept. 21.—Q: Am sending you under separate cover six samples of ores that I find on one group of claims held by me, in this district. No. 1 is No. 2 roasted; what is the soft metallic bead. No. 3 assays for gold and copper; in what form is the copper in No. 4 associated with No. 3. No. 5 is this a paint hematite? Is No. 6 specular iron? K.

A.: No. 1 is hematite mineralogically. No. 2—the bead is from low-grade Tetrahedrite (Fahlerz) traces only. No. 3 is gritty hematite; not tested for copper and Fahlerz is more or less present. No. 4 is hematite. No. 5 is probably "red ochre"—if washed from gangue matter. No. 6 is hematite; in part micaceous iron.

Rock

BURBANK, Sept. 22.—Q.: Have a vein of fifteen or more feet of this on my claim in San Fernando Mountains. I thought it was seepage material of oil until I opened it up in trial building. What is it? C.

A.: The sample is altered rock carrying hornblende, pyroxene, and some black, low-grade schorl (of no value) known also as tourmaline.

A Mixture

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 22.—Q.: Will you please tell me through "In the Earth" column of The Times what the sample of earth herewith is and what it consists of? P.

A.: It is a shaly, massive clay containing some marl (lime carbonate) and silica. Water soluble (available) potash present in traces only.

Flake Platinum Absent

LONG BEACH, Sept. 23.—Q.: Will you please give me analysis of the rocks I am sending you. I hate to send you so many samples, but they are all out of the same ledge except the nugget of gold. The samples are from my claim up in Lucas Canyon. Your friend, C.

A.: Correspondents are requested not to send over five samples at one time. Sample No. 1 is a granular mixture of microscopic pyrite with some arsenopyrite. Zinc sulphide (blende) in low percentage. No. 2 carries larger cubes of pyrite than No. 1 and contains some galenite (lead sulphide) No. 3 is a small nugget of native gold. No. 4 carries "peacock iron," hematite, and manganese. No. 5 is a shale-like clay and the yellow matter is hydrous, iron peroxide (limonite.) No. 6 is a carboniferous shale mixed with clay. No. 7 is clay carrying traces of pyrite. The rock of microscopic size attached to the nugget, is impure quartz. Impurities iron and manganese.

Another Mixture

BISHOP, Sept. 24.—Q.: Am sending today small package of samples from a claim my husband has been working on for some time. I have been a constant reader and subscriber of The Times for nearly forty years. Mrs. X.

A.: The sample is, in part, granular matter, somewhat granitic, and including other rock of massive proportions of probably the same mixture. It was carefully tested for free gold with negative results. Furthermore the rocks are partly conglomerates containing massive garnet in some of the massive variety mixed with iron-magnesium silicates; while in others iron oxides were found with traces of lead and not tested for zinc. We congratulate you on being forty years a subscriber to The Times.

Lime Carbonate

LA CRESENTA, Sept. 24.—Q.: Would you kindly analyze the inclosed specimen and inform me if there is any gypsum in same, and if not what is the composition of samples. These specimens were taken in Los Angeles county, near Kern county line. S.

A.: The five pisolitic samples are impure lime carbonate with some silica, traces of iron, and gypsum not detected.

Of Problematical Value

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 24.—Q.: Does this material, inclosed in wooden box, contain anything that might give it a commercial value. I have a large deposit near a railroad. Found near Santiago Peak, Orange county. B.

A.: Your granular sample is greatly altered, siliceous rock. It is spotted with iron oxides and microscopic hornblende. And native gold is not present.

Copper Absent

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 25.—Q.: In San Bernardino county I have located a large deposit of ore and I wish to have an analysis made for iron, gold, silver and copper. L.

A.: Sample No. 1 carries quartz, baryte, and, it is spotted with hematite, (iron peroxide) It represents doubtful values for the many uses of barium sulphate. No. 2 is high-grade hematite. For gold and silver consult assayers.

Of Doubtful Value

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 26.—Q.: Please analyze these samples to see if there are any commercial values in similar rock. Found in San Gabriel Canyon. G.

A.:- Samples were not numbered. One is clay stained with iron oxides. Another one is siliceous rock spotted in a few places with pink Halloysite. Cinnabar not present. The third specimen is a mixture of shale and hornblende.

Free Gold Absent

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 27.—Q.: The inclosed samples are from new ledges found in Mono county and never before discovered. Please analyze same and oblige. S.

A.: No. 1 sample consists of eleven specimens containing iron and arsenic sulphides and represent base-metal ores. No. 2 shows one yellowish specimen of altered pyritiferous ore, in part it is "Copperas" (iron sulphate.) The remaining four samples of No. 2 are on the order of No. 1. For gold and silver values please consult assayers.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. (AP)—Jeanne Eagels, stage and screen star, wore jewels valued at $350,000 at the time of her death last Thursday, a check up of her effects today revealed.

After Miss Eagels died at a Park-avenue hospital, the property she had with her at the time was placed in the hands of the police, to be turned over to the public administrator.

RUPTURE IS NOT A TEAR

NO BREAK TO HEAL

Rupture is not a tear, but purely a muscular weakness in the abdominal wall. Trusses merely brace these muscles but do not strengthen them—on the contrary, the gouging of the ordinary truss pad often increases this weakness as it tends to shut off circulation of the blood.

STUART'S ADHESIF PLAPAO-PADS are entirely different—being mechanico-chemico applicators—made self-adhesive purposely to keep the muscle-tonic called "Plapao" continuously applied to the affected parts, and to minimize danger of slipping and painful friction. The adhesive fabric is soft as velvet and clings to the body without straps, buckles or springs. Easy to apply—comfortable—inexpensive. Awarded Gold Medal, Rome, Grand Prix, Paris, Honorable Mention, Panama Pacific Exposition, San Francisco, etc. For almost a quarter century stacks of sworn testimonials from many different countries report success—without delay from work. The epidermatic absorption of Plapao utilizing "mechanico-chemico therapy" tends toward a natural process of recovery, after which no further use for a truss.

Stop wasting your time and money on old-fashioned devices. Learn how to close the hernial opening as nature intended, so the rupture can't come down. Send no money; just mail the Free Test coupon below. For your own good—write today—tomorrow may be too late.

The Public Is Entitled to This Information

To the People of Los Angeles:

"Our clients and friends are entitled to know that their patronage and interest has caused us to seek larger and more commodious quarters in order that we may continue to serve with increased efficiency and added comforts. We most sincerely appreciate this patronage, and we have shown our gratitude in concrete form by making our new offices in 931 Chapman Building equal in all respects to the finest offices in our nation-wide organization of 47 offices.

"In these new offices you will find every therapeutic agent of known value to modern science in preventing baldness and regrowing hair. In the 47 Thomas' offices each day over 1500 persons are receiving treatment for falling hair, itching scalp, dandruff, baldness and other scalp troubles. Our expansion into larger quarters in Los Angeles is another link in the chain of proof that continued success is not an accident but that growth can result only from honest and ethical service to the public. Such service has won for us the title of 'World's Leading Hair and Scalp Specialists,' and the reputation of being 'The Hair and Scalp Specialists you can TRUST.'

"The public is also entitled to know that the Thomas' treatment is frequently imitated but never duplicated. In Los Angeles the Original Thomas' Discovery Treatment is given ONLY at 931 Chapman Bldg., 756 South Broadway.

"Very sincerely,

Paul Thomas

WE GROW HAIR!

BECAUSE THE THOMAS' have consistently grown hair for thousands of persons whom they accepted for treatment, they have won the right to use the slogan, "We Grow Hair," and register it in the U. S. Patent Office. Thomas' treatment not only grows hair on thin and bald spots—it ends all other scalp disorders which lead to baldness, including dandruff, itching scalp, dry or oily hair and falling hair. This 15-year proved treatment is scientifically sound, in that it actually supplies the functioning stimuli of which the scalp has been deprived through modern living conditions.

Successful for 15 Years

The Thomas' have been ending scalp disorders and growing hair for more than 15 years. Thomas' treatment is proved in its value—it is not a whim of the hour nor an experiment. Eighty-seven per cent of all persons being treated in the United States and Canada by scalp specialists are being treated by The Thomas'. Such popularity and public confidence must be deserved.

During the past eighteen years, ending July 30, last, public improvements, including paving, storm drains, sewers, bridges and pedestrian subways costing $145,952,380 have been accepted by the city, according to a report by City Engineer Shaw to the Board of Public Works. For the past four years, during which time Shaw has been City Engineer, the value of these works [illegible].

These figures do not include other activities under the jurisdiction of the Board of Public Works, such as buildings and street lighting.

Starting with the fiscal year 1911-12, the aggregate cost of the city's public works was $2,743,788, gradually increasing to $5,630,849 in 1925-26, then dropping off as the effect of bond issues began to affect all construction. The lowest point in the intervening years was reached in 1927-28, when public works were valued at $988,627, from which point they increased in tremendous strides as follows: 1928-1929, $2,546,642; 1929-1930, $4,333,074; $6,083,922, $12,-[illegible]. This last figure was for the current year, in which Shaw then took charge of the department, and the figures for the years are as follows: 1925-1926, $19,006,-[illegible]; 1926-1927, $22,782,710; 1927-[illegible]; 1928-1929, $30,191,-[illegible].

During the eighteen years, 1629 miles of streets have been paved at a cost of $89,580,675; 396 miles of storm drains constructed at a cost of $[illegible]; 3410 miles of sanitary sewers laid at a cost of $22,-[illegible]; bridges constructed costing $[illegible], and thirty-nine pedestrian tunnels built at a cost of $[illegible], with the remainder of the total fund of $250,000 waiting to be used for additional subways. It at first was expected that each subway would cost $10,000, but the department managed to lower the cost materially.

MUNICIPAL RECREATION FILLS NEED

Playground Department Reports Great Increase in Use of Facilities

A marked increase in attendance, with greater emphasis upon adult recreation and the addition of many new play facilities featured the past year's program of the Los Angeles Playground and Recreation Department, according to the annual report of its various supervisors to be submitted to Supt. Hjelte today.

Attendance at playgrounds alone totaled 3,991,783 persons during the year ending July 1, an increase of 2.14 per cent over last year's figure. Five new playgrounds were opened to public service during this period, making a total of thirty-seven now in use, with thirteen more yet to be developed.

A decrease in the accident rate from 139 to 130 per 100,000 came as a result of a safety campaign conducted throughout the year.

The addition of two new swimming pools and an increased use of existing pools by the public resulted in a total attendance at municipal swimming pools during the year period of 402,744.

The reconstruction of Sunset Pier and approximately 1600 feet of beach frontage at Venice took place during the past fiscal year, the reports say.

The construction during the period from July 1, 1928, to July 1, 1929, included the completion of three major building projects, the improvements of ten playgrounds, the addition of ten other play areas with the addition of tennis courts, softball diamonds, wading pools and other play facilities.

STREET WORK REQUESTED

A petition asking for the improvement of Avalon street at Echo Park avenue has been referred by the Council to the City Engineer and the Public Works Committee.

WIDENING PROPOSAL SUBMITTED

City Engineer Reports on Handling of First-Street Intersection Problem

City Engineer Shaw has filed with the City Council his detailed report on the First-street widening project, with a number of specific recommendations involving the handling of the intricate problem at the intersection of Glendale Boulevard.

His recommendations are (1) that he be instructed to advertise for bids on the Beverly Boulevard-First-street viaduct, the cost of which, including the land to be condemned, is estimated at $562,268; (2) that he be instructed to file proceedings for the condemnation of land bordering Beverly Boulevard and First street to a new width of 130 feet to accommodate the viaduct; (3) that the grade of First street-Glendale Boulevard intersection be raised three feet instead of ten feet; (4) that the widening of Glendale Boulevard between Colton and First streets be effected on a basis of 100 feet instead of 138 feet; (5) that plans be prepared for the paving of First street, Beverly Boulevard, Glendale Boulevard and Second street between First street and Figueroa street.

The Council already has allocated $1,850,000 from the 9-cent fund toward the First-street project.

TOSSED higher than the roof of their little home, 2932 Burke avenue, South Gate, tiny Ramona, 15-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Carpenter, builds up an appetite for breakfast. Her "daddy," 24 years of age, and weighing 190 pounds, handles the little mite in a manner which makes the onlooker gasp and marvel. Apparently Ramona knows no fear and maintains perfect poise and balance throughout the many stunts her father subjects her to. She smiles, waves her little hands and throws kisses with the abandon of an aerial circus performer.

Daddy handles her like an Indian club in full-arm swings; swoops her down between his legs and up to the extreme height of his extended arm, where she poises on one foot in the palm of his hand. He rolls her like a small flour sack as he tosses her into the air.

"I began training her when she was 4 months of age, gently at first and with care not to startle her," said Mr. Carpenter yesterday. I also taught her obedience, which I will demonstrate. Ramona, go over there and lie down," he said pointing to a spot in the grass. Ramona toddled over to the spot and curled up in feigned slumber. "Roll over; stand on your head; on your feet; come to daddy," he commanded in quick succession. She obeyed perfectly.

"You see, she is learning obedience and the value of implicit confidence."

"Suppose you should miss her on one of those sky tosses?" asked a by-stander.

"But I am not going to miss her because I love her too much. My wife is expecting another one in two months, I hope it will be a boy and

Careless With Fire in Forests Suffer Penalty

September brought twenty-five arrests by Federal forest rangers, it was pointed out in a report of W. V. Mendenhall, Supervisor of Angeles National Forest. These arrests were made within the forest. Some were fined and others were warned to be more careful in the forests.

Of the number arrested twenty-one were taken into custody for smoking in closed areas; two for wading, washing and polluting streams used for municipal purposes and two for building camp fires without a permit from the Forestry Bureau.

It is pointed out that while the national forests in Southern California have not suffered greatly this year from fire, the season is not yet over and autoists and campers must still be careful.

September Death Toll Shows Marked Decrease

Injuries received when she was struck by an automobile late Saturday night resulted yesterday in the death of Mrs. Jean Sowden, 54 years of age, of 2522 Buckingham Road, according to a Coroner's office report.

The accident occurred at Western avenue and Adams street. Mrs. Sowden had just alighted from a street car, police stated, when an automobile driven by Miss M. L. Treat of 145 East Pasadena avenue, Pomona, struck her. Miss Treat was not held.

Ellison Leadley of 14129 Fourth avenue, Lawndale, died last night at the Methodist Hospital as the result of injuries he received when his automobile crashed into a telegraph pole at Broadway and Prairie street, Hawthorne, September 20 last.

As the result of a collision between two automobiles at Main and Chavez street, Mrs. Margaret Balditti, 56, of 6223 South San Pedro street, suffered a fractured right arm and possible skull fracture, and Louis Peterson, 32, of 924 West Tenth street, sustained a fractured skull.

Peterson, driver of one of the cars, was held on a charge of driving while intoxicated. Mrs. Balditti was a passenger in the other machine, police stated. Two other women in the car were not reported hurt. Mrs. Balditti and Peterson were given emergency treatment at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital.

SEPTEMBER AUTO DEATH TOLL SHOWS DECREASE

For the first time this year fatalities in traffic in Los Angeles city and county are showing a decided decrease, according to the Automobile Club of Southern California. Reports for September indicate that the deaths last month totaled forty, as compared with fifty for September last year. This decrease of 20 per cent is announced following the determination of enforcement agencies at a meeting in September to limit the speed of motor vehicles in built-up district of the city and county to thirty miles an hour.

Up to last month the increase in deaths this year over last was 39 per cent. Every month in 1929 has shown a marked increase over 1928 with the exception of April and September. In April a decrease of one fatality was noted, while in September there were ten fewer deaths.

Under classification of speeding in fifteen-mile zones there were seven deaths in September, 1928, and only three in September, 1929. It is noted, also, in the report, that in collisions between autos, which frequently are due to driving at high speed, there is a decrease from ten deaths in September, 1928, to two in September, 1929.

The total deaths in Los Angeles city and county up to October 1 are 537. For the same period last year the total fatalities numbered 408, showing an increase of 129 so far this year.

BODY OF CULT PRIESTESS DISCOVERED UNDER HOUSE

Foster Mother Leads Officers to Crypt That Also Holds Dogs; Weird Rites Come to Light

An amazing story of cult intrigue which led zealots to transport the body of a dead 16-year-old girl about Los Angeles, Venice and Santa Monica for nearly three years before burying it beneath a dwelling with mysterious rites, was unfolded to police yesterday. The story involved the belief of the members of the cult that the high priestesses and priests of the order could resurrect the dead.

As a result of statements of several of those involved four persons are being held by the police. One of them is Mrs. Martha Rhoads, the body of whose adopted daughter, Willa Rhoads, was removed from a peculiarly fashioned casket beneath the home of the Rhoads at 1094 Marco Place, Venice, early yesterday morning. The others are William Rhoads, husband of Mrs. Rhoads; Mrs. May Otis Blackburn, so-called high priestess of the cult, and her daughter, Mrs. Ruth Angelina Wieland Rizzio.

CORPSE PRESERVED WITH WEIRD RITES

The girl's body had been buried beneath the flooring of a bed-room by her adopted mother and father and several other members of the cult, the practices of which several times have come to the notice of the authorities.

Alongside the casket, which had been manufactured by the father, William Rhoads, a cabinet maker, was a similar coffin in which lay the bodies of seven dogs.

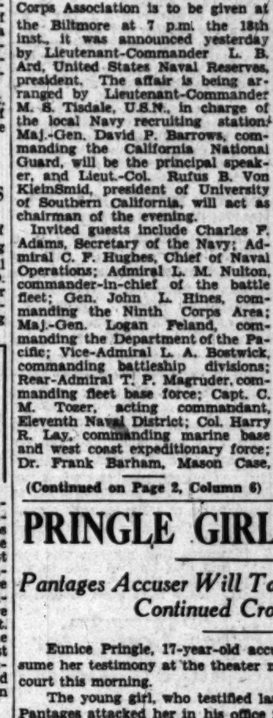
MRS. WILLIAM RHOADS

They had been pets of the dead girl, according to the story Mrs. Rhoads sobbed out to detectives and Coroner's deputies at the County Jail yesterday. The girls' body had lain beneath the bedroom for fourteen months. For more than thirty-two months the body had been transported from one dwelling to another as the family changed residences.

For the period before it finally was buried beneath the Marco-street house it had been kept in a stage of preservation by a peculiar method of packing it in ice, which had been devised by another member of the cult who was named by Mrs. Rhoads.

WILLIAM RHOADS

The girl's death had been caused by diphtheria, according to the mother. The latter's religious belief led her to believe in her own powers to resurrect the dead, she asserted. She was supported in this belief by more than 300 other persons who belonged to the incorporated cult, which was designated by them as the "Divine Order of the Royal Order of the Great Eleven."



Willa Rhoads

Cult priestess, whose body was found buried beneath the floor of a Venice cottage.

FUND CHARGE

The strange case was revealed to the police through the arrest on an embezzlement charge of Mrs. May Otis Blackburn, high priestess of the cult and her daughter Ruth Angelina Wieland Rizzio. Their arrest was caused by Clifford R. Dabney, who charged he had supplied more than $40,000 to Mrs. Blackburn to finance a book she was to write. Subsequent investigation led to the search for the body of Miss Rhoads.

Then came the discovery of the girl's body beneath the house and the strange story of how it had been moved from house to house over a period of nearly three years.

When Lieuts. Condafer, Hickey, Thomason and several members of the homicide squad visited the Marco-street address Saturday night Mrs. Rhoads became hysterical. When the detectives announced the purpose of their visit she suddenly became calm and then launched into the story of her strange belief.

She appeared defiant as to her conduct in attempting to preserve the body of her daughter "until Gabriel sounded the seven notes of his trumpet."

Her husband stood by silently as the detectives tried as gently as possible to tell her the purpose of their visit. Then she stood up and with blazing eyes told the detectives a story that caused them to gasp.

"My daughter's body is buried under the floor in that bedroom there," she stated, as she pointed to an adjoining room. "We buried her there fourteen months ago.

"With her we buried seven dogs which in my belief are a symbol of the power of resurrection. They were her pets and one of them died the day she passed away. We killed the other six and laid them

AN Egyptian princess has come to Los Angeles to have her nose remodeled. Every lady has a right to the kind of nose she likes; but no lady has a right to destroy the romance in our hearts.

Personally it would be just impossible for me to get up any excitement over a story of a beautiful young prince who wooed a princess whose nose had been made over with a piece of somebody's shin bone.

There isn't much that princess can do by way of earning her way in the world; but she can at least pay the duty that she owes to romance.

AS TO WILL ROGERS

In one of these magazines which advertise "distinctive and smart togs for smart people," a New York shrimp takes a crack at Will Rogers. Calls him a drug-store cowboy and objects to his custom of getting familiar with the Longworth family, the Calvin Coolidges and other celebrities.

Rogers isn't a drug-store cowboy; he is one of the few real stock hands still extant. And the only way he could lose my devotion would be writing for magazines that advertise distinctive and smart togs for smart people.

Incidentally, his homely ease with the great ones of the earth has done a good deal more for them than for him.

THE TRAFFIC COPS

The police have started another campaign against traffic violators; and it will amount to something to just the extent that they leave hysteria out of it.

Doddering old men, fresh delivery boys and tough truck drivers who amble down the middle of the road create many dangers to traffic; but the evil can be corrected without the high-life melodrama which has sometimes characterized the police campaigns.

GIVE 'EM A GRAND STAND

The directors of the Pomona Fair are crying aloud for help in building a grand stand that will accommodate at least a fraction of the crowd that annually is turned away from the horse show and races.

This fair is typical of the real California—as distinguished from Hollywood. It reminds tourists and home folks that we have something out here besides movie stars. It grows better every year.

Before they get the county to donate large sums of money for a grand stand, however, they should devise some idea for using that park and grand stand for more than one week of the year.

Fund Council Observes Jewish New Year's Day

Religious services in observance of the Hebrew New Year, or Rosh Hashonah, were conducted by the Jewish National Fund Council for the two-day period of the holiday at De Luxe Hall, 656 South Alvarado street. Observance of Rosh Hashonah began at sundown Friday and ended at sundown yesterday. Admission was charged to the council's services and the proceeds are to be used for the furtherance of its work in Palestine.

The council also will conduct services at the same hall next week in observance of the Day of Atonement, or Yom Kippur. This Holy Day begins next Sunday at sundown and ends at the same time Monday.

WEIGHED BUT NOT WANTING

Angelenos Keep Tab on Gains to Tune of Tinkling Coppers; Platform Scales Reap Full Advantage of Citizenry's Tendency to "Step on It"

The "weighs" of Los Angeles are many and because of that fact groups of persons have formed corporations and pay nice dividends. In fact, the lowest estimate gives one the astonishing number of 30,000,000 "weighs" in a year.

And the pennies! Literally tons of them and it is all in the weighing business. During the past twelve months Los Angeles has used 142 to 170 tons of the copper coins, standing on platforms and watching the needles quiver around to an indication that evokes either a smile or a grunt.

LOS ANGELES' WEIGH

Los Angeles is finicky about its weight. Shrewd business men here long ago realized it and that is the reason that on almost every corner, in every drug store or sheltered place, a scale is placed inviting you for 1 cent to see how you are getting along. And how they do clamber on the little shaky platforms!

According to reliable authority there are between 6000 and 7000 weighing machines in Los Angeles and immediate territory. These machines yield all the way from $50 annually to $1200. This hot spot in Los Angeles is reported to be in a cafe on Broadway where during the past year 120,000 persons have clambered on the scale. As there are two scales in the place it is indicated that nearly 250,000 people were weighed in at this particular spot.

R. N. Sheffler, a member of the firm of Sheffler Brothers, 215 West Fifteenth street, scale manufacturers, estimates between 6000 and 7000 weighing machines in use in the city.

WEIGHS AND WAVES

"Our firm has 600 machines out now and shortly will have placed that many more," he said. "There is a score of other firms in the business. One big company has gone so far as to put on a national broadcast hour each week—the International Ticket Scale Company. We depend on mass income and the machines will average from $4 to $6 a month. Of course, there are favored spots where an in-

CONTEMPT RULING DELAYED

Court Will Not Announce Decision on Shuler and Briegleb Case for Several Days

The findings of Superior Judges Tappaan, Hardy and Gould on the charges of contempt of court against Rev. R. P. Shuler and Rev. G. A. Briegleb, will not be announced for several days. A definite date for the handing down of the opinion, which may send the Trinity Methodist Church minister and the St. Paul Presbyterian preacher to jail for their remarks on the Mrs. Lois Pantages case proceedings, could not be set, Judge Hardy said yesterday.

"It will be four or five days," said Judge Hardy, "before we complete our decision, and it probably will be the latter part of the week when the opinion is delivered from the bench. Ample notification will be given the two ministers and their counsel as to the day and hour, and the verdict of the three judges sitting en banc will be rendered in open court. The decision will be written and read."

The judges are deliberating on the guilt of Shuler on two counts of contempt, and on one count against Briegleb. Shuler is accused of uttering contemptous remarks in his radio talks on September 5 and 15, against the judge and jury and court officials in the recent manslaughter case against Mrs. Pantages. Briegleb is charged with speaking in a derogatory manner about the probable sentence of the woman during his sermon on September 8 from his pulpit.

PRINGLE GIRL FACES GRILL

Pantages Accuser Will Take Stand Again Today for Continued Cross-Examination

Eunice Pringle, 17-year-old accuser of Alexander Pantages, will resume her testimony at the theater man's trial in Superior Judge Fricke's court this morning.

The young girl, who testified last Friday on direct examination that Pantages attacked her in his office in the Pantages Theater Building on August 9, last, will be under cross-examination by Defense Attorney Jerry Geisler when she resumes the stand today.

Her story of the asserted attack brought tears to the eyes of the jury. Geisler, attempting to pick flaws in her testimony, will use all of his ability to destroy the apparent impression she made on the jury on direct examination. Fighting to keep their witness out of any legal pitfall, Dist.-Atty. Fitts and his chief deputy, Robert Stewart, are scheduled to be on hand throughout the cross-examination.

Heated clashes between opposing counsel have been a feature of the girl's testimony.

It is expected that Miss Pringle will be on the witness stand for the greater part of today's court session. Dist.-Atty. Fitts has announced that she will be followed on the stand by W. L. Gordon, proprietor of a wearing-apparel shop cut in a row in a casket similar to the one in which we buried Willa.

Body of Cult Priestess, Awaiting "Resurrection," Discovered Buried With Seven Dogs

BURIAL DESCRIBED

"No, we did not lay her out as is the custom of those who do not believe as we do. We laid her on her back and drew her knees up to her chest and crossed her hands.

"We kept her in a cedar casket that my husband made. He lined it with some kind of sheet metal, or lead. Mrs. Blackburn aided me in a plan to keep the body preserved with ice and salt water when Willa first died.

"The death occurred at 940 South Manhattan Place. We stayed there four months with the body packed in ice and salt. Then we moved to 428 North Vermont avenue and carried the caskets with the body of Willa and the seven dogs with us. We stayed there five months and then moved to an address I have forgotten in Main street in Ocean Park. A few months later we moved to some other street in Venice and then Mrs. Blackburn advised us to buy a home on Marco Place.

"We bought this home and my husband contrived a trap door in the bedroom and dug two graves. We buried Willa and the seven dogs there with the rites that I believe are called for in the revelation of the 'Sixth Seal' and the 'Seven Symbols of the sounds of Gabriel's trumpet.'

"Now that I have told you this, come with me."

PIT INVESTIGATED

To the speechless officers she pointed to the bedroom and after they had filed in, she ordered her husband to lift the trap in the floor. With their flashlights the officers searched the cavern beneath.

It was a pit not more than four feet square and almost six feet deep. Barely perceptible above the floor of the pit the officers saw the lids of two cedar boxes. Because of the depth of the pit and the nearness of the ocean to the location of the house, water had seeped in and the ground had become soggy.

While the amazed policemen were looking into the pit from the bedroom floor above, the husband of Mrs. Rhoads silently slipped from the room.

Before his disappearance had been noted he returned with two long-handled shovels. He handed them to the policemen and turned away. His wife stood silently and watched the puzzled detectives for a few moments. Then she said:

"If you do not believe me, go ahead and desecrate the belief I have and dig up the body."

DIGGING STARTED

The detectives stripped off their coats and dug at the two caskets. They experienced much difficulty until William Rhoads, the father, crawled into the pit and dug with his hands at the cedar coffins. In half an hour the two chests were resting on the bedroom floor. An undertaker was ordered and both caskets were taken directly to the Coroner's office.

Although no criminal charges as yet have been contemplated against Mrs. Rhoads, her husband or other members of the cult in connection with the girl's death, she is subject to prosecution on a charge of failing to report the death of the girl, and also of attempting a private burial, police say.

OBJECT EXPLAINED

The cult of which Rhoads and his wife are members has been in existence almost six years, according to its founder, Mrs. Blackburn. She asserted there were no mysterious ceremonials and said the object of the organization was "for the study of resurrection."

Although the daughter of Mrs. Blackburn is known to the cult followers as Ruth Wieland, it was asserted by the police that they have evidence she once was married to a Sam Rizzio, formerly of 322 South Fremont street, Alhambra. Rizzio has been missing since 1924, according to a report made to the police by his mother, who still lives in Alhambra.

Fear that Rizzio may have been a victim during the strange ceremonials of the cult was advanced by the mother, according to Detective Lieutenants Condaffer and Hickey, who also are proceeding on the theory that Willa Rhoads may have died following a cult rite.

MRS. FRANCIS RIZZIO

Rizzio's mother produced what purports to be a marriage certificate issued to Ruth Angelina Wieland and Sam Rizzio in Santa Ana on May 24, 1914. The certificate bears the signature "F. T. Porter, pastor of the First Christian Church, Santa Ana."

"TRANCE" MESSAGES

Among those questioned by the police last night was Gale Conde Banks, who acted as a secretary for Mrs. Blackburn, and copied down messages she received during "trances" the high priestess is asserted to have had. It was through the "trances" that the book, the "Sixth Seal," was being revealed to her from the spirit world, according to the belief of the cult followers.

Bangs and his wife have been members of the cult for more than four years, he asserted. He denied having seen the body of Willa Rhoads at the Manhattan-street address, or at the house on Marco Place.

"The body may have been in the house while I was there, but I did not see it," Bangs said.

He denied to the police that there were any strange rituals in the practices of the cult. He said he acted as amanuensis for Mrs. Blackburn, because frequently words were revealed to her during her "trances" that she did not understand.

Banks asserted that Mrs. Blackburn was the dominant head of the cult to which Mrs. Rhoads belonged. He asserted that Mrs. Rhoads's husband was not an enthusiastic member of the cult.

With the finding of the girl's body and the story of its weird burial, many other strange rites of the cult were forthcoming as the result of the police investigation.

WOMAN "BAKED"

The names of other men and women who assertedly have disappeared after becoming followers of the cult leaders have been furnished the police. One of the incidents attending the investigation was the revelation that one woman, Mrs. Florence Turner of Monterey Park, had been "baked" in a queerly fashioned brick oven to cure a blood malady.

Shortly after this strange treatment, Mrs. Turner no longer was seen in the circles of the cult and reports became current that she had died from the strenuous treatment and had been secretly buried. This rumor, however, was dispelled when a sister of Mrs. Turner was found yesterday. The sister and Dr. J. A. Maronde, who attended Mrs. Turner for her ailment, asserted Mrs. Turner had died a natural death and that a death certificate had been signed.

When taken to the jail Mrs. Rhoads refused to talk further to the detectives and Mrs. Blackburn stated she had been instructed by her attorney Thomas J. Cochran, not to discuss the matter except in his presence. To a Times representative Mrs. Blackburn denied knowledge of the burial of Willa Rhoads under the Marco-street house.

BELIEF REVEALED

"I can only say that Mrs. Rhoads believed in the resurrection of the dead and, of course, I knew that Willa was dead," Mrs. Blackburn asserted. "Mrs. Rhoads was a firm believer in her faith, but she had branched out away from my belief so far that we were not as close to each other as we were two years ago.

"As for knowing about the body under the house I can only say that it would not be right for me to voice suspicions."

According to officers of the homicide squad and the Coroner's office, a conference will be held with the District Attorney today pertaining to the next steps to be taken in the investigation.

No investigation of the death and burial will be undertaken by the District Attorney's office until the completion of the autopsy and the report of chemical analysis of the stomach is received, according to a statement made by Dist.-Atty. Fitts last night.

AUTOPSY PERFORMED

No information that the Rhoads girl died other than a natural death was forthcoming from Chief Autopsy Surgeon Wagner following the autopsy performed by him on the girl's body at the County Morgue yesterday morning.

The remains, however, were turned over to R. J. Abernethy, County Chemist. Abernethy will subject them to tests today.

Although Abernethy will make tests for the possible presence of poison in the body, this was said by Wagner to be a routine procedure and not indicative that so far there is a suspicion by investigators that the 16-year-old cultist did not die from diphtheria.

The body, according to attaches at the Coroner's office, is in a fair state of preservation.

After burial, they pointed out, the sandy soil below the Venice bungalow allowed salt water from the sea to seep in and act as a preservative.

DOGS' BODIES STUDIED

It is understood that the remains of the seven dogs, which assertedly were to become the seven concords of the girl's heart at resurrection, also will be analyzed. The condition of the dogs' bodies indicated that they had been poisoned, investigators pointed out.

Besides the salt that had been packed about the body of the girl the chemists discovered evidence that spices had been sprinkled over the corpse.

Rhoads, questioned by police last night, said that he and his wife adopted Willa in Klamath Falls, Or., when she was two months of age. He said that her father is Daniel Adams and now resides in Oregon. He was reported to have told police that Adams operates sawmills in Medford, Or., and Kalmath Falls.

MRS. RHOADS HAS DAUGHTER IN NORTH

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—Mrs. W. P. Rhoads of Venice, whose adopted daughter's body was dug up from under the Rhoads home, has another daughter married to a San Francisco attorney, it was revealed today. The daughter is Mrs. Irwin E. Richter, wife of an attorney associated with the legal firm of Cushing & Cushing. Their home is in Fair Oaks Lane, Atherton.

At the home today Mrs. M. B. Richter of San Francisco, Richter's mother, said her son and daughter-in-law are on a trip to New York and are not expected back for two weeks. In their absence she is living in their home to take care of their two young children.

"My daughter-in-law has not seen her mother for several years, although they correspond regularly," said Mrs. Richter. "I am sure neither my son nor his wife know anything about this cult to which Mrs. Rhoads belonged.

"I met Mrs. Rhoads only once. She impressed me as a most charming and intelligent woman. I am sure if she was involved in any cult she was forced into it by some means or other."

BANKS'S MOTHER HAS FAITH IN SON'S HONESTY

INDIANAPOLIS (Ind.) Oct. 6. (AP)—Although cognizant that she has lost $10,000 her husband's life insurance money, Mrs. Nellie Banks, Indianapolis widow, tonight affirmed her faith in her son at whose behest she invested the money with the Divine Order of the Royal Arm of the Great Zeal. Two leaders of the cult are under arrest at Los Angeles.

Mrs. Banks said she telegraphed money in large amounts whenever the son, Gale C. Banks, requested her to co-operate in the work or the order, which was described to her as publication of "The Seventh Trumpet of St. Gabriel," a sort of biblical supplement.

"I believe that my son was sincere and that he had faith in the organization," Mrs. Banks said tonight. "If I have been fooled so has my son."

JAILED MAN ACCUSED OF GUN ATTACK

Suspect, Said to Have Been Found in Company of Informant's Wife

Ynes Diaz, 43 years of age of 929 Eastlake avenue, was arrested yesterday on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon growing out of an altercation with Guadalupe Fernandes of 3612 Morgan avenue, over attentions assertedly paid by the arrested man to Fernandez's wife, Margarita. According to Detective-Lieutenants Olivas and Kling, Fernandez reported he went home unexpectedly yesterday and through an open window, saw Diaz in company with Mrs. Fernandez. As he entered the house Diaz concealed himself in a clothes closet.

Throwing open the door Fernandez, according to the report, found himself facing a gun in the hands of Diaz. As Fernandez grappled with him, Diaz, it is charged, fired several shots at the husband, none of which struck him. The pair then struggled out to the lawn, where Fernandez disarmed Diaz and summoned police.

Both were treated at Georgia-street Receiving Hospital, Fernandez for a scalp wound which, according to Police Surgeon Kirkpatrick, was inflicted by the butt of a revolver, and Diaz for bruises about the head and face.

The suspected burglar gave his name as Joe Pimenthal, 34 years of age, of 215 Bloom street. He had gained entrance to the Mealoof residence, police stated, through a bedroom window just before the return of the residents.

ANGELENOS' WEIGHS RETOLD

come of $50 to $100 a month is derived—but this is exceptional."

"The Hollywood diet caused an immediate jump in scale income of at least 20 per cent and in some places 50 per cent. It was interesting to note the increase. We feel that we are really doing a health service to the community when we get people to watching their weight.

"The big problem with scale manufacture is the seasonable income. The income goes up in good weather and dies down to almost nothing in cold. The reason for this is that people are wearing gloves and will not take them off to be weighed. We are always keen on getting our scales placed inside, close to the door, where the weather will not affect the income."

WEIGHTY RETURNS

According to officials of the Federal Reserve branch bank here $100 in pennies weighs sixty-eight pounds—that is, new pennies. That averages close to 147 pennies per pound. Every seventeenth pound a penny should be added and the fractions will be cared for.

Say that there are 7000 machines in the city and that the average income is $75 from each. This will give more than half a million dollars taken in during the year entirely in pennies—$525,000, to be exact.

Going further, these figures show that from between 30,000,000 and 50,000,000 persons weighed themselves on these scales last year.

Each person weighed himself from fifteen to twenty times a year—almost twice a month.

To is interesting to watch the collector gather in the shekels. He opens the scales and finds a huge mass of copper piled in a deep tin pan in the bottom.

PROFITABLE MISTAKES

The first thing he does is to go through the coppers carefully for "big money." In one restaurant the collector took out three dimes, two nickels and a silver quarter from the loot. The collector then weighs the copper, makes his settlement with the proprietor and goes on his way. The settlement, according to many storekeepers, is always one-fourth of the total income. The collector also gets a percentage and the rest goes to the company.

If a company has a thousand machines out and the average is $5 a month from each machine, that represents an income of $60,000 a year.

PENNIES' PATHWAY

According to the officials of the Federal Reserve Bank here tons of pennies are used daily to keep the wheels of commerce going. Pennies eventually go through half a score of standardized processes, according to their statements.

Children save pennies and banks get a constant flow of 1-cent pieces from this source. Street-car conductors use thousands daily in making change.

Tons of salted peanuts are bought with tons of pennies each year.

Tons of ball gum bring in tons of coppers.

Gum machines literally are storehouses for the smallest coin we have and companies that operate these affairs, while not having the profit chances that the weighing machines have, make kood money.

COPPERS AND CALORIES

Eventually—as all roads used to lead to Rome—so now all good coppers do their patriotic duty, not once but several times a year, by going through a weighing machine and giving some good soul the low-down on the calory business.

After these pennies have been poked into kids' banks, been used to make change by street-car conductors, have purchased salted peanuts or gum and have gone through the weighing machines a couple hundred times, $100 in coppers will not weigh sixty-eight pounds. Then it is that the Federal Reserve and other banks step in and when the coppers have worn down to sixty-seven pounds to the $100 they are retired and sent to the mint to be restamped.

COMEDIAN GOES EAST FOR TALKING PREMIER

On his return he will start preparations for his next comedy to get under way the first of the year.

The theater man, Gordon insisted, was trying to detain the girl by holding her ankle.

OFFICER WILL HEAR PENALTY

Sgt. Washburn to Appear for Sentence Today

Defense Counsel Prepared to Seek New Trial

Policeman First Convicted in Rum Graft Cases

Thomas Washburn, police sergeant convicted of accepting a bribe of $800 from Harry D. McDonald, rooming housekeeper, is scheduled to appear before Superior Judge William Bledsoe today for sentence.

Washburn, who is the first to be tried of eight police officers indicted by the county grand jury for asserted graft, faces a prison term of from one to ten years under the verdict returned last week by jury of six men and six women.

WILL SEEK NEW TRIAL

Deputy District Attorney Joseph L. Ryan has announced he will file a motion for a new trial when the case is called today. If this action is taken, sentencing of Washburn probably will go over to a later date to permit attorney, to prepare arguments on the motion. Fainer indicated he will appeal if the motion is denied.

McDonald, who appeared as the principal witness for the State, asserted he paid the $800 to Washburn in October, 1926, following a raid on McDonald's establishment on Western avenue. It was asserted Washburn accepted the money to refrain from arresting McDonald on a Wright Act charge.

WASHBURN DENIES

Washburn denied he ever knew McDonald and testified that on the day of the asserted bribery he, in company with other officers, was conducting a raid on a house in another section of the city.

The case was prosecuted by Deputy District Attorneys McKay and Dennison, who stated they will oppose any motion of Washburn to obtain a new trial.

PLEA DEMURRER IS ARGUED TODAY

Arguments on a demurrer seeking to set aside an indictment charging Blasco B. Sheffield and A. McCallahan, colored police officers, charging them with twelve counts of bribery and extortion, will be heard today by Superior Judge Ingall.

After the arguments, should the demurrer be over-ruled the defendants will be asked to enter their pleas. The court then will fix the date of their trial. Should the demurrer be sustained the matter will be returned back to the grand jury which probably will be asked to return an amended indictment curing any legal irregularities.

The two officers were indicted as a result of an exhaustive inquiry into asserted police bootleg graft conditions which already has resulted in the indictment of nine men, one of whom already has been tried and convicted.

NEW SCHOOL LAW HELD ILLEGAL

Mrs. Barry Wins on "Prodigy" Appeal

Mrs. Violet Barry and Jack Barry

MRS. VIOLET BARRY has a right to keep her 9-year-old son, asserted to be a boy prodigy, out of school and teach him herself, in the opinion of the Appellate Division of the Superior Court. It has reversed the action of the Municipal Court wherein the woman was given a suspended five-day sentence after a jury found her guilty of violating the new State school law. The tribunal held that the law is unconstitutional inasmuch as it does not prescribe what is a qualified teacher.

Mrs. Barry was haled into the Municipal Court on the charge that she refused to send her boy to school. She combated the authorities on the grounds that she has taught him herself by a secret method since he was 18 months of age and that at present he can pass an intelligence test with any 19-year-old child. She asserted her son is a prodigy for he has delivered sixty-six lectures on subjects ranging from California history to theology and astronomy.

However, after a jury found Mrs. Barry guilty of violating the new State school law Municipal Judge Thompson, on July 12, last, suspended a five-day sentence. The judge also ordered the mother to send her boy to school, asserting he had acquired a superego.

Following the sentence Attorneys Frank J. McCarthy and S. Ward Sullivan, counsel for Mrs. Barry, appealed the case.

During September Mrs. Barry was indicted by the Federal grand jury on four counts on charges that she sent improper letters through the mails to Municipal Judge Thompson, Dist.-Atty. Fitts and to Carl Ramsdell, general superintendent of the Los Angeles Board of Education. Later she was arrested by the Federal authorities, arraigned and held to face the charge. Her bond was fixed at $3500.

DAIRY FARM EXECUTIVES PROMOTED

K. L. Carver Made Sales Director of Western and Hookstratten Steps Up

Appointment of K. L. Carver, vice-president of California Dairies, Inc., as director of sales and advertising for the entire group of dairy and ice-cream plants controlled by the Western Dairy Products Company and its affiliated organizations is announced by the board of directors of the company.

Mr. Carver's former duties as director of sales for the milk division will be assumed by S. C. Hookstratten, also a vice-president of the concern, who formerly directed the ice-cream division. He has been given control of sales for all California Dairies products.

California Dairies, Inc., the largest unit of the Western Dairy Products Company is the holding corporation for Arden Sanitary Gold Seal Farms, Inc.

The promotion of the two executives follows closely the consummation of a $4,300,000 purchase plan under which Western Dairy Products Company, through California Dairies, Inc., has acquired in this territory the Arden Certified Dairy, Sanitary Gold Seal Creamery, Burr Creamery and California Co-operative Creamery.

Western Dairy Products Company and its affiliated organizations operate in most of the principal cities of California, Washington, Oregon, Arizona, Utah and Texas.

BOXER WILL FACE LIQUOR JURY TODAY

Mickey Walker and Some of His Friends Will be in Court Due to "Whoopee"

Details of an asserted "whoopee" party indulged in by Mickey Walker, middleweight pugilistic champion, and some friends in the apartment of Miss Dorothy Davis, actress, at 1737 North Whitley avenue on September 9, last, are scheduled to be revealed today in Municipal Court. Walker, Ray Hallor, 504 South Kingley Drive, and Arthur Houseman, residing at the Whitley-avenue address, are to be tried by a jury on charges of possession of liquor which Detective Lieutenant Everson declares he found in the apartment.

Everson reported that when he arrived he found Miss Davis's apartment a mass of debris, with rugs torn up, furniture overturned and broken, windows smashed by flying bottles and blood scattered about. Gordon Sweeney, film director who pleaded guilty some time ago to possession of the liquor, was unconscious, Everson said, and Walker had part of a chair draped over his shoulders. He pleaded guilty to a drunk charge in sunrise court next morning and paid a $20 fine.

COLOR LINE FACTOR IN POLICE POST

Officials Desire Negro Woman With Training be Kept for Own Race

Efforts are being made by Chief of Police Davis and the Police Commission to keep Mrs. Juanita Edwards, colored police woman, for social work in the colored district of the city, even though her name is not in the civil service certified list of police women furnished for filling vacancies. Nine appointments are scheduled shortly and four or five police women, among them Mrs. Edwards, who have been working as emergency appointees, are to be replaced under civil service regulations.

Dr. H. C. Hudson, president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and Mrs. Lotta Bass of the California Eagle, colored folk publication, have appealed to the commission to retain Mrs. Edwards.

Mrs. Edwards passed the civil service test for police woman but is No. 17 on the list and the certified list for appointments is limited to eleven names for nine appointments. Two of these have withdrawn but Mrs. Edwards still is four names away from the eligibles.

Today's Bible Text

"Hear instruction, and be wise, and refuse it not." Proverbs viii:33.

CHEST EXPANSION

If the community had that needed $3,200,000 its chest would, indeed, be expanded in proper proportion.

FIT THE CRIME

They are using gas to fight bootleggers in some congested communities. Why not give them some of their own medicine? Try them on wood alcohol.

LIKE 'EM DUMB

When a talkie went dead the other night and was finished as a silent picture the crowd cheered. It was lots more human when it was dumb.

ROUGH AND READY ROCKNE

With one star to take the place of the four horsemen Notre Dame has made up a football schedule calling for ten games with the big colleges. There is courage.

CHANGE OF METER

Woman blew out the gas and committed suicide after listening to some readings of a British poet over the radio. That seemed the easiest way out. She didn't like the meter of the bard and so she tried the gas man's.

STOLEN CARS

During the last year a total of more than 116,000 cars were reported stolen in this country, but as nearly 85 per cent were recovered it may be noted that the loss was not great. Anyhow, the recoveries are bigger than they are in the burglary game.

CALL FOR SEATS

Good seats for a single game in the world series may be had for $6.60 per each. At that they are dirt cheap. Lots of men will be paying $20 apiece for their pasteboards and proud to get them. It is impossible to keep the brokers entirely out of the picture.

TOO MUCH SOCIALISM

Austria's new Chancellor was an anti-Socialist, but he is now being supported by most of the Socialist organizations. It was a case of any port in a storm. The Socialists have been unable to deliver anything but trouble in Austria and the people would welcome anything that suggested change.

FARM TRUST ON HIGH

The Farmers' Trust Company is putting up a seventy-two-story building in New York and the high point will be 925 feet above the pavement. This will put the blink on the Woolworth kennel, which was the tallest stand in Gotham. Maybe this new building is some of the farmers' relief they have been talking about.

AMONG THE GIANTS

Splendid young blood is always coming into the game, but it is mighty hard to dispossess the old guard. Somehow or other Tilden and Hunter are ever in at the finish when tennis championships are at stake. The annals of the sport would be incomplete unless the leading chapters were devoted to these stalwarts.

THE OLD STORY

Just ten years ago Actors' Equity called a strike against the producers and tried to close every theater in New York—this without warning. That, of course, would be in tune with union methods. Strikes, boycotts, violence and finally a return to work after the walking delegates have done all the damage they can. Everybody loses except the labor bosses. Their pay goes on.

GREATER ARABIA

Emir Abdullah, ruler of Transjordania, tells the world that Palestine is surrounded by Arab tribes and peoples and is Arab itself. He argues that, therefore, it is no fit place for modern Jews to establish a home and government. This Abdullah and his brother, King Feisal of Irak, are anxious to group all the sandy acreage of that part of the world into a United States of Arabia and have a vast Moslem republic or empire of their own. It would extend from Aleppo to Aden and from the Mediterranean to the Arabian seas. Trying to get all the Arab tribes under one tent is as bad as putting the Balkans to bed.

TEAGUE SCORES A TRIUMPH

Facing a Senate committee inclined to be hostile, C. C. Teague of Santa Paula, member of the Federal Farm Board, not only scored a personal triumph, but one for his State. He demonstrated that his agricultural horizon is not circumscribed by the boundaries of California nor his knowledge based exclusively upon California conditions, by showing how the general principles upon which the successful California cooperatives are based, may be applied to all agriculture.

The demonstration is important locally since there has been a disposition in the Senate to criticise sharply the loan of $9,000,000 made by the Farm Board to the California grape men, on the ground that midwestern and southern agriculture should have been aided first. Mr. Teague's answer to this criticism was first, that the raisin growers needed the money, and second, that they were organized to use it wisely, while other agricultural industries, particularly wheat and cotton, could fulfill but one of these conditions. In the face of these facts, the committee was compelled to acknowledge, by implication at least, that the criticism was not justified.

It is important politically because this attack upon the Farm Board was meant as a veiled attack upon the President who appointed it, by the same Democratic-Insurgent group which has been attempting to hamstring the President's policies all summer, and with which Hiram Johnson now appears to have associated himself fully. It served notice upon this group that no ammunition for the war on Hoover is to be obtained from the Farm Board and that the operations of that body, at least so far, cannot be made the subject of successful attack.

It is important also to the farmers, since once more it has been emphasized before the Senate that the solution of the farm problem cannot be accomplished with a wave of the hand. Mr. Teague warned the committee that even under the most favorable circumstances the board has a long job ahead of it.

The danger is that farmers, lacking understanding of the situation and impatient of what seems to them delay, will force action upon Congress that in the long run will damage not only the country at large but the farmers themselves.

It has taken years, as Mr. Teague pointed out, for the California co-operatives to reach their present position. Since they did not have government aid; and since the co-operatives now in process of formation under the Farm Board's wing will have the backing of the United States Treasury, the latter should be able to accomplish their purpose somewhat earlier—in other words, Mr. Teague thinks the process can be speeded up. But a campaign of education, followed by a campaign of organization, necessarily takes time, and if the Farm Board's program is upset in the middle, and some patent remedy devised by wild-eyed extremists is substituted for it, all the work will have gone for nothing.

Mr. Teague's advice that the various agricultural crops be stabilized separately is to the point. The farm problem is not to be solved all at one time, but piecemeal. President Hoover told the farmers that long ago. If Mr. Teague can convince them of it, as he seems to have convinced the Senate Agriculture Committee, his service to the nation will not have been in vain.

PEDESTRIAN PREJUDICE

If a pedestrian be injured in traffic, he should be fined—provided he survives. If he be killed, the cost of investigation should be paid out of his estate. At least such are the reported findings of a Coroner of a large city.

This doctor would seem to be an extremist against the popular prejudice of always favoring the pedestrian. And it is barely possible that this tribe to which we all belong at times has too much sympathy. Over-coddling him has made him careless. Accustomed to receive the verdict, he has come to regard himself as heaven's direct gift to traffic. The courts have come to think he can do no wrong and if he be mutilated in an accident, he is regarded as in the right solely because he is a pedestrian. Possibly this is as it should be; for he is the underdog, and government was invented to protect the weak.

And yet it sometimes works a hardship upon the motorist. Occasionally a driver may be found who has a heart. Now and then one makes a frantic effort to escape a careless pedestrian bent on swift death. A driver has been known to shed tears over his victim.

The automobile owner is often guilty of much. With fifty or a hundred wild horses champing their bits, he feels the surge of power and gives them the gas. Sometimes, doubtless, the man afoot may be despised.

But even the pedestrian is often appallingly reckless. At intervals he sneaks clandestinely out from behind another vehicle seeking swift suicide. He hangs fire in a crisis in the middle of the street in a way that confuses the most alert. The ways of pedestrians are sometimes hard to find out.

Could it be that the pedestrian could be spurred up a little? Should he have to keep his eyelids pinned back for the law also? Not all the motorists are fiends and not all the pedestrians are angels.

GOING WITH A COOK

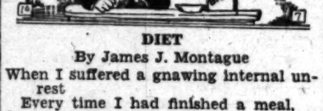
The first Cook tour of consequence was that indulged in by Capt. James Cook, who scoured all the oceans there are and discovered much unknown territory. His touring extended beyond thirty years and the many incidents included the discovery of the Hawaiian or Sandwich Islands, where he met his death in a brush with the natives just 150 years ago.

The Cook tour of today is different and is almost without adventure. It had its start with Thomas Cook, who was born in England 120 years ago and went into the excursion business after he had spent some time publishing temperance books and magazines. Just eighty-eight years ago he hired a special train to carry passengers from Leicester to Loughborough to attend a temperance rally. He charged only a shilling for the round trip and he carried some 600 persons. This was the first advertised special excursion that England had known and its success almost compelled Cook to take up this travel promotion as a business. The family have been in it ever since. Now you can go as a Cook tourist into any corner of the world at almost any time.

But here on the Pacific Coast one may hand a few dollars to the Dollars and get an even longer run for the money. A convention of British packers complained the other day that England never produced any good cooks. Here were a few . . . to match our Dollars.

NEED THE MONEY

The politicians must need another bunch of money. The State Board of Equalization is reported as urging the adoption of a State sales tax in order to provide the funds needed for the schools. The politicians can garner a lot of money in the name of education and if this could be arranged for the usual lines of taxation might supply a leakage for other ends. What the world needs is more jobs for more voters.



DIET

By James J. Montague

When I suffered a gnawing internal unrest
Every time I had finished a meal,
And there seemed to be nothing that I could digest
Which possessed any palate appeal,
I applied to a doctor, whose air of concern
Aroused in me active disquiet,
So I did as he said when he shook his wise head
And observed: "You must go on a diet."

I went on a diet of some sort of bran
And a half pint of milk every day,
And inside of a couple of months I began
To find the world dismal and gray.
I craved for a beefsteak as sots crave their rum.
Existence grew bitter as gall.
I ate less and less of the terrible mess,
But I didn't get better at all.

So I went to a noted hygenic resort,
Where, the very first day, I was placed
On a rigorous diet of foods of a sort
Which were utterly lacking in taste.
I remained there six months, and grew daily more thin
And listless and feeble and wan.
Then I said with a curse, "I cannot grow much worse,
So I'll eat what I please from now on."

And now I am told the great doctors agree
That no one can thrive on a diet;
And that people with feeble digestions, like me,
Should never be tempted to try it.
Since then, led by instinct, and instinct alone
On the dishes I like I insist,
And I merely will add that I get good and mad
When I think, of the food I have missed.

The LEE SIDE O' LA
By Lee Shippey

EVERY visitor to Southern California admires the graceful pepper trees which beautify so many of our streets and highways, and often asks whence they came. Generally the answer is that the padres brought them from Spain. But Charles G. Adams, director and twice president of the City Planning Association, member of the citizens' committee on parks, playgrounds and beaches, chairman of landscape architecture of Artland, and member of nearly everything else which is interested in preserving the beauty and history of Southern California, has dug out for use the authentic story. It follows:

Brought From South America

In the quadrangle of the old mission at San Luis Rey still stands the noble old pepper tree that is the great grandparent of all those that flourish in California today. And there it has stood through 131 years.

In 1798 the master of a sailing ship that carried supplies from old Spain to the missions of Alta California, found on his stop at Valparaiso a few of the rose-red berries of the pepper tree that grew wild in Chile; treasured them through the long, slow journey to San Luis Rey; and presented them to the padres there. No one seems now to know the name of the master nor of his ship.

One of the padres planted the berries in the garden of the newly founded mission, and a few seeds prospered and grew into trees and through the years their descendants were transplanted to all the missions and pueblos. The old San Luis Rey tree is one of those few.

Berries Still Fertile

The berries of that original tree are fertile to this day. For when the Los Angeles Park Department, under the leadership of Mrs. Martha Nelson McCann, was creating the Memory Garden at Mission San Fernando, they planted some of its berries in the city nursery, and those grew into the handsome trees that now shade the garden. A beautiful ceremony was conducted at the time of their transplanting by Mrs. A. S. C. Forbes, historian of the missions.

San Gabriel Brought First Fruits

The bringing of fruit trees to the missions and thence to all of California was no less picturesque. In 1784, or thereabouts; the padres at Mission San Gabriel sent couriers to scout the region of Sonora, Mex., for the fine Spanish fruits that had been established there. Despite the difficulties of primitive travel, they succeeded in establishing about the missions the olives, dates, figs, pears, sapotes, grapes (both wine and raisin) and other fruits they found, as well as the ornamental native fan palms of the Colorado desert mountains. To this day the figs and grapes they brought are standard varieties in California.

Nothing That Small About Us

Lee: For unusual businesses, I nominate for this week's medal the shoe shop in one of the downtown buildings which handles only small-size shoes for women. The largest size sold there, I understand, is No. 4½. Can grown women really wear such small sized shoes?—M. W. Krause.

Some may not be grown, but are groaning.

Mystery to Us

Chombie Allen, editor of the Ontario Daily Report, writes us from Moscow, Russia, that he has just been taking a ride with the Volga Boatman, limousining about Leningrad and now will mop up on Moscow—figuratively, of course. We submit this as additional proof that California country editors are the most prosperous in the world. How do they get that way—and that far away?

Truthful Advertising

E. C. K. sends us a magazine clipping announcing:

FRECKLES
Can Be Secretly
Removed.

Guess that's right; for we've known lots of girls who used freckle remover—but you never would guess it, at this time of year, to look at them.

You can't develop any backbone, Palomine, by sitting on it.

WHAT OTHERS THINK ABOUT IT

THE PAY OF OUR SOLDIERS

[Worcester Telegram]

The American Army is already the highest paid army in the world, but its rewards are not munificent. They would not be dazzling even should all the recommended increases be authorized. It is, for instance, proposed to raise the pay of a private to $36 per month. Even when it is remembered that this is in addition to clothing, subsistence, lodging and medical attention the return will hardly be calculated as equal to that obtained by the competent man in civil employment. Major-generals would be advanced to $14,000 per year. There are only twenty-one major-generals. Very, very few of the three-hundred-odd young men graduated each year at West Point can hope to arrive at the two-starred dizzy eminence of rank and fortune. Estimate of the total additional expense to the government should the increases be allowed is not available, but the total sum would not be great.

Whether or not there is Congressional favor for the recommendations as a whole it would seem that there should be approval for some increase to enlisted men and to officers of junior grade, particularly the latter class who, unlike the men in the ranks, provide their own clothing and subsistence and who experience some embarrassment in getting along on a pay scale which was established in 1908 since which time the Interdepartmental Board asserts the cost of living has advanced 104 per cent.

NEW BATTLE OF THE LAKES

[St. Paul Pioneer Press]

One hundred and sixteen years ago, on September 10, 1813, Capt. Oliver H. Perry won his famous naval victory over the British fleet off the Sandusky Islands of Lake Erie. It is a significant anniversary. Naval warfare on the Great Lakes continued in a desultory way and a year later, on September 11, 1814, the British invasion of New York came to disaster with Commodore Macdonough's triumph over the British squadron in Plattsburgh Bay, Lake Champlain. But for practical purposes, when Capt. Perry had met the enemy and issued his celebrated communique, the naval history of the Great Lakes was closed.

For more than a century since the Treaty of Ghent ending the War of 1812, the lakes have been without military significance, a series of links in the great unfortified and disarmed boundary between the United States and Canada. Today, a century later the only thought between Canada and this country is how best to utilize the economic potentialities of the Great Lakes, both as avenues of commerce and as sources of power.

When the St. Lawrence waterway has been at last constructed and the modern battle of the Great Lakes brought to its inevitable conclusion, it will be pertinent for the west of Canada and the United States to say with Perry, "We have met the enemy and they are ours."

FALL OF THE AMERICAN REPUBLIC

[Quebec Soleil]

The growth of the American population by natural increase is practically at an end. Nowhere on this planet has man so many facilities or such opportunities to bring up children as in the richest of the republics. But it transpires that it is the people of the rich United States who are being most backward in the accomplishment of this great social duty. This bodes ill for the future. If it keeps its doors closed and parsimoniously limits its immigration, every year will show a gradual decline in the figures of the population. If it throws its doors open the swelling flood of foreign races will submerge it little by little; it will lose its identity, its distinctive characteristics; it will change its character from one half-century to another; it will without doubt be a people retaining the name American, but this people will practically have nothing in common with the proud and arrogant people of the America of today.

BODIE'S HEARSE

BY E. R. CLEVELAND

Bodie was the last of the hell-roarin' mining camps of California, and its history takes one back to the old West—gone, never to return. It was a red-hot camp while it lasted, though its career was comparatively brief. While it functioned nearly $30,000,000 in gold and silver were taken from its mines.

In 1861 a prospector named Bill Bodie crossed the high Sierras from Tuolumne county and discovered placer gold in the Mono basin and also found evidence of gold in the mineralized hills where years later the camp of Bodie was situated. Bill Bodie had returned to Tuolumne county for a supply of provisions, and upon his recrossing the mountains was caught in a heavy snowstorm and frozen to death. His associates, upon finding the body in the spring, buried it and marked the grave with a pile of rock.

In the early '70's rich gold ore was unearthed on Bodie bluff and soon thereafter a stampede started for the scene of the new discovery. In a brief time a camp was under full swing. Rich ore was found in dozens of claims. Mining machinery arrived, mills erected and the output of bullion astonished and excited mining men all over the coast.

For a year or so the funeral processions to the cemetery were headed by an express wagon. As the remains of Tom Kelly, a popular gambler, who had died with his boots on, were being taken to their last resting place, Jack Enright, an equally prominent sport, pointed out the urgent need of a real hearse, and heading a committee, waited on the camp's undertaker.

A month later the news circulated that such a vehicle was soon to arrive. Plans were made for its proper reception and its advent was the occasion for an outpouring of the whole population. Bodie never did anything half-heartedly. It was the last word in the way of a hearse—plate glass, rich carvings, six huge black plumes with white tips, silver ornaments galore and a span of thoroughbred coach horses. The news was telegraphed up and down the coast and it was considered a great "send-off" for the camp.

The first coffin to be slipped into this vehicle contained the remains of Martin Grogan, who had engaged in a dispute over a mining claim and had lost out. The procession was a mile long, as Martin was a good fellow. A funeral in Bodie was a most solemn daylight affair, followed by a reaction of hilarity in the evening. Those who died from gunshot wounds, met death by accident or passed away peacefully in bed, received equal attention when the hearse was brought out. The next to take a ride was Larry Deegan, who looked after the destinies of the Last Chance, a thirst bazaar. He, too, made a sudden exit, aided by the contents of a Colt's, in the hands of a rude, impetuous cowboy. As Deegan lay on the floor, breathing with difficulty, he feebly inquired, "Will I go out in the new hearse?" He was given that assurance and he passed away with a smile of satisfaction on his face.

In his search for news a reporter of the Daily Free Press got an inkling as to where Bill Bodie's remains might be found. For three days he searched and was finally successful. The bones of the old prospector were dug up and conveyed to camp and lay in state in the Masonic Temple. The funeral was an event. Flowers came from Sacramento, a mahogany casket provided, business was suspended, eulogies delivered. The very hearse seemed impressed by the extraordinary spectacle.

Tom Kehoe was captain of Company Two of the Bodie fire department and he made it a very efficient organization. He came to the camp with a reputation for being quick on the draw, and had at least two notches on the handle of his pocket weapon. He was a man not to be trifled with. One night four shots rang out in front of the Golden Palace. Kehoe fell through the folding doors with three ugly wounds in his chest. He clutched a six-shooter in his right hand, with one chamber empty. Fire Company No. 2 planned a funeral that should surpass any similar event in the camp, and it succeeded. Upon this occasion the hearse was drawn by four white horses; death march from "Saul" by the band; firemen in full regalia; firehouse and church bells tolling; public school dismissed; pupils joining in the parade; choir at the grave singing, "Upward on Wings I Fly." It was a great day for the hearse and all concerned.

No one, rich or poor, saint or sinner, was denied the services of the hearse when the end of the trail was reached—excepting in one instance. Jimmy Trelore, a prominent member of the Miners' Union, was shot down in cold blood by Pierre La Roach, who, at a ball, insisted upon paying unwelcome attention to Trelore's wife. La Roach took offense when the husband protested, and when the ball was ended he followed Trelore to the street and killed him. Two nights later the murderer was taken from the jail and lynched. The union notified the undertaker he must not use the hearse at La Roach's funeral. So an express wagon had to be brought into action. Friends of the deceased decorated it with "the trappings and the suits of woe" and the remains were buried in unconsecrated ground.

For ten years the hearse traveled to and from the cemetery, continuing in service till the camp came to its own death and had no further need of it. Then Undertaker Dan Ward put it under cover, turned the key in the lock and departed, nobody seemed to know where.

Dress Suit, Kiddies, Dogs, et al

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 2.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In this morning's edition you publish a letter signed "Mrs. Annabelle LeMoine," in which the lady criticises Lee Shippey because he enlightened the world regarding his one and only dress suit. The lady suggests that Mr. Shippey fill his five-by-ten-inch space with history!!!

The majority of The Times readers enjoy a smile with their breakfasts and find Mr. Shippey's articles, though brief, amusing, interesting and often instructive.

More power to his pen when on such subjects as dog poisoning, radio loud speakers, brief biographical sketches and those subjects bringing a new and unusual point of view to all topics of general interest, not printed in books and issued by the tens of thousands. E. C. B.

No Place for History

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 2.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Dear Sir: We have just been reading the letter in Times for October 2 criticising the interesting articles by Lee Shippey and we feel we must express our appreciation of every one of those articles. We can enjoy a little of the humorous side of life, having had our full share of the serious side; we do not enjoy having history served with our breakfast. Please continue "The Lee Side of Los Angeles" indefinitely. We look for it eagerly every day.

AN OLD SUBSCRIBER.

Everyone to His Taste

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 2.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Is there any law compelling people to read what they don't enjoy? If Mrs. LeMoine prefers American history to Leeside of Los Angeles, why doesn't she read American history, and let the rest of us enjoy Mr. Shippey's "colyum" as is? The clever way he writes of his five kiddies, his dress suit, or what not, is just exactly what makes his articles interesting and intimate touches most of us enjoy.

M. CHENEY.

It Splices the Main Brace

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 2.—[To the Editor of The Times:] A letter in your Wednesday's issue severely criticised Lee Shippey for one of his recent articles. I differ radically from the opinion of the correspondent. Leeside, I take it, is simply a bit of whimsical pleasantry, a soothing lotion, as it were, to bring a smile where there has been a frown. We all need considerable of this sort of thing to offset the effect of strenuous living. A bit of Lee's nonsense lets us down easily. Let us play.

WHERE CAN I LEARN

Aviation?

BY LOUISE L. TEMPLE

[Prepared in co-operation with the Los Angeles evening high schools. Questions concerning free evening classes will be answered if stamped addressed envelope is inclosed. Address Louise L. Temple, care of The Times.]

A general course in aviation, easily understood by the average layman, is offered by the Santous Evening High School, 1205 West Pico Boulevard. The instructor is A. E. Diehl, who has made a study of commercial aviation, and this course will deal with the commercial application of aviation rather than with the flying aspects.

Topics covered by this course will be the history of aviation, types of planes, types of motors, meteorology, rates, operation, passenger, mail and express cargo, government laws and regulations, personnel, airports, airways.

Previous experience in airplane study is not required for entrance into this course and women are admitted. The course aims to prepare people to hold positions in airplane companies and to converse intelligently on this popular subject.

The class meets on Monday and Thursday evenings from 7 to 9 in room 202.

SLANG IS HONORED

"If a slang phrase fills a long-felt want, it will cease to be slang and go into the language," declares no less an authority than Sir William A. Craigie, who, having completed his work on the great Oxford Dictionary, is now turning his attention to an American-English dictionary. American slang has his thorough approval and he finds "many current colloquialisms so particularly expressive that one wonders how the idea was expressed before they were invented."

Utility is Sir William Craigie's touchstone of merit. He does not, like the usual foreigner, pick up catch phrases for their novelty and adopt them as Americanisms, but he considers such apt phrases as the following too good to be ruled out of his new dictionary: "It's up to you," "tight place," "to make one's pile," "to catch on," and "to face the music." F. H. H.

It took two languages to make the word parachute, the Italian word parare: "to depend, to ward off," and the French word, chute: "a fall." In other words a parachute is: "to ward off a fall." Words in neither language, however, will help if the darn thing don't open.

GERMANS EAGER TO ARRIVE HERE

Berlin Mayor and Party on Journey Westward

Film Colony Proves Lure for Foreign Delegation

Cities Along Route Extend Greetings to Group

Dr. Gustav Boess, Mayor of Berlin, and a group of notable Germans are on route to California, told officials of their enthusiasm and interest in the plans to Union Pacific officials at Omaha yesterday.

"We are all very anxious to see your wonderful California," Dr. Boess said through an interpreter. "We know of the great province of your nation - picture colony at Hollywood has, of course, penetrated our country and ever since we landed in New York we have realized what your West Coast city, especially Los Angeles, are like. It is a vast country, your cities, and we have seen New York and Chicago, yet we have heard so much about Los Angeles that we shall be glad to arrive there to see all of the wonderful things we have heard about it."

CHEERED ALONG LINE

All along the lines of the Union Pacific mayors of nearly every town have welcomed the delegation and with official greeting has been carried on with the aid of an interpreter. In Omaha Dr. Boess and his party were met by a large reception of his countrymen who presented the women of the party with huge bouses of chrysanthemums. The train has been carried out from the entire line of the party's visit in California and the drawing rooms of the party resemble a flower bouse full of flowers, more than they do Pullman rooms.

In addition to Dr. Boess the party includes: Herr Stadtrat Behrendt, City Counselor of Berlin; Herr Benecke, Herr Jens Nydahl, superintendent of Berlin Schools; Herr Wilhelm Mueller, Magisterial Counselor, and Herr William von Drigalski, Commissioner of Public Health of Berlin. Each member of the party is making a study of American methods of city government as it will be applied to his respective duties in Germany.

BENECKE VERSATILE

Herr Benecke, one of the most interesting of the group, was elected to the executive board of Berlin municipal council and has served his native city in that capacity without any salary since 1919. For many years before the creation of separate corporations he directed all the public works of Berlin, including manufacture of illuminating gas, electricity, water and coal supply. At the present time he is Commissioner of Public Welfare directing charitable endowments and foundations, social service institutions, old age homes, and some of Berlin's industrial enterprises. He also was a member of the first Reichstag of the Republic of Germany.

The party will arrive in Los Angeles within the next week or ten days after making official visits to cities along the westward route.

RUM DEAL GIVEN TO THIS CHILD

He's Only a Bootlegger's Son, But Judge Says He Has Legitimate "Kick"

A flourishing bootlegging business is not proper support for an 8-year-old child, Municipal Judge Bullock ruled in finding Nathan Diamond guilty of failure to provide for his son, Willie. Accused on the charge, Diamond told the court he "turned a good bootlegging business over to my family and have gone into the junk business fo. myself."

Diamond, on recommendation of Deputy City Prosecutor Ida V. Wells, was sentenced to serve a year on the road camp, the term being suspended on condition that Diamond pay $20 a month to his wife toward the child's support.

RIPE AGE LAID TO CLIMATE HERE

Centenarian Who Came From New England Town Four Decades Ago Declares Years Rest Lightly Upon One in Southland

Back in the little town of Farmington, Me., forty years ago, Miss Susan Croswell decided that in spite of her sixty years life still held much in store for her, so she made up her mind to prolong it. But the rigors of New England winters were not famed for being conducive to longevity. Therefore she cast about for a place whose climate would serve to lengthen her span of years.

There was no All-Year Club of Southern California then, nor had the Chamber of Commerce thought of inviting the rest of the world to come here and live to a ripe old age. But in Hollywood there was Trueman Gower, one of its earliest pioneers, who died last year. He was a nephew of Miss Croswell, and one day he wrote and urged her to settle here and thus escape the winters on the Atlantic Seaboard. Respecting his judgment, Miss Croswell sold out her business, said farewell to Farmington and made the transcontinental trip.

Yesterday, surrounded by thirty-five nieces and nephews, grandnieces and grand-nephews, and great-grand-nieces and great-grand-nephews, in her home at 349 Edgeware Road, she celebrated her one hundredth birthday anniversary. In full possession of all her faculties, the newest addition to the ranks of Southern California's centenarians gave unqualified credit for her long life to the soothing influence of the Southland, insisting it has made the years rest lightly upon her.

Among the relatives who, as guests of Miss Croswell, participated in the all-day celebration and felicitated the honoree were John, May, Charles, Mary and Hattie Gower, Ed Croswell of Long Beach and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Croswell of Glendale, and their families.

Barclay, Scottish Rite secretary for the Los Angeles territory, who died at his home in Santa Monica Saturday, will be conducted Thursday morning from Breese Brothers' mortuary and will be private, the family announced yesterday. The body will be cremated at Rosehill after the services.

For the past twenty-five years Mr. Barclay devoted almost his entire time to Masonic activities, being secretary of the Shrine at one time and then secretary to the Scottish Rite. He had resided in Los Angeles fifty-five years, having come here from Pennsylvania.

He was working in his garden at Santa Monica, Saturday when he was seized with a heart attack and toppled over dead.

EVANS AND ACTRESS TO BE HONOR GUESTS

Representative Evans and Carmel Myers, film actress, will be guests at a luncheon to be given for members of B'nai B'rith Lodge of Los Angeles at noon Wednesday, at the Victor Hugo Restaurant. The luncheon will be followed by a musical program.

Catholics Make Merry at Picnic Given by K. of C.

Members of every Catholic organization in the city were present at a picnic and barbecue at Rose Hill Park yesterday which was sponsored by the Knights of Columbus. The proceeds of the affair will be used for the support of the free employment bureau maintained by the Knights of Columbus, the service of which is open to all citizens regardless of race or creed.

Features of the picnic were relay races for men and women, a baby show, aesthetic dancing contests and a variety of athletic events. There was open air dancing throughout the afternoon and evening and special exhibitions by well-known local dancers. The committee in charge was headed by Benno M. Brink, president of the Southern California chapter of the Knights of Columbus.

He was taken to the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital, where Police Surgeon Saverien performed a major operation.

Los Angeles Girl at Home After Trip

[Ray Huff Studios]
Miss Elizabeth Claire Norton

MISS ELIZABETH CLAIRE NORTON, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Tilden Norton of Fremont Place and fiancee of Jack Rude, formerly of San Francisco, has just returned from a trip to the northern city, where she was extensively entertained. Among the affairs in her honor was a luncheon given at the Fairmont by Miss Miriam Rude, twenty guests being bidden.

Miss Norton was graduated from University of California at Los Angeles, while her fiance claims Stanford as his alma mater. No date is set as yet for the wedding which probably will be an event of the early spring.

MODES OF THE MOMENT

by Honore Booth

FASHION EXPERT OF HARPER'S BAZAAR

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Never have furs been more cleverly cut and made than they are at this season. Black broadtail has been used as fabrics are used, tailored into slim distinguished lines, and trimmed with enormous silver foxes at the collar line. No fur could be more distinguished for an afternoon coat than this magnificent pelt.

Sports coats are made in all kinds of unusual furs. I have seen Australian lamb, a kind of yellowish tan fur resembling Persian lamb, which, made into a three-quarter length coat, is extremely acceptable and practical for street wear. Its weight is negligible and its surface hardy and appropriate for street wear.

Of course, all the Lapin family is out in full force. While the manufacturers do not guarantee the wearing qualities of this animal they are cleverly binding the edges where the first wear comes, with kasha in contrasting or harmonizing shades, and lining the coat itself with the same woolen material.

FURS FOR EVENING

The evening coat is rather a problem this year. The woman has two choices open to her—either she may have a long coat of some fur suitable for evening such as very dark mink or ermine, or she may have a short coat ending at about the knee, which allows the full beauty of her trailing skirts to be seen in a graceful line.

One ermine coat in the market has been made with a full descending flare in a skirt effect, which covers the trailing gown worn beneath it. On the whole, the shorter coat is more practical and smarter in its newness, with its all-enveloping huge collar and its width, just ample enough to fold around the figure but not so ample as to make a bulky silhouette.

The linings of these coats have been more carefully studied than ever before. White satin lambs are used in eggshell shades because of their adaptability to every shade of fur. Black velvet makes a beautiful lining for an ermine evening wrap and is soft and delightful for its wearer. For daytime, linings of jersey tweed and thin woolens are much used.

HATS ARE UPTURNED

If your forehead is presentable it will undoubtedly amuse you to wear a hat with a high cut line this winter. Caution must be used, however, as this new look can so easily be caricatured and one's profile should be studied intelligently before the mirror to see whether such an unveiling is commendable. For those who like a more formal hat, and for the woman who is not sure of her profile, the tricorne is offered in many becoming shades. Reboux is specializing in it and it has always been a hat of great distinction, which will undoubtedly insure it a welcome among women past their first youth.

Velvet, especially in black, is revived for winter wear and Agnes makes hats of modified droop with flanges behind the ears framing the woman's face and setting off her complexion and brilliancy to perfection. Sometimes a jeweled brooch of tiny diamonds in the best of taste, is added to the front and just at one side. Its brilliance against the velvet background gives an added accent quite suitable to the dignified gracious, afternoon mode.

Tweeds and knitted woolen fabrics are crowding the market in Paris and will undoubtedly be most welcome to the woman who needs many hats in her wardrobe. Their delightful packing qualities, their imperviousness to weather conditions and their general becomingness all recommend them, not to mention the fact that they are knitted and woven in any color which the wearer may fancy. Chenille turbans are also extremely becoming and may be adjusted to the woman's head in any line on or off the forehead, up or down at one side, which appeals to her.

Health and Diet

ADVICE

THE DUCTLESS GLANDS
The Thyroid Gland

People with an excess of thyroid secretion (hyperthyroid) are usually thin and nervous. The heart beats rapidly upon the slightest exertion; those with an insufficient amount of thyroid secretion (hypothyroid) are usually fat and phlegmatic.

There is a very close connection between the chemical secretions of the thyroid and the ovaries. For this reason, more women are afflicted with thyroid trouble than men.

When there is a lack of thyroid secretion in infants, they remain dwarfed. This condition has received the name of "cretinism." A child does not develop physically and mentally when the thyroid secretion is lacking. In adults a lack of thyroid secretion has a definite effect, and is known as myxedema, so called because of a peculiar mucus-like substance underneath the skin which produces a puffy swelling. This puffiness resembles ordinary dropsy but differs in that it does not pit upon the pressure of the fingers. There is much swelling especially in the nose and cheeks of the face, thus giving a thickened, dull expression. A person with myxedema may appear prematurely aged. The tongue become enlarged, the skin is dry and of a peculiar sallow color, the hair becomes brittle and baldness frequently results. The patient becomes depressed and shows a desire to avoid exercise. The weight often increases. The temperature is subnormal and the heart action slow.

Myxedema does not always show these exaggerated forms, but may exist in a limited degree. It is almost always associated with a lack of functioning on the part of the ovaries.

An excess of the thyroid secretion produces a loss of weight and rapid beating of the heart, restlessness, extreme nervousness, sleeplessness, intestinal disturbances, feverishness and sweating. The excessive secretion of this gland also produces a too-rapid oxidation of food materials in the body.

In every case of hyperthyroidism with women whom I have examined, the pelvic organs, especially the intestines, have been greatly prolapsed, with usually adhesions around the ovaries, and this leads me to believe that hyperthyroidism with women is usually caused by a reflex from ovarian irritation, as the cases usually improve rapidly on the proper dieting regimen after the adhesions have been loosened and the prolapsed organs raised to their normal positions. If this theory of sexual irritation is true it may be that hyperthyroidism with males is likewise due more or less to some irritation of the prostate, seminal vesicles or testes.

SEX GLANDS

The sexual glands or gonads also produce an internal secretion which influences the principal differences in the appearance and temperament of men and women, and influences their youth and maturity. When these glands do not function properly, the figure remains small like that of a child. A man affected with an underfunction of these glands does not exhibit masculine characteristics, and a woman affected with an undersecretion of these glands is not fully feminine and has a tendency toward obesity.

In dealing with the other glands I spoke somewhat of the inter-relationship and action of the gonads upon some of the ductless glands.

In tomorrow's article we will discuss the thymus, pituitary, pineal and spleen.

Very Attractive

The hangers in the closet of the guest room look very attractive if covered with velvet or velveteen to correspond in color to the trimmings of the room. It gives quite a dainty touch when the hostess opens the closet door.

YOUR BABY and MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office, will bring a personal reply. This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 6 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema, outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb-sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training to cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture, styes and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

ADULT BASES ADVICE ON OWN EXPERIENCES

Mrs. Y. B. writes: "I am a grandmother and a subscriber to your paper for several years, and I would like an answer to my question through your paper. My daughter has her mother-in-law living with her, and I notice they feed the 10-week-old baby butter on the end of a spoon. They also push bits of food in the baby's mouth. My daughter reads your column and benefits by it. She is very young and this is her first baby. Can you help her? Wishing you success in your good work."

Answer: This incident would seem to indicate that while the young mother is reading the column she isn't, as yet, putting its advice into practice. If the baby needs butter, it should be given him as part of his formula. There are butter and flour mixtures cooked together and added to milk which may be given babies who cannot digest cream and yet need fats. But to give a baby butter on the end of a spoon is just to be "doing something" for the baby, the benefits or ill effects of which the parents are ignorant. In fact, if this tiny baby is getting milk that is rich in cream the additional butter might all too easily upset him to the extent of destroying his appetite, or bringing out a rash just because he was overfed on fats. It is most unwise for a parent to give a small baby anything except foods advised by expert in child feeding.

The practice of giving a baby of any age bits of food from the table should be condemned. The baby should get used to all kinds of food and should get them in very small amounts at first, but this is quite different than the habit of putting food into his mouth from the family table, oftentimes from some adult's plate.

This practice is teaching him to want and demand foods whenever the adults are eating and foods which are entirely out of place in the diet of the well-fed baby. I suggest that you tell your daughter to get herself a good book on baby care, read it carefully and constantly, and put its advice into practice. She need not antagonize her mother-in-law, but she can tell her that she is taking no chances on making baby ill and unless advised by an expert will not give the baby any strange or new food. She is welcome to the feeding leaflet which may be obtained from this department for only a self-addressed, stamped envelope with her request.

Advice is needed by the young parent, but if she asks for it from an adult she usually gets an opinion based on personal experience, which is a precarious foundation for accurate knowledge about baby care and feeding.

The Porcelain Sink

If the porcelain sink is thoroughly washed and cleaned after each dishwashing it will never stain. It is the neglect of three times a day cleaning that makes it discolor. Sink strainers are also hard on the porcelain and the new under-the-sink style of strainer is to be encouraged. Hot water, soap, and a little household ammonia will make the sink fairly glisten.

WHEN THE SANDMAN COMES

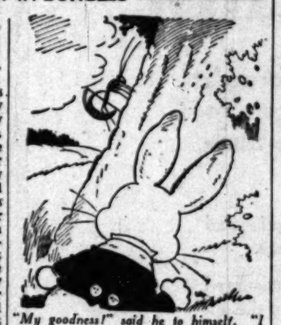
by THORTON W. BURGESS

THALESSA GETS IN TROUBLE

Stick at whatever you begin,
For patience in the end will win.
—Old Mother Nature.

Thalessa, who was Peter Rabbit's new insect acquaintance, was very busy. Slowly she wandered this way and that on the trunk of a tree a little way above Peter's head. She was where Peter could watch her comfortably and easily. He knew what she was doing, for he had seen her do it before. She was trying to locate the burrow or tunnel, of a wood-borer that was in the trunk of that tree. She was trying to do this so that she might bore a hole down into it and leave an egg in that tunnel. Although by this time Peter was quite familiar with Thalessa's ways, it still seemed to him a very wonderful thing that she should be able to tell just where one of those tunnels were.



"My goodness!" said he to himself. "I never would have patience to do a thing like that."

As she hunted about, her long drill trailed behind her. But presently Thalessa stopped. For a short space of time she was very quiet. Then Peter saw that wonderful drill of hers begin to curve over her back and he knew that she had found the tunnel she was hunting for. Up over her back and down until the tip of it touched the bark and the drill and her body formed a loop, moved that wonderful little instrument, which didn't look at all the thing it really was. Then, when the tip rested on the bark, Thalessa went to work. She began to drill. Slowly that curious drill of hers sank into the bark.

Peter watched her work. "My goodness!" said he to himself, "I never would have patience to do a thing like that, even if I could. I don't suppose she can hurry if she wants to."

This was quite true. With such a delicate little drill it was impossible to hurry. Thalessa didn't try to hurry. She knew better. But she didn't stop to rest. At last she was through the tunnel and the precious egg had been forced down through the drill into the tunnel.

"There," said Thalessa, "that's done!"

Peter said nothing, but continued to watch. He was wondering if Thalessa would try to find still another tunnel. Presently he noticed that Thalessa seemed to be struggling. She seemed to be working very much harder than she was when she was drilling. And then she began to act as if she were frightened.

"What are you doing?" asked Peter.

"Oh," cried Thalessa, "I can not get my drill out! It is wedged in the wood."

"That's too bad," said Peter. "What will you do?"

"There's nothing I can do," replied Thalessa. "If I can not pull it out, I will be held here a prisoner until I die."

Then Peter realized how really serious it was and he felt very bad indeed. "Did it ever happen before?" he asked.

Thalessa stopped struggling long enough to look at Peter in a very indignant manner. "Of course not!" said she. "I wouldn't be alive if it had, would I?" Then she resumed her struggles.

Peter wished he could help. If she were only a little lower down on the tree, he might be able to pull that drill out for her. But she was too high up for him to reach. There wasn't a thing in the world to do and never had he felt more helpless. He could see that Thalessa was growing more and more tired. Her struggles were growing weaker. And then, just as Peter made up his mind that he couldn't sit there and helplessly watch her struggle any longer, she pulled the drill free. She wasn't to be held a prisoner there until she died, after all.

"Oh, I am so glad!" cried Peter.

"You are not half as glad as I am," retorted Thalessa.

FAITH OF WORLD'S GREAT IN CHRIST POINTED OUT

Famous Men Listed as Upholding Glories of New Testament; Other Sermon Themes

Presenting to his audience a vast array of famous men of the past and present who bear testimony to the grandeur and glory of the New Testament and its power to guide the soul to loftier realms of wisdom and joy, Dr. John Snape in his sermon at the Baptist Church yesterday declared that "the gospel is the power of God" and that no truly manly man is ashamed to confess its influence for good. "Paul was not ashamed of this gospel in the days when it took courage to stand for the truth," said Dr. Snape. "It required great moral courage to declare the truth that a depised and crucified Nazarene was the Son of God and the Saviour of the world."

"Who would dare to admit today he was a disciple of the Gospel of Christ as Milton and Dante and Bacon and Dryden and Pope like Tennyson and Browning and Whittier, and psychologists like Hyslop and Hickok and Munsterberg and statesmen like Gladstone, Lincoln and Roosevelt never catch the spirit of the Master and acknowledge the sway of the Christ? Men of meaner intellectual and moral proportions are slow to confess their allegiance to and service in His name."

CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS DISCUSS "UNREALITY"

"What is the chaff to the wheat?" asked the Lord. These words from Jeremiah constituted the Golden Text of the Lesson-Sermon on "Unreality" read yesterday at all services of Christ, Scientist, in the churches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

Among the Scriptural selections comprising the Lesson-Sermon was a portion of Solomon's blessing cited in the First Book of the Kings: "The Lord our God be with us, as he was with our fathers: let him not leave us, nor forsake us: that he may incline our hearts unto him, to walk in all his ways, and to keep his commandments, and his statutes, and his judgments, which he commanded our fathers . . . that all the people of the earth may know that the Lord is God, and that there is none else."

A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" contained these words of Mary Baker Eddy: "The Science of Christianity comes with fan in hand to separate the chaff from the wheat. Science will declare God aright, and Christianity will demonstrate this declaration and its divine Principle, making mankind better physically, morally and spiritually."

OLD COMRADES FIND WELCOME AT TEMPLE

Many religious leaders, formerly members of the Salvation Army, attended "home-coming day" services yesterday at Salvation Army Temple. Brig. J. C. Bell, commander of the South Coast Division of the Salvation Army, spoke on "Comrades of Yesterday." He said in part:

"The world is indebted to many great men and women who today are accomplishing real constructive work in many fields, especially in the field of religion, who have received their training in the Salvation Army. Many of you who are here today, some of you who as old comrades of ours fought with us in the war against evil, are now engaged in that same fight in other fields of religion. Some of you are ministers of the various Protestant bodies. Some of you are in welfare work; but all of you are putting into practice those things which you learned at the hands of Salvationists in other days. We are happy in the work we have done in training you, and, though we wish you were still with the Army, we are glad you are still carrying on."

WIDE VARIANCE IN FIRE LOSS IN THIRTEEN CITIES

A study of per capita fire losses in selected California cities, recently completed by the California Taxpayers' Association, shows that losses in thirteen cities for 1928 ranged from a low of 43 cents per capita in Pasadena to a high of $4.44 in Fresno.

The per capita losses for the cities follow: Los Angeles, $1.86; Oakland, $1.38; Long Beach, $1.62; San Diego, 79 cents; Sacramento, $1.70; Fresno, $4.44; Pasadena, 43 cents; Berkeley, 74 cents; San Jose, $2.70; Stockton, $2.01; Santa Barbara, $1.25; Alameda, 70 cents; Riverside, $1.01.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters reports that the per capita fire loss in 445 cities of the United States in 1928 averaged $2.70.

Comparing these figures with fire losses in foreign countries for 1928 it is found that losses in the United States are much greater. For example, Oslo, Norway, has a loss of 80 cents per capita with a population of 254,000. Osaka, Japan, shows a loss of only 43 cents per capita, with a population of more than 2,000,000. Venice, Italy, sustains a loss of not more than 70 cents per capita, although its population is 250,000. Stockholm, Sweden, has a smaller loss, being 61 cents per capita, even though its population is 500,000.

"HONESTY OF GOD" IS DEFENDED BY PASTOR

"To believe in a universe of law instead of a universe of magic is to believe that God is an honest God and not a God of caprice," declared Dr. H. C. Culbertson in his sermon on "Miracles," preached yesterday at All Souls' Congregational Church. Dr. Culbertson spoke in part as follows:

"Doubtless Jesus cured many persons whose lameness or other defects had a psychological basis, such as our modern shell shock, and the proper cure for such is by psychic means; but Paul's thorn in the flesh, as he called his affliction, was never healed, despite his prayers, because it was not subject to that kind of treatment. Whether Jesus was born of a virgin or not has nothing whatever to do with the fact of His spiritual relationship to God and His character as a revelation to God. Undoubtedly many genuine psychic phenomena occurred in His life, such as the transfiguration scene and the appearance of angels and His own appearances as an apparition to His followers after the death on the cross. Any miracle story, however, which is contrary to the character of God, such as the narrative of Elijah calling down fire from heaven to burn up three captains and their fifties, is false. Be sure that there are higher laws in this universe than any we now understand, laws whereby God may answer the prayers of His children, but always be sure also that this is an honest universe, subject to the laws of an honest God."

WINKLER DISCUSSES "THE BOOK OF LIFE"

"The all-embracing tendency of Judaism culminates in the glorious idea of the brotherhood of man and the fatherhood of God," said Rabbi Mayer Winkler in his sermon on "The Book of Life," preached yesterday at Temple Sinai, in observance of Jewish New Year. Dr. Winkler said in part:

"Jews all over the world celebrate this day with awe and reverence. The book of life and death lies open and the destiny of humanity is in the balance. On this day we are called on to give a reckoning of our daily life. We appear before our consciences for judgment. The book of life lies open, not only before the heavenly tribunal but before the earthly tribunal, the human conscience. We write our lives in that book. From cradle to grave our whole existence is summed up and recorded in that book, which embraces the momentous periods of our lives. Happy is he who bears the yoke of responsibility in youth. May we live so that we may not be ashamed when the time comes to close the book of life. May this new year weld us all together more closely in the love of God and service to humanity."

WAY OF JESUS SAID TO BE IDEAL METHOD

Rev. William C. Isett preached at First Presbyterian Church of Long Beach yesterday on "The Way of the Christ." He said in part:

"The one duty of the church is to live the Christ life, and the one duty of the Christian minister it to lead the people in the Jesus way of life. We are not put here to 'set the world right,' but to preach Christ. God will do the regulating and governing of His human family. Christ is the head of the church. We are only brothers in the family. The Jesus' way of life would be ideal."

MANY VOICES CRY OUT, DECLARES DR. DYER

Many other voices today strive to drown out the voice of God, declared Dr. Frank Dyer, speaking yesterday morning in the Ritz Theater on "The Importance of Preaching in the Present Age." In the past, man stood in isolation where he could hear the voice of his Creator, but not today, declared the preacher, in enumerating the bombardment of insistent cries which distract the race. A modern message fitted to modern conditions is needed to compete with these cries, asserted Dr. Dyer. He said:

"No ancient and musty dogma handed down with the mere authority of tradition will lord and master the present age. When Chrysostom mastered Antioch for the church, it was with preaching cast in the mold of his time, but shot through and through with eternal principle. Preaching uninformed and remote from the awakened thinking of our time will not save America. God must speak through living men the message of eternal reality.

"Preaching is necessary to inform and reform. Without it neither the church nor the world can be saved. Rite, ceremony, sacrament, authority and organization are not enough. 'Go ye into all the world, and preach.'"

FAITH FOREVER SEEN IN KNOWLEDGE'S VAN

Dr. Bruce Brown, of South Park Christian Church, preached yesterday on "Men of Faith, the Hope of the World." He spoke in part as follows:

"It is quite the thing today to speak of faith in a condescending way, as though it were something like cross-eyes or an inferiority complex. The truth is that intelligence, without it, is as helpless and useless as an ocean liner with the engines out of commission. Knowledge is to faith what the model is to the finished temple. The circumference of certainty is mighty small. Man's greatest achievements have always been and must always be, far out in the realms of faith. Man must believe more than he knows or else forever wearily plod the treadmill."

SEEK FOR NEW TRUTHS, MINISTER ADVISES

Dr. Sheldon Shepard, preaching yesterday at the First Universalist Church, told his congregation that worshipers should always be adventurers for new truth, continually adjusting their theologies and philosophies to newly discovered knowledge and newly attained heights of understanding. He said in part:

"The source of life is spiritual. The process of all creation is by the thought of God, or the presence of His spirit. Everything is a manifestation of that spiritual, mental energy, 'over all and in all and through all.' Air, cells, wood, iron, diamonds, when analyzed, are seen to be as ethereal as thought. Tremendous creative power is latent in the mind and spirit of man, and in the Infinite Mind of which he is a part. Fear, doubt and anger create disease and unhappiness. Faith, love, understanding create health, power, new life for individuals, new worlds for men."

VIRGIN BIRTH OF JESUS UPHELD BY MINISTER

Speaking to a capacity audience at First Presbyterian Church of Hollywood yesterday Rev. Harry Rimmer continued his sermon series on "Science and the Bible" with a critical discussion of the virgin birth of Jesus. He said:

"Jesus asserts His claim to be God's son in the same sense of the word that you are the son or daughter of your father. Either he was, or he was not a crazy, blasphemous liar. In John 10:29 we read, 'I and the Father are one.' Which father did He mean? He meant the only one He had. In John 5:18 we read: 'Therefore the Jews sought the more to kill Him because He not only had broken the Sabbath, but also said that God was His father, making Himself equal with God.' The two important words are 'His father.' These words in the Greek text appear as 'parepaidion,' which means 'his own father.' And in the same sense that you are the offspring of your earthly father, whose name you bear, Jesus was the son of God."

TIMES WANT ADS

OIL BOOM TAKES OLD INGLEWOOD

Once Peaceful Suburb Now in Dizzy Dance

Homes Wrecked for Sites of Drillers' Industry

Town Visions Sudden Riches on Petroleum Flow

Oil! The magic call of the modern Eldorado has resounded in the thriving suburb of Inglewood. The prosperous little city of business houses and homes has been transformed overnight into a hustling oil mart with its attendant activities and speculations.

Eight rigs have been erected and are sending their drills toward the sands for "black gold." Sixteen permits have been granted by the City Council for additional wells and many are the lot owners in a strip of territory two miles long and half a mile wide who have made arrangements with oil companies operating in the field to convert back yard gardens into working plants for oil seekers.

VALUES SKYROCKET

What a week ago was a residential section of a modest suburb with a real estate value of possibly $2,000,000 is roughly estimated today by some to be an oil field valued at more than $100,000,000. This vision of great and sudden wealth has brought to hundreds of owners of modest homes dreams of a future of ease and luxury and inspired the ever-present speculator to ply his trade with increased activity.

At nearly every corner of the tract temporary offices have been erected where real estate operators and a corps of assistants are busy buying, selling and leasing property and giving out large quantities of information, correct or otherwise. Nearly every oil company operating in Southern California has work crews building derricks, operating steam shovels or aiding in the removal of the houses that are being taken away to make room for boiler plants and drilling rigs.

Automobiles with license plates showing them to be from neighboring oil States are seen at every turn, showing that the story of the strike is well known to operators in Texas, Oklahoma and even Wyoming. Above, the air is filled with passenger planes, chartered by enterprising agents to give prospects a full view of the field. Wagons and tents filled with eatables and drinkables line the sides of Prairie avenue for several blocks north from Manchester avenue, while street venders of box lunches indicate that a large floating population has taken the section.

The "boom" is not devoid of its touch of pathos as the visitor sees home ties broken as houses are rolled away, while lawns and gardens are demolished in the rush for wealth.

FATHER OF BOOM

The story of the Inglewood east side oil field is the story of untiring efforts of Ray E. Perry, real estate dealer and property owner, who about seven years ago became convinced that the section was oil-bearing land. It was not until about a year ago that the first test well was put down.

At that time James Pollard of Graham & Loftus, oil operators, started a wildcat well at the corner of Prairie and Manchester avenues, which resulted in a small output of oil, but gave no steady production. Little or no excitement accompanied this effort, but Mr. Perry continued his exploitations, clinging to the fact that the Pollard well had proven that the substrata contained two oil sands.

THEY STRUCK OIL

The next attempt was in June of this year and is known as the Max Pray well. It is at Prairie avenue and Aerick street. At a depth of 5831 feet it came in as a 600-barrel well, but sanded up and showed a flow of 200 barrels a day for thirty days. Owing to overproduction in all the oil fields of the country little excitement followed this endeavor. Then George F. Getty, well-known Santa Fe Springs operator, brought in a well at Aerick and Regent streets which proved to be a 3000-barrel gusher and the present excitement was on. This well has since settled down to 250 barrels a day, with a 5 per cent cut of water.

Houses began to move, dirt began to fly and plans and prospects of the future were the main topics of conversation. Everyone in Inglewood today is wondering "Do dreams come true?"

WIRT JURY SELECTION WILL GO ON

Shooting His Wife Laid to Man Who Assertedly Has Told of Fatal Affair

Efforts will be resumed today in Superior Judge Hardy's court to obtain a jury in the case of Lee Wirt, charged with murder in connection with the shooting last June of his wife, Frances Wirt.

The case was called for trial last week, but little progress was made in selecting a jury, owing to the hearing in Judge Hardy's court of contempt proceedings against Rev R. P. Shuler.

Wirt is asserted to have shot his wife during a quarrel over the pawning of a diamond ring. According to police who investigated the case, Wirt confessed shooting Mrs. Wirt, but declared he did so because she was unfaithful to him.

The case is being prosecuted by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Kemp, while Attorney R. E. O'Neill is representing Wirt.

"Ad" Men Will Hear Banker

Rome C. Stephenson, president of St. Joseph Trust and Savings Bank of South Bend, Ind., and vice-president of the American Banking Association, is to address the Advertising Club at its luncheon-meeting at the Biltmore tomorrow.

Stonier left Los Angeles two years ago to become educational director of the American Banking Institute of New York, and has been made a vice-president of the association.

DEATH CASE NOW NEAR TO FINALE

Arguments Scheduled for Today in Trial of Officer Charged With Slaying

Arguments to the jury are scheduled to get under way today in Superior Judge Wood's court in the case of William J. Bost, police officer, charged with murder in connection with the shooting July 4, last, of Christopher Sierra, 19-year-old Mexican.

Testimony was concluded Friday with Bost taking the witness stand in his own defense and denying that he shot Sierra. The State charges the police officer needlessly opened fire on the youth while attempting to arrest him on a misdemeanor charge.

The prosecution, which is being conducted by Dep. Dist.-Attys. Barnes and Scheinman, is asking life imprisonment. Bost is represented by Attorneys Cliff Thoms and J. W. Kearby.

The case probably will go to the jury late today or tomorrow morning.

Water Supply Held Imperiled by Oil Drillers

The water supply of Inglewood and adjoining cities being endangered by the drilling of oil wells through water-bearing strata, according to a communication from Otto H. Duelke, City Clerk of Inglewood, to be considered by the Board of Supervisors today.

Although the city has regulated drilling in its limits it is pointed out that wells in county territory just outside the city are being sunk without proper precautions. The letter asks a county ordinance governing the drilling of oil wells in relation to water supply.

TUNNEL FUND AVAILABLE

The Board of Education has informed the Council it is willing to pay half the cost, or a total of $14,112, toward the construction of three pedestrian tunnels which are designed for the particular benefit of the Virgil Junior High, the Western-avenue and the Melrose-avenue schools. This was referred to the City Engineer.

WESTERN TRADE TOURS PRAISED

Manufacturer Urges More to Join Boost Trips

Executives Told of Good Done by Contacts

Next Delegation Leaves Here on 15th Inst.

Trade tours of the Western States, conducted during the past two years by the Chamber of Commerce, have proven one of the most important factors for the development of new markets for industrial and manufacturing concerns in this area.

This comment was made here yesterday by Harry Harper, head of the local branch of a manufacturing firm and chairman of the chamber's domestic trade tours committee, who urged executives of more firms here to take part in the four-day tour that will be made through California, leaving here on the 15th inst.

"As a result of the success that has resulted from past tours, we will have a larger delegation this time than ever before, but I believe it is to the advantage of more manufacturers to either come themselves or send representatives to contact our neighboring markets," Harper said.

The tour will cover eighteen cities between Los Angeles and San Francisco, but in the latter city, the full day there will be devoted to making good-will contacts with officials of the metropolis.

OFFICIALS OF CHURCH SUMMONED

McPherson-Goben Clash Results in Conference Call by Latter

An open difference of opinion has developed again between Aimee Semple McPherson and Dr. John Goben, assistant pastor of Angeles Temple, according to Dr. Goben, who last night announced that he had wired the ten divisional officers of the international order to report to Los Angeles immediately for a conference.

"I feel very strongly that matters cannot continue as they are," said Dr. Goben last night. "I do not intend to surrender the democratic control of the organization to Mrs. McPherson without a fight. At the conferences last week it was my understanding that things would run as they are until the convention meets this winter at which time it would be taken up. Mrs. McPherson, I understand, says that the matter is settled and that she will have the appointive power which I feel belongs to the organization rather than to an individual. That is what I am fighting against."

Divisional officers from Ohio, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Texas, Oregon and British Columbia have been called in by Dr. Goben, he stated, and he expected that they will arrive in Los Angeles by Thursday, next.

"I was told that the amended articles of incorporation had been sent to the Secretary of State Friday by airplane. I received a wire Saturday morning from Secretary Jordan stating that the articles had not been filed," said Dr. Goben.

Efforts to obtain a statement from Mrs. McPherson last night were unavailing. At her home it was said that she had left for the night.

"I have brought over 300 churches with me and I do not intend to bring my friends into an organization in which they will have nothing to say," continued Dr. Goben.

HOPE FOR DRY LAW SIGHTED

Prohibition Adopted Only After All Other Attempts to Curb Drink Evil Failed, Says Liquor Foe

Prohibition was adopted by the citizens of the United States only after every other possible plan of dealing with the drink evil had been tried and found wanting, it was asserted by Dr. Ernest H. Cherrington, general secretary of the World League Against Alcoholism, in an address on "The Evolution of Prohibition" last night at Temple Baptist Church.

"If there was any slight mitigation of the evils of alcoholism, as the result of any plan that was tried out," he added, "it was due to the prohibitive features of that plan and never to the permissive features. The opportunity for testing out these methods, one by one, covered a period of 300 years. Eventually prohibition was found to be the only solution."

NOT A REVOLUTION

Therefore, Dr. Cherrington asserted, "national prohibition, like national solution of any great social, economic, moral and political problem, is not a revolution, but an evolution, which has followed the regular and orderly process of agitation, education and legislation."

When it finally was incorporated into the organic national law, Dr. Cherrington pointed out, prohibition was by no means an untried experiment. "At the time the Eighteenth Amendment went into effect," he said, "there were thirty-two dry States, and the thirty-third had voted dry; there were large dry areas in the remaining fifteen States; 68 per cent of the population of the country and 95 per cent of its land area already were under prohibition by local or State action."

In his evening address, Dr. Cherrington said that the fate of prohibition rests with the "men and women of tomorrow, many of whom were not born when the Eighteenth Amendment was adopted," and this thought was the main theme of an address he made yesterday morning at the First Methodist Episcopal Church entitled, "The Next Step." In this address he stressed the importance of the education of the youth of today as to the evils of the preprohibition era.

TRUTH MUST BE TOLD

"Four-fifths of the population of the United States under the age of 20 never saw a saloon," he said. "The young people today know much about the present distressing condition having to do with the alcohol problem and the enforcement of prohibition, but they know comparatively little about the conditions of yesterday.

"The final solution will not be in the hands of those who were responsible for writing the Eighteenth Amendment into the Constitution, but of those who know very little about the struggle leading up to that momentous decision.

"They must be told the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth about the nature and effect of beverage alcohol; about the struggle leading up to the adoption of national prohibition; about prohibition itself and about the systems which the foes of prohibition put forward as supplanters of the prohibition policy."

Company Owns and Operates Alexandria Here

Group on Coast Affiliated With Omaha String

Another addition to the Hamilton chain of hotels in California and Arizona was announced yesterday at the Alexandria here by Fay R. Smalley, assistant manager, following completion of negotiations for the taking over of Motel Inn at San Luis Obispo by Charles B. Hamilton and Harry M. Elliott. Mr. Elliott, who has been manager of the hostelry in the coast city for several years, retains an equal partnership in the hotel with Senator Hamilton, it was announced.

The hotel, built and operated by the Milestone Corporation as one of its chain of motor inns, will undergo extensive alterations and the guest capacity will be increased 25 per cent. Mr. Elliott will continue as resident manager.

The Hamilton chain includes, in addition to the Alexandria here, the Hotel Fresno, Fresno; the Marysville at Marysville; the Reynolds at Riverside; the Tracy Inn at Tracy, and the Monte Vista at Flagstaff, Ariz. The Hamilton chain is affiliated with the Epperly Hotels Company of Omaha, which operates a string of hostelries in the Middle West.

STARS DROP TWIN BILL BUT WIN SECOND HALF

WALTERS TURNS IRON MAN AND BEATS SHEIKS TWICE

Batsmen Held Helpless by Duck Hurler

BY BOB RAY

The curtain on the second-half race yesterday, with Hollywood Stars posing out the Missions because both teams lost double-headers, but there are several members of the audience who are wondering whether that funny odor was supposed to go with the show.

That the Sheiks won the second half and the right to tackle the Missions in the play-off for the championship may be charged to Walter John (Junk) Walters, Hollywood's vengeful fat man. Walters, who was fired by Hollywood for being too fat, proved to 11,000 fans in general and Hollywood players in particular that he is composed mostly of muscle of fat, by pitching the Sheiks to both victories. The scores were 9 to 1 and 9 to 2, entitle Mr. Walters to take a front seat in the Pacific League's iron-man club.

Unable to win the second-half race for themselves, the Stars simply turned into the play-off for the Seattle Indians, who consistently handed the Missions a couple of surprising drubbings, the two Mission defeats permitting the Stars to retain their one-game lead, despite the best efforts of Mr. Walters.

The Stars and Missions will begin the play-off for the pennant at Wrigley Field tomorrow. The first game will take place at Recreation Park and then the athletes will move to Wrigley Field to finish out the series.

HELLENBACK LOSES

Manager Vitt used Frank Shellenback on the mound against Walters in the opener, but the Ducks could get only two hits off the Sheik spitball king.

Indians Help Hollywood by Bumping Reds

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6. (AP)—The Seattle Indians closed the 1929 baseball season in a blaze of glory here today by winning both games of a double-header from the San Francisco Missions, winners of the first half of the split season. The Indians took the morning game, 7 to 3, gathering eighteen hits off McQuaid and Nelson, who were on the mound for the Reds. The night cap was a free-hitting affair with Seattle poling out fourteen hits and nine runs, including homers by Allington and Knothe. The Missions will meet Hollywood next week in a play-off for the Coast League pennant. Scores:

Huskies Much Better Than Tie Score Shows

Bagshaw Had Been Busy Aiming at Trojans

St. Mary's Superiority Over Bears Surprises

BY HOWARD JONES
Coach University of Southern California

(Copyright, 1929, by North American Newspaper Alliance.)

Montana's surprising feat in tieing the supposedly powerful University of Washington eleven at Seattle Saturday was one of those early season upsets which frequently bob up to startle grid fans of the country. The showing of the Montana team was totally unexpected for this eleven has not won a Pacific Coast Conference game since 1925, and has not been able to tie anybody until Saturday.

HOWARD JONES

It looks to me as if Coach Bagshaw of Washington was busily engaged in priming his team for the game with Southern California next Saturday. In doing this he undoubtedly overlooked Montana and in a way you can excuse him for doing that after glancing at Montana's record over the past five years.

LOSE CHANCES

The 6-to-6 tie game does not mean that Washington is not a first-class football team. In fact, the Huskies lost three scoring

Warner's Machine Has Lots of Power Behind It

California Misses Services of Charley Schmidt

BY PAUL LOWRY

Stanford is smoother offensively and apparently no weaker defensively than at this same period a year ago.

"POP" WARNER

California has a better offense, but misses hard-hitting Charley Schmidt, the fullback, to back up the line.

This is the lowdown on the caliber of the foes Mr. Howard Harding Jones's Trojan boys must battle on the gridiron within the next four weeks.

The Stanford game is played at Palo Alto the 26th inst., and the California game here one week later.

The information on California comes from Mr. Gordon Campbell, who was at Berkeley Saturday viewing the scoreless tie between St. Mary's and the Golden Bears. Mr. Campbell played for the Trojans when "Gloomy Gus" Henderson was the head coach.

The Stanford dope comes under the head of personal observation.

Stanford has offense—and plenty of it.

CARDS SHOW POWER

On all five touchdowns made by Pop Warner's boys against Oregon the drives started from midfield or better—two in the second quarter after Oregon had scored first on a long forward pass, two in the third quarter and one in the fourth quarter.

The first one began with a 10-yard runback of a punt from the

GAMS SEEKING GRID TITLE

Eleven in Running for National Crown Won Last Year by Southern California Athletes

BY RALPH HUSTON

Who will win the national football championship this year? Last year the Southern California Trojans were awarded the Dickinson system and Georgia Tech claimed it because of an unbeaten and untied record. This year, with more intersectional games than ever before, it is possible that some eleven will come through with an unbeaten and untied record that will be as outstanding as that of the famous "Four Horsemen" of 1924, who swept the entire nation into submission.

It is entirely too early to make predictions, it is fairly easy to pick the leading contenders.

JEFF CRAVATH

Only time remains to be seen. Any few of them can survive the season. Anyway, here they are:

EAST

Army, Boston College, Carnegie Tech, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Fordham, Harvard, Holy Cross, Lafayette, Navy, Penn State, Princeton, U., Penn State, Syracuse, Pennsylvania, Pittsburgh, Yale.

MIDWEST

SOUTH

Georgia Tech, Louisiana State, Texas Christian, Tulane, Alabama, North Carolina, Florida, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Texas, Vanderbilt, Virginia Poly.

WEST

Southern California, Stanford, California, Idaho, St. Mary's, Arizona.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN

Colorado Aggies, Colorado, Denver, Utah.

Last year the Army lost to Notre Dame and Stanford. This year the Cadets face those two elevens in addition to Harvard, Yale, and Illinois.

Boston College had an undefeated season last year, but this season includes Fordham and Holy Cross on its schedule.

Columbia, with Dartmouth, Cornell, Penn and Syracuse ahead can hardly be expected to survive.

Cornell will battle Penn, Princeton and Dartmouth, among others.

Dartmouth has to face Harvard, Yale and Navy; Fordham

WASHINGTON NOT SO TOUGH

Showing of Huskies Against Montana Indicates Win for Trojans Saturday Unless Grizzlies Have Improved Tremendously Over Recent Years

BY BRAVEN DYER

Howard Jones played golf yesterday afternoon, but his thoughts were far removed from the royal and ancient Scottish game. The Trojan mentor was cogitating heavily on what that Washington-Montana tie of last Saturday might mean in relation to Southern California's game with the Huskies in Seattle this weekend.

ERNIE PINCKERT

"I can't figure that out for the life of me," was the way he put it. "Of course, I know that Coach Bagshaw did not have his men keyed up for the Montana affair. But on the other hand I have no way of knowing just how strong Montana is. I do know this, however. Washington will be tougher than ever after what happened Saturday and we'll probably run into a team which is mad right down to its heels. I wish Montana hadn't been quite so strong."

Being 1500 miles from the seat of Saturday's upset doesn't qualify anybody to expert on the strength of Washington, but we'll hazard a guess that if Montana can buck the ball through the Huskies in one play from the 7-yard line Southern California will be able to do the same thing a couple of times or more.

OUGHT TO SCORE

You can't get away from the fact that Montana banged its way through the Washington line and offhand we'll guess that there aren't ten fans in Southern California who can name a Montana ball carrier. One would imagine that Russ Saunders, Jim Musick or Marshall Duffield might be able to score once or twice themselves. But, and the whole thing is strictly a matter of conjecture, the Grizzlies may be very tough after all and Washington may be entitled to a cheer for tieing 'em. The fact remains, however, that Montana hasn't won a conference game since 1925.

The Trojans will leave Wednesday night for Seattle. The team will stop in Tacoma the night before the game, staying at the Winthrop Hotel. Jones plans to take forty men with him.

Bob Hall, 215-pound sophomore tackle, is in the hospital with ptomaine poisoning and won't be able to make the trip unless he recovers in a hurry. Hall was stricken Saturday morning.

On the whole, Jones was pretty well satisfied with the way his regulars performed, despite the small score Saturday. If you go over the play-by-play you will see that the regulars did some heavy pounding once they got started in the first quarter and that they had a world of punch when they came back to start the second half. Personally, we suspect Jones of holding

TROJANS LEAD SCORING

Three Touchdowns Against Oregon State Enabled Local Team to Stay on Top; Cards Third

The three touchdowns which Southern California scored against Oregon State in the Coliseum Saturday were enough to keep the Trojans at the top of the column in the race for conference scoring honors. In the two games played Coach Howard Jones's athletes have run up 97 points against 7 for the enemy.

However, the lead probably won't last long, for this week-end, while the Trojans are battling the raging Washington Huskies, Stanford, just 13 points behind the Trojans, will be tangling with U.C.L.A., and while Bill Spaulding's hopefuls ought to do better than they did against the Trojans, the Cards are likely to run up a respectable total of points.

RUSS SAUNDERS

Washington State holds the distinction of being the only unscored-on conference team. Four teams have only one touchdown registered against them.

"Pete" Pederson, sensational find of Leo Calland's Idaho eleven, leads in individual scoring with 36 points to his credit, thanks to four touchdowns scored Saturday against the weak Whitman eleven. Diehl of the same squad, rates as the leading goal kicker with eight successful boots for the extra point.

Highlanders, Mercuries in Thrilling Tie

Soccer football made its seasonal bow yesterday afternoon at two fields when City League teams opened play on the 1929-30 schedule. At Loyola Field the Spanish-Americans celebrated their debut into City League soccer circles by soundly trouncing the Sons of St. George by a 3-to-1 score while the Los Angeles Athletic eleven and the Scots battled to a 4-to-4 tie in a hair-raising contest. At Tournament Park, Pasadena, the Hollywood Sheiks, champions of the local loop last season, got under way with flying colors by defeating the Vikings by a 5-to-1 score.

The feature game of the day was the contest at Loyola between the Mercuries and the Scots. This proved to be a torrid battle with first one team taking the lead and then the other. The Mercury eleven had a 3-to-1 lead at half-time but in the last section of the game the Scots caught up with them and then passed them only to be themselves overhauled in the final thirty seconds of the tilt.

The Mercury team was handicapped somewhat by having seven regulars on the side lines, according to their manager, Oscar Kozma. The spectators enjoyed the battle from the opening whistle.

City League officials predict they will have a banner season this year.

ST. IGNATIUS ELEVEN NOSES OUT WEST COAST ARMY, 7-0

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6. (AP)—St. Ignatius edged out a 7-to-0 victory today over the West Coast Army service football eleven at Kezar Stadium. The college team scored a touchdown in the third period on a short pass after recovering an Army fumble. It was the fourth successive defeat for the soldiers.

CUBS READY FOR SERIES

Chicago Club Exhibits Cocky, Rarin'-to-Go Spirit on Eve of Game With Athletics

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

CHICAGO, Oct. 6. (AP)—The Chicago Cubs, primed to lead the National League out of the world's series wilderness in which it has been wandering somewhat aimlessly for the past two years, came back to the home town today in scrappy, confident mood to wind up the season, receive the welcoming cheers of 25,000 fans and prepare for the opening interleague battle with the Philadelphia Athletics next Tuesday.

If the Cubs were annoyed by the loss of the last regular season's games to the Pirates at Wrigley Field or worried in the least by the fact that the A's, even along Michigan avenue, have been installed as world's series favorites, they did not manifest it. In the clubhouse after today's game, from the lean, taciturn Rogers Hornsby to the squat, pugnacious Hack Wilson and the gabby Leo Hartnett, the Chicago players exhibited the cocky, rarin'-to-go sort of spirit that recalled the attitude of such victorious series clubs as the Washington Senators of 1924 and the St. Louis Cardinals in 1926 under Hornsby.

JOE McCARTHY

ROOT OR MALONE

To justify his assertion that he isn't "worried at all about the outcome of the series," Manager Joe McCarthy came out of a shower bath to greet the eager correspondents, chat about anything they desired and satisfy their curiosity, at least partially, by declaring that his pitching choice for the opening game is narrowed down to a pair of fast-ball right-handers—Charley Root and Pat Malone. The expectation all along has been that Malone would draw the first game assignment, because of his steadiness and ability as an iron man. It was

ANGELS AND OAKS SPLIT LAST DAY'S DOUBLE BILL

OAKLAND, Oct. 6.—After losing this morning's game, 8 to 3, the Oaks closed the season by defeating the Angels, 5 to 3, this afternoon at Emeryville. The victory placed them in a tie for fifth place on the season's play.

Jim Edwards was the victim of the morning defeat, losing to Ed Baecht. He was given poor support and retired to let Charley Jeffcoat finish.

In the afternoon game, after getting off to a two-run lead in the first inning, the Angels were held almost helpless by Lou McEvoy, who made his final appearance with the Oaks. McEvoy reports to the New York Yankees next season. Scores:

Match Play Starts Today in Mercury Tourney; Dudley Enters Southern O

L. A. A. C. EVENT SETS NEW MARK WITH 209 ENTRIES

Hagen, Smith Program Tour of Northwest

Southern California's 1929 open golf championship, which starts over Sunset Fields Monday with an amateur-pro event, received a boost yesterday when it was announced that Ed Dudley would be among those participating in the tournament.

ED DUDLEY

"Big Ed," former professional of the Hollywood Country Club, a member of the Ryder Cup team, and one of the most popular pros in America, will add both color and class to the tourney.

At the same time word was received from Walter Hagen, British open champion, to the effect that he and Horton Smith would be unable to compete in the local championship as they are booked up with an exhibition tour through the Northwest and will not come south until early in November.

Dudley's entry makes Leo Diegel just a shade less of a favorite. Ed was Southern California P.G.A. champion last year and will be right at home. When on his game, Ed is capable of giving any golfer in the world a battle.

While Diegel, Charley Guest, Fred Morrison, Olin Dutra, and others are being ballyhooed as the favorites, not so much is being said about Willie I. Hunter of Montebello Park, holder of the title in 1926 and 1928. There was no tournament in 1927.

"Wee Willie" may be holding back on the boys, as he is always tough to beat at medal play, and will do his darnedest to retain the title.

Saw Harry Borde at Brentwood yesterday, and Harry says he will enter the amateur-pro with Joe Novak as his partner. Joe is the professional at Bel-Air, while Harry has won the Bel-Air club championship two years in a row.

Chuck Ward was also playing at Brentwood yesterday. The amateur star reports that he is playing well, and hopes to go far with Dutra as his partner.

Olin is hitting the ball as well as ever and recently won a bet that he would better par at Brentwood, and did it. He is seldom over 70 on his home links.

BEL-AIR TO HOLD ONE CLUB TOURNAMENT

Members of the Bel-Air Country Club will engage in one club tournament Saturday. Arguments are already rampant on the all-around ability of the one, two, three and four iron.

Prizes will be awarded for low gross, low net at full handicap, and match play against par.

BRENTWOOD SPENDS SURPLUS ON CLUBHOUSE AND COURSE

During the past three or four months the Brentwood Country Club has spent more than $12,000 of surplus earnings on the clubhouse and golf course, according to the club's official organ, the Brassie.

Fairways and greens are in excellent shape and under Billy Bell's advice, the club is planning to trap the fairway more severely to bring out more interesting shots.

GAINES WINS SANTA ANA MEDAL PLAY TOURNEY

Jack Gaines of the Girard Golf and Country Club yesterday won the seventy-two-hole medal play tournament staged at the Santa Ana Country Club with a total of 300. Dick Russell of Rio Hondo was second with 303.

CHEVY CHASE TOURNAMENT IN SECOND ROUND

Jimmy Reid, manager of the Chevy Chase Golf Club, yesterday announced the first round results of the anniversary tournament as follows:

Lee defeated La Vigne, 4 and 4.
Eddy defeated Hansen, 3 and 2.
Kiefer defeated Hampton, 1 up.
Nelson defeated Donaldson, 3 and 2.
Clarke defeated Havenstrite, 21 holes.
Horton defeated Neuenschwander, 6 and 5.

Marchetti's 71 Cops Low Gross Trophy

BY EDWARD LAWRENCE

First round of match play starts today in the first annual combined club tournament of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, which yesterday set a new record with 209 entries in the qualifying round played over the Riviera Country Club.

LESLIE A. HENRY

Initial matches may be played any time this week at the convenience of both players, but no match will be permitted off the first tee after 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon under penalty of forfeiture. Telephone numbers of all entrants may be obtained at Riviera.

After a check-up, it was announced that Milo Marchetti of the Rancho club, who qualified early Friday morning, had won low gross with a 71, which is par for the course. Low net resulted in a tie between Charley Paddock, 78-12-66, and W. G. Gatlin, 88-22-66.

Leslie A. Henry, president of the A.A.U., was low yesterday, and Bob Weaver, ex-prexy, was second with an 81. Bob is also president of the Rancho Golf Club.

Many noted athletes participated in the L.A.A.C. tournament, among which were Howard Jones, U.S.C. football coach, and Aubrey Devine, mentor of the Trojan frosh. Jones shot an 89, while Aubrey had an 85.

The championship flight will be played at scratch, but all other flights, of which there are eleven, will be at handicap. Three-quarters of the difference in strokes will be allowed.

A number of interesting first-round matches are scheduled. Marchetti should have little trouble defeating Paddock, who overdid himself with a qualifying score of 78.

Monte Rucker, former L.A.A.C. golf champion, meets Henry in what should prove to be an interesting match.

One of the best battles programmed brings W. W. Beckwith of Rancho and Dick Smith, defending Mercury champion, together. Beckwith is a cagey golfer, and may defeat Smith.

Frank C. Stevens, Jr., of Lakeside, runner-up in the California State championship in May, and one of the outstanding favorites, faces John M. Saunders.

Ernie Combs, Jr., of Virginia meets Stevens, Sr., and should win. Ernie is a keen match player and is liable to upset the dope and annex the title. He is the Southern California junior champion, and former California State junior title-holder.

Here are the pairings for first-round matches:

figured that McCarthy would get maximum results out of the big Irishman by using him at the outset. Tonight, however, although there was no official confirmation of it, the general understanding was that McCarthy had decided definitely to lead off with Root, presumably on the theory that he has returned to his best form. He scored a 1-0 shut-out in his last full game a week ago.

McCarthy, however, declared:

"I won't decide positively until tomorrow whether it will be Root or Malone. Right now I am on the fence. I think either can win but I expect to make a definite announcement early tomorrow."

The Cub pilot expects George Earnshaw, strong - armed right-hander of the A's, to be Connie Mack's opening selection. Mack, however, has kept his pitching ideas very much under cover, indicating that he would not decide until the day of the opening game. A number of observers expect Lefty Grove to be the starting twirler for the American Leaguers and there has even been the suggestion that Mack would cross up the dopesters and start the veteran spitballer, Jack Quinn.

To this McCarthy remarked briefly:

"I hope they do start Quinn."

IN GOOD TRIM

Although they have had a number of casualties, the Cubs as a whole are in good trim for the series. Hartnett is definitely out of the battle, McCarthy announced, but this has been taken for granted right along. Zach Taylor, who hurt a finger several weeks ago will start behind the bat in every game, barring another accident, although he may be obliged to give way for a pinch hitter at some stage of the proceedings.

If the way Field Captain Charley Grimm, performed at first base this afternoon is a criterion, he has fully recovered from his broken arm and layoff. Atwood English, shortstop, who has been out with an injured right thumb, also is ready to start. The thumb, in fact, bothers English more in handling his bat than it does in handling the ball.

"The boys are full of pepper," declared McCarthy, "and as for myself I feel more as though a load is off my shoulders, now that the regular season is over, rather than feeling any worry about the series. To me the hardest part was winning the pennant. The series won't be as tough in some respects as have been some of our annual city battles with the White Sox. You know we get lemons and everything else tossed at us on the South Side.

HUSKIES PLAYED UNDER WRAPS, DECLARES BARRY

BY SAM BARRY

Assistant Coach, University of Southern California.

ALBANY (Or.) Oct. 6.—The strong Montana team upset the dope by holding Washington to a 6-to-6 tie at Seattle Saturday afternoon. The Huskies were at least three touchdowns better than the Grizzlies but were content with the six - point margin scored in the first half and played listless ball the last two quarters.

SAM BARRY

The upset can be charged to two things. (1) The Huskies were playing under wraps and not keyed for the contest; (2) The unexpected strength shown by Montana in the second half and also the fact that a good showing or tie score was a moral victory for Montana.

STRENGTH IN THERE

Washington's strength cannot be underestimated, however, because any team that can hold its opponents for four downs inside the 5-yard line and then take the ball and by straight - line play carry it to the 1-yard line, a march of ninety yards, in three minutes, has plenty of offensive power. The play was halted by the gun ending the half.

The spark plug of the Washington team seems to be Merle Hufford and with this chap in the ball game Washington is a different team. The young sophomore replaced Johnson in the middle of the first quarter and carried the ball off tackle and around end for a march of 60 yards for the first touchdown. When Hufford was replaced by Pulver at the start of the third quarter the Huskies seemed to lose their punch and immediately became a defensive team.

Bagshaw showed a new backfield formation in the Montana game, the backs lining up in a close box formation and only going into kick formation when forced to do considerable passing in the last quarter.

POINTS FOR TROJANS

Washington has been pointing all season for the Southern California game and their determination to win this game forced them to underestimate the strong Montana team. The Huskies have plenty of power and Bagshaw will have his team right for the Southern California game because in winning this game he will be made at Washington.

The grid fans are eager to see the motion-picture football players, as the Trojans have been named by the sport writers in the Northwest, and regardless of the Montana game Southern California will face one of the strongest teams on the Coast next Saturday.

Bagshaw seems set on his semi-punt formation and no doubt will put this into effect again with Southern California. It differs somewhat from his old formation because the entire backfield is closer to the line of scrimmage with the back man not over seven yards from the ball.

This formation enables Bagshaw to get fast backs like Hufford and Johnson with quick opening plays and also keeps Thornton, a good passer and kicker on the back positions. Thornton has been doing the bulk of the kicking and also most of the passing, although Geehan passed some in the Whitman game. Jenkins is the best punter, but with his loss the Washington squad does not look dangerous in the kicking game.

There has been practically no rainfall in Sattle the last ten days and consequently the field is in good condition. The soil on the field is composed of sand and clay and the footing is good. It will take a great deal of rain to train the field and, in fact, with a heavy rain the footing ought to be better than on grass or clay turf because the substance makes a sort of grit that is not as slippery as clay.

HINKLEY DEFEATS ACE IN LEGION AUTO RACE

Forging to the front in the sixty-second turn when Mel Kenealy in his Simplex Piston Special was forced out with a broken drive shaft, Speed Hinkley, local dirt-track ace, yesterday copped the 100-lap grind at the American Legion speedway. Fred Mermey, Denver race driver in a Fronty Ford took second place, while Fred Cooper, in his Green Special won third-place honors. The winning time, 53m. 49.7s., was fast, considering the fact that Hinkley made a stop for water. This makes the first time in six starts that Kenealy has dropped a decision on the Alhambra oval.

SPEED HINKLEY

With Harry Hartz and Barney Oldfield, famous race drivers, setting the pace for the start, the fifteen mounts that took part in the grind got away to a beautiful start. Mel Kenealy jumping to the front and taking the lead at the very start of the race. The grind had not gone two laps when Kenealy was leading the field by half a lap, while the rest of the mounts kept well bunched up, up to the fifth turn when they began to string out.

Mel McKee, piloting a Fratella Special, was the first to drop out of the race, his mount developing carburetor trouble in the fifteenth turn. In the meantime Kenealy was piling up a commanding lead, pushing his car a lap ahead of his closest competitor and more than three laps ahead of the rest of the field.

Tony Radetich, Arizona bronco buster, gave the 9000 or so fans a series of thrills, taking three spins in front of the stands. Radetich was replaced by Kenny Stoddard on the twenty-fifth turn, officials stating that the former's driving would endanger the rest of the entrants. By the time the fiftieth turn got around, Kenealy had outstripped the entire field by more than two laps, while Speed Hinkley, who drove at a steady pace, held second place, and Fred Mermey was in third place.

Kenealy being forced out in the sixty-second lap, Hinkley took the lead and from then on held same till the end of the gruelling grind. G. L. Smith, Portland (Or.) dirt-track ace, proved to be a dangerous competitor, pushing his Deulen Special from one of the last positions to second place in the seventy-third lap. Smith was forced out in the seventy-fifth turn with engine trouble, his car stopping completely while in the north side of the oval.

In the twenty-five-lap consolation race for those who failed to qualify, Ernie Triplettis, piloting a new mount, and Bill Heisler in his Fronty Ford, put up a hot fight for the victory. Heisler led the field for twenty-one laps, when Triplettis forged ahead of him, only to lose the race in the last turn when his car developed oil-pressure trouble.

The motorcycle and sidecar races which were inaugurated two weeks ago proved so popular with the fans that two ten-lap races were included in yesterday's program. Tuffy Jacobs captured the first ten-lap grind, while Tex Bryant showed his dust to the rest of the field in the second race.

Following are the complete results:

Event No. 1—Ten laps, motorcycle race: Won by Tuffy Jacobs; Baily, second, and Newman third. Time, 5m. 39.8s.

Event No. 2—Twenty-four lap consolation race for cars failing to qualify: Won by Bill Heisler; Ernie Triplettis, second, and Art Boyce, third. Time: 12m. 28.9s.

Event No. 3—Ten laps, motorcycle and side-car race: Won by Tex Bryant; Bob Newman, second; Bud Olsen, third. Time: 6m. 8.9s.

Event No. 4—One hundred laps. Won by Speed Hinkley; Fred Mersney, second; and Fred Cooper, third. Time, 53m. 49.7s.

TOWNSEND READY FOR GO

Blond Timber Wolf is Sure He Will Repeat Win Over Wildcat Carter Tomorrow Night

Billy Townsend may not put on his gloves until he enters the ring Tuesday night at the Olympic when he boxes Wildcat Carter, negro sensation from the Northwest.

BILLY TOWNSEND

Ordinarily boxers lace on the gloves in the presence of inspectors in their dressing-rooms. Due to the fact Carter claims Townsend had "loaded" gloves when they fought in Seattle about a month ago the commission may deviate from the usual proceedings.

Townsend is willing to satisfy Carter and his new managers, Joe Waterman and Art Hudkins, by fighting barehanded if that would prove anything.

Jack Allen, who manages Townsend, is taking all the bets he can get that Townsend will again knock Carter out. The negro was stopped in two rounds at Seattle after being floored four times. In another fight between the two Carter was dropped once, but came back to win the fight on points.

On paper the match between Carter and Townsend promises to be just as much of a thriller as the Goldie Hess-Eddie Mack bout which sold the Olympic out.

Eddie Mack is due to arrive here tomorrow from Denver. He may be sent against the winner on the 22nd inst., the week ahead of the Mickey Walker-Ace Hudkins world's championship bout.

ing the score down. Such things have been done, you know.

SAUNDERS STAYS AT QUARTER

Despite the fact that Duffield looked better than Saunders Saturday there will be no changes in the way Jones has been employing his various backfield aces. And those who know Jones also know why this is.

Go over his plan of battle in years gone by and you will notice that he has always preferred a bulky, smashing quarterback for his first-quarter work. He did this with Kaer and Cook, Drury and Kaer and Drury and Williams. Last year he had nobody to precede Williams, but experimented with Saunders and Lloyd Thomas at quarter in some games.

Saunders is a hard runner. Troy's opponents take a pounding when he's in there and more than that they close in on the line and pull up their secondary defense. Then, zowie! In go Duffield and Jess Hill and the Trojans sweep the ends and throw their passes. So, until something unexpected happens, you can expect to see Saunders at quarter, followed up by Duffield.

Oregon State really had no offense to speak of, so the Trojans are still considerably untried in the art of defensive playing. However, against such stuff as the visitors did present, the Trojan line looked very good and the S.C. backs covered passes in a capable manner. Those tosses which were completed gained nothing to speak of.

PINCKERT SHINES

As long as he plays as he did Saturday Ernie Pinckert will remain at outside halfback. He blocks with the effectiveness of Lloyd Thomas, and that's saying a lot. When called into the back position he can carry the ball just about as well as Saunders. His pass to Arbelbide over the goal line was exceptionally well executed.

Bart Spellman, Washington line coach, was in the press box taking copious notes on Troy's formations Saturday. Alongside of him sat Herman Brix, former Washington tackle, who is now a big shot putter for the Los Angeles Athletic Club. The Trojans did not uncover much stuff and it is doubtful if the plays taken down by the two Husky scouts will be of much value to Bagshaw.

While the Trojans are in the north Stanford will be here to play U.C.L.A. in the Coliseum. It ought to be a romp for the Cardinals, but there will undoubtedly be a large crowd out to see what the 1929 Redshirt brigade looks like.

Pop Warner probably will not be among those present. It seems logical that the veteran Stanford mentor will hie himself to Seattle, there to have a look at Jones's Trojans in their mansuvers with Mr. Bagshaw's behemoths.

BROWNS COP TWO FROM CLEVELAND

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 6. (AP) — The St. Louis Browns ended the 1929 season today by taking a double-header from Cleveland, 4 to 2, and 4 to 1. The Browns, who finished third in the American League race last year, wound up in fourth position this year, two games behind the Indians. Stieley, a southpaw from the Texas League, won the first game for the Browns, and Kimsey all but shut out the Indians in the final game. Scores:

TEAMS SEEKING NATIONAL TITLE

will meet Holy Cross and New York University; Harvard, Army, Florida, Michigan and Yale; Holy Cross has any number of hard games ahead, as has Lafayette; New York University faces Fordham and Georgetown; Navy takes on Notre Dame, Princeton, Pennsylvania and Dartmouth; Penn State plays Pennsylvania and Pittsburgh, among others; Princeton meets Navy, Chicago and Yale; Syracuse plays Penn State, Nebraska and Brown; Pennsylvania meets California, Navy, Penn State and Cornell; Pittsburgh must meet Nebraska and Penn State; Yale tackles Georgia, Dartmouth, Princeton and Harvard.

TOUGH COMPETITION

Carnegie Tech, which comes west to meet the Trojans, tackles Washington and Jefferson, Pittsburgh, New York University and Notre Dame before heading west.

If you can pick any team to emerge from that mess with an unblemished schedule, you're a great prognosticator, and your team's a champion.

The rest of the leading contenders face equally tough schedules. Any Big Ten team has a tough row to hoe in its conference games, and most of them play intersectional contests, which don't help the average any. For instance, Chicago hooks up with Princeton and Washington; Illinois tackles Army; Michigan meets Harvard; Ohio State engages Pittsburgh and Navy; Northwestern meets Notre Dame; Minnesota entertains Vanderbilt; Wisconsin meets Notre Dame.

The Irish probably have the toughest schedule in the country. They opened their season Saturday with a 14-0 victory over Indiana, and now must face Navy, Wisconsin, Carnegie Tech, Georgia Tech, Drake, Southern California, Northwestern and Army on successive Saturdays, without a break!

Nebraska meets Pittsburgh, Oklahoma, Syracuse and Missouri.

Georgia Tech started out well with a victory over Mississippi A. & M., which was undefeated last year, but has Florida, Notre Dame, Vanderbilt, Alabama and Georgia yet to face. All of the Texas teams are tough, and few elevens in the Southwest conference every year come through undefeated. Louisiana State had an undefeated season last year, but meets tougher competition this season. Florida, undefeated last year, has another great team in the making, but must conquer Georgia Tech, Georgia and Harvard on successive Saturdays if it hopes to win the national crown.

BEARS FALTER

California's failure to win over St. Mary's drops the Bears down a bit. Stanford and Southern California appear to be the outstanding teams, while Idaho, with a cleverly arranged schedule, that is climaxed with a game with the Trojans in the local Coliseum, may spill all the dope and snatch conference honors.

In the Rocky Mountain Conference, Utah, which was undefeated but tied twice last year, has a great chance to repeat. Denver, with Jeff Cravath at the helm, may be the surprise of the

Stanford 45-yard line. A 25-yard pass from Smalling to Muller, followed by line plunges which saw Hillman and Smalling alternating finally sent Smalling over the line from the 1-foot mark.

The second drive started from the Stanford 35-yard line with a lateral pass from Rothert to Moffatt for 17 yards. More line plunges and reverses and Moffatt skirted Oregon's left end from the 3-yard line for the score.

A 28-yard runback of one of Fitzmiller's punts by young Moffatt from the Stanford 15-yard line paved the way for the third drive—this in the third quarter—which wound up with Rothert shooting a Brick Muller heave for forty-five yards to Mush Muller (no relation to Brick.) Muller carried the ball fourteen yards and was finally thrown on the 1-yard line, from which point Herby Fleishhacker plunged over.

Late in the same period the fourth drive got under way from the Oregon 45-yard line. Moffatt just missed another of Rothert's long heaves, Fleishhacker bounced through center for twenty-five yards on a fake reverse, and from the 7-yard line Moffatt went over for the fourth score on a reverse.

The fifth drive—in the final period—started with Rintala's 28-yard runback of a punt from Stanford's 10-yard line, and wound up with Rothert shooting a 25-yard pass to Bush, a substitute end.

That's the story of the Stanford driving power.

Against it Oregon, highly touted because of its veteran team, was impotent.

OREGON TRIED HARD

And Oregon tried all manners of means to stop the Stanford thrusts through line and air.

On first down Oregon would play a seven-man line on defense, on second down six men, coming to five men on the line with six on the secondary defense when it was likely that Stanford would try a forward pass.

But in spite of all the men roaming on the secondary line Oregon couldn't stop Stanford's forward and lateral pass attack.

Before the Stanford-Oregon game old Pop Warner was cornered in his home at Palo Alto, and asked to make a few remarks about the impending battle with the Trojans "Well," said Pop, with the ash hanging to his fag and the smoke curling lazily upward, "I know that Howard Jones is laying for me this year.

"But," and Pop paused to knock off half a fag length of ash, "I'm laying for him, too.

"It will be a real battle this year—always has been, as a matter of fact."

PRAISES JONES

Old Pop paused again, and then this veteran of thirty-four football campaigns as a coach, paid a hearty compliment to Howard Jones.

"Howard Jones is one of the best sports I ever knew. Ever since he has been at the helm Southern California has played good, clean, sportsmanlike football. His teams reflect his sportsmanship. There has never been any rough stuff.

"He is fair in every way—even in the little things.

"Before the game in Los Angeles last year there was a question about taking our teams to the dressing-rooms or saving time by leaving them on the field.

"Jones left it up to me, and we agreed not to go back to the dressing-rooms. I didn't want a phone from the press box to the bench, so Jones agreed not to use one.

"I enjoy every game we have with Southern California because win or lose the contest has been hard fought with a team which reflects the sportsmanship of one of this country's finest sportsmen."

Warner also paid a tribute to Jones's shift.

"I don't like shifts," he said, "but I think the one Jones uses at Southern California is the best I've ever seen."

Warner was noncommittal on the outcome of the Pacific Coast Conference race, but inclined to the belief that Washington was being under-rated, and that Baggy Bagshaw has been unjustly criticised.

"Bagshaw," he said, "coaches powerful, conservative football. It is the type of game best suited to the muddy fields they have in the Northwest.

"In the five years I have been on the Coast Washington has given Stanford constant trouble.

"Last year, for example, Washington gave us more trouble than any other team on the Coast.

"We won the game, it is true, but Washington made more yards and was better defensively against us than all the other elevens.

"That includes the Southern California game, which we lost 10 to 0 by tossing away our chances and in which the Trojans failed to make a first down except on forward passes."

The Washington game Warner refers to was won by Stanford, 12 to 0, and the Cards had to take to the air to turn the stubborn defense of the Huskies.

California also had a hard time beating Washington the week previous, 6 to 0, and California was the team that tied both Stanford and Southern California last fall.

Of course, what that 6-6 tie between Montana and Washington last Saturday means is another story—one the Trojans can fathom at Seattle this week-end.

Blues Swell Series Lead

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 6. (AP) With a 6-to-2 victory over the Rochester Red Wings here today, the Kansas City Blues took a two-game lead in the little world series. Tom Sheehan allowed the International League champions only six hits. The teams leave here tonight for Rochester where they resume play in the series Tuesday. The Red Wings have won one game in the series.

HUSKY BATTLE HARD TO DOPE

chances which might easily have turned the game into a victory. At the close of the first half Washington had the ball on Montana's 1-foot line. In the second half the Huskies lost two possible touchdowns, one on a penalty and another when a pass was batted down on the goal line.

I am not trying to take credit away from Montana for its game fight against terrific odds, but the fact remains that Washington is probably a much better team than the score indicates.

The California-St. Mary's scoreless tie was not entirely unexpected, but the failure of the Golden State Bears to prove superior to their rivals certainly was. Some statistics on the game are of interest in that they show California to have been outplayed pretty thoroughly by Slip Madigan's team.

California gained but eighty-six yards from scrimmage as against 168 for St. Mary's. In passes California totaled but thirty-three yards, St. Mary's registering eighty-three.

Dick Boyle and Mack Stennett, two hard-running backs, were towers of strength to St. Mary's, the former being the ground-gaining star of the day with eighty-five yards in sixteen attempts.

In the fourth quarter St. Mary's had first down on California's 3-yard line but was unable to shove the ball over. California fumbled twice when scoring chances presented, but the Bears never got dangerously close to their rivals' goal line.

Of course, the game was not a conference contest and it is true that Coach Price did not point his men for the contest, while the St. Mary's players would rather beat California than anybody on their schedule. Madigan deserves a lot of credit for the fine showing of his team. His elevens have always been a thorn in the side of Coast Conference squads. While upsets such as this scoreless tie are a temporary blow to any team, they also always have a good effect in that a team generally comes back strong and is not prone to overconfidence.

CARDS HAVE EDGE

Stanford's lopsided victory over Oregon was just about what I had predicted, although the score was a trifle higher. As a result of this triumph Stanford stands out as the strongest team on the coast and it will take a mighty powerful eleven to beat Coach Warner's aggregation. Stanford's victory over Oregon was a far more noteworthy feat than Southern California's defeat of Oregon State, for Oregon had been touted as the best team that university had in twenty years, while Oregon State was known to be minus much of its last year's strength.

Stanford's superiority was tremendous in all departments. The Cardinals made twenty-six first downs to but three for Oregon. They registered 322 yards on running plays to a mere thirty-six for their foes. In passes, Stanford totaled 231 yards to Oregon's ninety-four.

Harlow Rothert, the big shot putter, was Stanford's main ground gainer, running up ninety-two yards for an average of 4.3 yards per crack. He is rapidly developing into one of the outstanding backs on the Pacific Coast.

Walter Heinecke, Fleishbacker, Hillman and Muller are proving to be bulwarks to Stanford and they are among the best men now playing in this section.

As a result of their defeat the Oregonians are definitely out of the race for the championship.

Our game with Oregon State showed that the Southern California players are coming along. Steponovich in particular is showing a fine spirit and is doing some excellent playing. He paved the way for our first touchdown by blocking a punt in midfield. All of our scores came in the second quarter, one on a buck by Fullback Musick and the others on passes to Arbelbide, an end.

Idaho's lopsided win over Whitman indicates that Leo Calland is going to have a better team than a lot of folks suspect.

Coach Schissler's team will undoubtedly be somewhat stronger later in the year, as he has some new men in his line.

Bryce Nosler made one of the longest runs of the season when he got one of our punts and returned the ball seventy yards for a touchdown late in the fourth quarter.

STARS WIN SECOND HALF

baller to run up an early three-run lead. That was all Walters needed, for he breezed serenely along and would have had a shutout but for a slight mistake in the eighth inning. Junk's error in judgment was to pitch Rumler a fat slow ball and Bad Bill gently but firmly walloped it over the left-field wall to save the Stars the embarrassment of a shutout.

After taking a short rest between games, Walters came back in the nightcap to win even easier. In this game the Ducks gave their newly found "iron man" a healthy lead that expanded to the proportion of nine runs. But once more a shutout victory escaped Walter's grasp, the Stars chasing over a couple of runs in their final turn at bat.

Hollywood used no less than five pitchers in the nightcap. Augie Johns, George Holleron, Hank Hulvey, Joe Marty and Buzz Wetzel all seeing action. Johns was charged with the defeat.

Walters limited the Sheiks to six hits in each game and for the most part made Skipper Vitt's prospective champions look like a lot of bushers swinging at his well-mixed assortment of stuff.

Oscar Vitt did his best to get Walters's goat but the Portland hurler refused to be "got" and spent most of the afternoon giving the Hollywood skipper the horse laugh as he mowed down the Stars like last spring's alfalfa.

VITT PINCH-HITS

With the Stars certain of winning the second half because of Seattle's afternoon victory, Vitt finally answered the fans' pleas to pinch hit. Walters tossed 'em up to Oscar and retired him on a roller to Staley.

The Hollywood fans put on their weekly Sunday cushion shower, much to the displeasure of Mr. O. Reichow, yesterday but they had to get their enthusiasm from the Seattle scoreboard. The Stars couldn't inspire 'em.

Portland sawed up the first game as early as the third inning, by which time Shellenback had been touched for three of the Ducks' four runs. Singles by Chatham and Staley and a double play gave the visitors a tally in the first, while singles by Woodall, Staley and Keesey and Johnson's double produced the other two markers in the third.

The Stars threatened on three or four occasions, but Walters served up nothing but goose eggs until Rumler got his homer in the eighth.

The Ducks got that run right back in the ninth, when Tomlin singled and completed the circuit around the paths on Woodall's bunt and Chatham's hit to center.

Portland continued its run-getting tactics into the first inning of the second game, when Chatham singled, took second on a passed ball and tallied on Sigafoos's hit. Johns, who started, was relieved by Hollerson after Sigafoos's single.

Hollerson was touched for another run by the Ducks in the second on Bates's double and Tomlin's single did the dirty work. Portland scored again in the fourth, when Keesey tripled off the center-field wall and came in on the first of Walters's three successive singles.

Hulvey was pitching for Hollywood in the sixth, when the Ducks scored their fourth run. Sigafoo's triple and Bates's single produced the run. Vitt called in both Marty and Wetzel before the side was retired in this round.

An error by Heath paved the way for Portland's final five scores in the seventh. With men on second and third and two out, Heath dropped Wetzel's throw of Bates's grounder for what would have been the third out. Two runs scored on the boot and then Walters's single and Tomlin's homer over the left-field fence gave the Portlanders three more.

A walk to Heath, Carlyle's single, a double by Albert, batting for Wetzel, and a passed ball gave the Stars their two runs in the home half of the seventh. Scores:
